GERMANS PAY TRIBUTE AT BIER OF HINDENBURG

Controversy Arises Over Burial Plans.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—While Adolf Hitler, who has named himself as the supreme ruler of Germany, was reorganizing his gigantic work to include the duties formerly shouldered by the late President Paul von Hindenburg, men and women of all nationalities were among the mourners who quietly tiptoed through the Von Hindenburg castle at Neudeck, East Prussia, today to pay a last homage to the field marshal-president, who died yesterday.

Von Hindenburg was a picture of majestic peace, lying in a room of Spartan simplicity. His small bedroom was almost filled by the plain brass bed and the four officers of the death watch, standing immovable with drawn sabers. Roses on the bedspread and a wreath from the Koenigsberg garrison were the only spots of color in the darkened room into which a few rays of sunshine came through the shutters.

Hindenburg Treasures on View.

In Von Hindenburg's nearby study of paneled dark wood and in the library family treasures could be seen. There was the spiked helmet which the late warrior had brought to his mother in 1866, pierced by a bullet which nearly killed him at the battle of Koeniggraetz. There were cases full of documents of towns and organizations which claimed Von Hindenburg as their honorary citizen or dignitary. There was a bullet riddled garnet on the floor of the library to which Von Hindenburg would point when telling the story how he shot two burglars who broke into his villa at Hanover in 1922.

A tiny room is at the end of the hall, "the fireplace room," where the late president and his guests would sit together in the cool East Prussian evenings before a blazing fire and exchange hunting yarns and reminiscences. Over the fireplace is an inscription, "Fidelity Is the Mark of Honor."

Occasionally Von Hindenburg's guests would go out into the hall and look at his hunting trophies. It was Von Hindenburg's pride that among close to fifty stag antlers in this hall there were none of less than twelve points.

Von Papen Visits Castle.

From his favorite seat beside the fireplace, now covered with flowers and oak leaves, the president could look at a pastel portrait of his wife, who died in 1921. In his study are a bust of former Kaiser Wilhelm as a young man, a portrait of Count Helmuth von Moltke, the sword of honor presented to him by Japan, and other decorations.

As THE TRIBUNE correspondent was leaving the castle Baron Franz von Papen, former vice chancellor and now awaiting acceptance by the Austrian government as special envoy to that country, emerged from the death room visibly shaken by his visit to the deathbed of the man who called him "my best comrade."

Out in the park friends of the family took visitors on a pilgrimage around the estate. There was a tree which Von Hindenburg planted as a small boy when visiting his grandmother. There was a bench on a hill which the president had turned around so he could watch his grandchildren making mud pies at the same spot where he indulged in this sport as a little boy.

Plan Memorial on Grounds.

There was a spot on the far side of a nearby valley where the family plans to erect a memorial to the president in full view of the family castle. Finally, visitors were taken to the tiny Neudeck cemetery and shown the bench on which Von Hindenburg sat beside the family vault every day before his illness forced him to stay indoors.

While the German nation was preparing to unite in mourning next Tuesday, the day of Von Hindenburg's funeral, when old time generals will assemble to pay their last tribute to their old leader, Gen. Eric Ludendorff, his closest comrade and collaborator in the days of the world war, will remain far away in Munich. Ludendorff's publisher said the general, who has cut himself off from the rest of the world, is not planning to attend the burial.

Some friends are trying to reach him and urge him to attend, believing that it would be possible to effect a reconciliation between Hitler and Ludendorff on this occasion. To date nobody has succeeded.

There was some confusion today concerning funeral plans. Yesterday

JOHNSON TAKES HAND IN YARDS STRIKE PARLEYS

Hope for Peace; New Conference Today.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery administrator, conferred at length yesterday with representatives of the live stock handlers' union in an effort to settle the union's strike at the stockyards. The meeting ended without immediate success, but the general abandoned his plan to leave Chicago last evening, and said that he would stick to the mediation attempt until "some composure" be attained.

FREDERICK H. PRINCE.

While no basic plan of settlement had been agreed on, progress yesterday, it was learned from other sources, gave rise to the feeling that a peace pact might reasonably be hoped for today.

Hardest Problem Yields a Bit.

For the first time since the strike began on July 24, it was reported, some semblance of agreement was approached on the question of a guarantee of enough work to extra stock handlers employed by the stockyards company to give them a minimum wage of $20 a week. In past peace conferences this question, one of the twelve demands made by the striking union of 800 stock handlers, has always proved the "sticking point."

Redmond S. Brennan, attorney for the union, called at Gen. Johnson's suite in the Drake hotel yesterday morning, but was told that the general was still sleeping. With Brennan were John Gorman, president of the union, and John Sprecher, financial secretary.

Calls Federal Labor Officials.

The union representatives finally got an audience at 2 p. m. After an hour's conference Gen. Johnson summoned Carl Steffensen, executive secretary of the NRA regional labor board, and Robert M. Pilkington, one of the three federal department of labor conciliators, who have been seeking to compose the strike since it started. They arrived bringing with them a file of all the proposals and counter proposals made during eleven days of discussion.

A number of others were summoned to the conference, being conducted to the room by a private elevator, until at one time there were seventeen persons present. Among them, it was understood, were representatives of the stockyards company.

Tries to Reach Prince.

Persistent reports came from the conference room that Gen. Johnson had attempted to communicate with Frederick H. Prince of Boston, principal stockholder of the stockyards company.

Mr. Prince, when last accounted for, was on a yacht cruise in the Atlantic. He was asked to intervene in the strike shortly after it started, and answered that he had full confidence in the ability of local officials of the company to handle the problem.

The conference broke up at 6:30 p. m. and Gen. Johnson saw newspaper men half an hour later. He had little to tell them, however, other than that he would continue his mediation efforts today. He would not discuss the progress made.

The union held a meeting last evening at which its officers gave their members a report on the proceedings.

All Quiet in the Yards.

Meanwhile everything remained quiet along the strike front at the stockyards. The first day in which commission merchants resumed sale of commercial cattle passed without any incidents of violence.

One report that a few bricks had been thrown at a single cattle truck could not be substantiated.

The commission merchants had to handle their own cattle. Their 400 employés, members of a union affiliated with the striking stock handlers, have refused to return to work so long as the nonunion help employed by the stockyards company to replace the strikers remains on the job. The stockyards company increased its force to 550 men yesterday.

Some commission men are known to have advised stockmen to ship by rail during the difficulties.

Yesterday's shipments were light, as they are in normal times at the end of the week. Monday will see probably the first heavy shipments and the first test of the ability of the present organization in the stockyards to handle them.

Court Upholds Jail Term for Code Violator

New York, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Supreme Court Justice William Harman Black today upheld a three month jail sentence imposed on Gordon S. Harris, automobile dealer, on a charge of violating the motor vehicle retail code. Harris was remanded to the Tombs to serve his term.

The sentence was imposed in lieu of payment of a $500 fine upon Harris' conviction. He was accused of selling an automobile for $50 less than the list price.

First Conviction.

Harris was the first person found guilty in New York City of violating the act. His attorney, William A. Blank, contended the act did not provide for jail sentences.

Holding that Harris had violated the Schackno act, passed in New York in 1933, the court said the Schackno act was passed to fortify the national recovery act by providing a plan of enforcement for the code of fair competition for the motor vehicle trade and other codes in New York state.

Imprisonment Provided.

Of the dispute over the penalties provided by the act the court said:

"The correct construction is that the relator can be fined $500, and that if he does not pay he can then be imprisoned for nonpayment of the fine.

"The statement has been made that the realtor lives in New Jersey, and, if his counsel's contention is correct, in order to avoid the fine all he would have to do would be to say: 'I haven't the $500. I am sorry.' After which he could retire to his home in New Jersey and leave the fine unpaid.

Would Halt Enforcement.

"Such action would remove every enforcement tooth in the act. Certainly the legislature could have intended no such proceeding.

"In the opinion of the court, the legislature could only have meant that the fine would be first imposed, and that if that was not paid, then the punishment would follow."

GETS $1,359 IN RELIEF FUNDS; POLICE SAY HE OWNS 7 RACE HORSES

New York, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—A father of nine children, who had received $1,359 in city relief in Brooklyn in the last three years, was arrested today after investigation indicated he was the owner of a fifty acre farm in New Jersey and a stable of seven racing horses. Detectives said the horses were registered with the New York Jocky club.

The prisoner, Pasquale Mucciolic, 47, was arrested at an office of the Home Relief bureau in public school 230, Brooklyn, after he had signed a receipt for another home relief check.

He was booked on a charge of obtaining relief money fraudulently and was ordered to appear tomorrow at a hearing in Flatbush Magistrate's court.

'He-Man' Raft Wages Defense of 'Lifted' Face

The doorman bowed and scraped and in came George Raft, sleek haired film star who once was a box fighter.

Mr. Raft, who plays regular he-man parts, naturally was followed by his bodyguard, Mack [Killer] Grey, it being the habit of prize fighters and he-man movie heroes to employ husky gents to preserve them from injury. Grey, incidentally, is considerable of an athlete, being a professional weight lifter and wrestler.

So All May See.

Mr. Raft strolled leisurely between the tables to permit all and sundry to view him. Mr. Killer Grey trailed a respectful pace behind.

Sam Satz, man-about-town and nephew of the owner of a chain of drug stores, sat at a nearby table. Mr. Satz had two girl friends with him. Perhaps that emboldened him, for he suddenly remarked:

"There go a couple of boys who just had to be beautiful."

Sir, How Dare You?

Raft and Grey were outraged. They decided Satz was making unseemly comment on the fact that they each recently had his face lifted and ears decauliflowered.

Each issued a battle gage and Mr. Satz chose Raft; he appeared less horrendous than the weight lifting Grey.

Adjournment was taken to a parking space nearby. They were followed by most of the diners, including Carole Lombard, Judith Allen, June Collyer, Mona Harris, Jack Haley, and William Frawley.

Pardon Me, Madame!

The movie star swung one from the heels and it bounced off Satz's jaw so hard that his elbow connected with the chin of "a lady from Des Moines" and knocked her cold.

When police arrived ten minutes later both combatants were well battered, but Raft had the decision with four knockdowns. Satz's telling blow was a swing which undid the repair work on Raft's cauliflower ear.

"I've got a bump on my head and some of George Raft's blood on my handkerchief for a souvenir," the lady from Des Moines announced triumphantly. She was one of several women who hurriedly produced handkerchiefs and dipped them in the gore spilled on the ground of the parking lot.

Robbers Kill Human Shield in Bar Holdup

John Guth, 28 years old, 4851 South Wood street, was shot and fatally wounded yesterday by four men who used him as a shield in the holdup of a saloon at 7320 South Damen avenue. Eli Farco, 42 years old, 7322 South Damen avenue, bartender in the saloon, was wounded in the shoulder by the bandits, who took $25 in the robbery and escaped in an automobile in which a fifth man was waiting.

Guth was one of a dozen customers in the saloon when the robbers entered, seized him as a shield, placed a shotgun at his back, and ordered the others in the saloon to lie on the floor.

Slow to Obey, Shot.

One of the robbers shot Farco and struck another customer on the head with a pistol butt when they were slow in dropping to the floor.

The men then seized the money from the cash drawer and started to back out to the street, still using Guth as a shield.

George Dudas, 7205 South Lincoln street, son of Peter Dudas, owner of the saloon, entered from the rear as the bandits were leaving and fired at them with a revolver. In retaliation the bandit who was holding the shotgun behind Guth pulled the trigger and sent the full charge into Guth's back. The slayer then fled with his companions in the waiting car.

Dies in Wife's Arms.

Guth and Farco were taken to the Holy Cross hospital, where Guth died shortly afterward in the arms of his wife, Helen. He is also survived by two children, Dolores, 8 years old, and John, 6 years old. Guth was employed in the factory of the Clayton Mark Steel Manufacturing company at 2031 West 74th street.

George Dudas said that the robbers were the same men who had tried to hold up the saloon several weeks ago. At that time they fled without any loot when Dudas fired at them. Dudas makes a practice of cashing checks for workmen in the neighborhood and usually has a large amount of money in the saloon late in the week. Yesterday he had already cashed checks for Guth and other customers and had only the $25 left when the robbers entered.

Battles Robber, Wounded.

George Theodoreopoulos, 49 years old, was critically wounded last night when he tried to grapple with a colored robber who was breaking into the cash register in a candy store owned by Theodoreopoulos at 2359 Lake street.

The owner was in the back room when the bandit entered the store and began to pound the register with a piece of pipe. Running out, Theodoreopoulos made for the colored man, but he was felled by a shot which struck him in the abdomen. The robber fled, and Theodoreopoulos was taken to the county hospital.

PLOTTERS ASK $60,000 FROM 5 IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3.—(AP)—A $60,000 extortion plot aimed at Edward L. Doheny, multimillionaire oil man; Ora E. Monnette, a leading banker of the city; Lloyd Pantages, son of the theatrical magnate; William F. Gettle, Beverly Hills millionaire, and Jack Doyle, sportsman oil man, was disclosed by police and sheriff's officers tonight.

Four of the men received letters instructing them to communicate with Monnette. The banker was the only one to receive threats.

"We demand $60,000 in cash," the letter said. "It must be paid in old bills, $30,000 in $50 bills, $20,000 in $20 bills and $10,000 in $10 bills."

The letter received by Monnette read: "We have high powered rifles. Watch out."

There was also the following threat: "You can communicate with the police if you want to, but that will make it too bad for yourself and your family."

ROOSEVELT GOES TO OREGON DAM SITE ON RETURN

Hints at Reopening of Seaway Battle.

BULLETIN.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The sherif's office tonight disclosed that a sack of dynamite was found four days ago near the right of way two and a half miles southwest of here over which President Roosevelt's special train was scheduled to arrive from Portland, Ore.

The discovery was made after a watch tower operator for the O. W. R. & N. railway had seen men deposit a package.

Detonating caps were with the explosives, the sherif's deputies said.

An armed force of county officers and secret service department men guarded the spot.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Pictures on Back Page.)

Portland, Ore., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—After a reception in Portland marked by size and spontaneity, President Roosevelt in his first public utterance after his return from his ocean holiday indicated a renewal of his efforts to put through the St. Lawrence seaway project, which was defeated in the last congress largely because the proposed treaty would give Canada control over Lake Michigan, an American lake, and put in jeopardy the Lakes to Gulf waterway.

The occasion for the address was a visit to the Bonneville dam, forty miles from here, where the president inspected one of the projects on the Columbia river, development of which, he said, is one of his most cherished dreams.

Visions River Expansion.

In a brief speech he dwelt upon power, navigation, and the possible development industrially of the Columbia river and as an outlet for population now on barren acres, a line of reasoning similar to that on which was based the Tennessee Valley authority. He came out for shiplocks that would enable ocean vessels to penetrate inland to the Dalles, 80 miles from Portland, and for barge transport to tap the wheat fields of Oregon and Idaho.

"Two years ago," said the President, "I laid down the principle that the government needs a yardstick on power so the people will know whether they are paying a proper price."

"The power we are developing here," he said, "is going to be power which for all time is going to be controled by the government."

Tells of "Yardsticks."

He spoke of three yardsticks to be set up in the Colorado and Columbia rivers and in the Tennessee basin, where it may be remarked the cost of the yardstick now is estimated—at about $350,000,000.

"Fourth," said the President, "the St. Lawrence is going to be started."

This was interpreted as presaging a reopening of the battle over the proposed treaty which was defeated largely by senators from the west and middle west. Oregon was among the opponents of the project.

With open arms Oregon greeted President Roosevelt on his return this morning to his native shore. Crowds filled the streets, sat in windows and on roofs as the cruiser Houston moved into dock about 11:30 o'clock. Mrs. Roosevelt, Secretary of War Dern, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, battalions of local dignitaries and civic leaders were at the wharf. The cannon roared a 21 gun salute. Whistles of tugs, ships and factories were tied down for prolonged blasts.

Split Huge Auto Cavalcade.

After the President, bronzed and in fine fettle from his cruise, came ashore there was an automobile parade which for half an hour passed through business streets filled with cheering crowds. For miles out on Sandy boulevard the sides were lined with people and automobiles. The crush at points was so great that the automobile cavalcade following the President was split up, half of it being hopelessly in the lurch when oncoming cars began to use the highway as a one way street.

Along the Columbia highway, one of the great scenic drives of the world, more crowds were gathered wherever the road widened.

The drizzle that made the Oregon trail famous got in its work early and natives began to pull the old alibi of "this is unusual weather." As the party sped on in open cars the rain would come down until clothes were soaked, than the wind would dry them out just in time to catch the next downfall. The President, in an open car, seemed to get a full measure of enjoyment.

At Bonneville another large assemblage had journeyed out by train and car to greet the President at the dam site, where 2,500 men are employed. The traffic jam was so great after the President entered his car that again the line of official cars was cut asunder. As a result the train pulled out before six eastern correspondents could get to the station.

The President went on to Spokane after his speech, and tomorrow he will inspect the Grand Coulee project, on the Columbia, 75 miles west of Spokane.

Text of Address.

The text of the President's address follows:

"My friends of Oregon and Washington: There is an old saying that 'seeing is believing' and that is why I came here today. Until today I had never been familiar with more than the lower course of the Columbia river, but as far back as 1920 I had the privilege of coming out through these states, through all the great northwest, and I conceived the great belief that this wonderful valley of the Columbia was one of the greatest assets that not only the northwest but all of America had.

"Fourteen years ago I determined that if I ever had the right or the opportunity to do the developing of this grand river and the territory surrounding it I would do my best to put this great project through. Yes, seeing is believing. Over a year ago when we first established the principle of commencing great public works projects in every part of the Union I became firmly convinced that the government should immediately take up construction of Bonneville and the Grand Coulee dams and so we got started.

"I am also reminded that it was on the 26th day of September last year, ten months ago, that the allocation of money for the Bonneville project was made by the White House. I think we have gone a long way in less than a year.

Hopes for Sea Vessels to Dalles.

"It has been my conception and my dream that while most of us are alive we would see seagoing vessels come up the Columbia river as far as the Dalles.

"It was only this morning that the secretary of war told me of a new survey that is being made by the army engineers. From that survey we hope that it will be found to be wisdom to enlarge these locks over here so that oceangoing ships can pass up as far as the Dalles, and I hope that we can enlarge the navigational needs from the Dalles up so that we can have barge transportation right up into the wheat country.

"I am reminded a good deal of another river with a problem somewhat similar—a river on which I was born and brought up; through the action of the federal government, the channel of the Hudson river was so deepened that Albany, 140 miles from the sea, was made a seagoing port. You have a very similar case on the Columbia.

"In the same way in the state of New York, above Albany, you met the rapids and the falls of the Mohawk. It was over 100 years ago that Dewitt Clinton, a governor of New York, built what was called Clinton's ditch, the entire canal, and carried navigation by barge through from the sea to the Great Lakes. And so I believe that the day will come on the Columbia when we will not only extend seagoing navigation far back into the continent but by seagoing navigation we will be able to extend barge navigation still further back north into the state of Washington and far east in the state of Idaho.

"That is a dream, my friends, and not an idle dream. We have evidence of what man can do to improve the condition of mankind. While we are improving navigation we are creating power, and I always believed in that old saying of 'More power to you.' I don't believe that you can have enough power for a long time to come and the power we are developing here is going to be power which for all time is going to be controled by the government.

Government Yardsticks.

"Two years ago when I was in Portland I laid down the principle that the government needs yardsticks so that the people in this country will know whether they are paying the proper price for the electricity of our times. I conceived the idea that the government could create yardsticks One has already been started on the Colorado river; two other yardsticks have been undertaken, the Tennessee and the Columbia, and the fourth, the St. Lawrence, is going to be started.

"And then the last reason of all, which I conceive to be of vast importance, is the fact that in this northwestern section of our land we still have the opening of a great opportunity for a vastly increased population. In many sections of this country, as you know, conditions are bad and the land has run out or has been put to the wrong kind of use. There are many people who want to come to a portion of this country where there will be better chances for themselves and their children. We should make room for crowded families.

"Out here you've not only got space—you've got space that can be used by human beings. A wonderful land; a land of opportunity; a land already peopled by Americans who know whither America is bound; people who are thinking about advantages for mankind, good education, some play and, above all, a chance for the people to live their own lives without wondering what is going to happen tomorrow; security for old age; security against the ills and accidents that come to people; above all, security to earn your own living.

Picture Only in Blue Prints.

"So today I am seeing the picture that I knew only in blue print form. So far it completely conforms to the blue prints. The chief engineer tells me that nothing stands in the way of its being completed on time, on schedule, and according to plans. So within three years I hope the Bonneville dam will be an actual fact and this fact will benefit the lives not only of the people of Oregon and Washington, but benefit the whole course of life of the people of the United States.

"I know that you good people are heart and soul behind this project and I think that most of you good people are heart and soul behind what your government is trying to do to help the people of the United States.

"I wish that I might stay here and survey everything in detail, but, as you know, I have been on a long voyage, and a sailorman does not stay put very long in one place.

"I have been very much interested in this wonderful drive up here today. I have delayed to see things along the way and that is why I am late. My train is due to leave and I want to tell you from the bottom of my heart what a privilege it has been to come here and may I go on with your blessing and may God bless you."

The Bonneville dam, which is in charge of the army engineers, is a power and navigation project.

The dam is to make the Columbia navigable, the engineers say, up to the Snake river in Washington. The depth will not be sufficient for ocean ships, but for barges and river vessels. In a huge cut through the basaltic rock the President looked over the preliminary work of constructing the world's largest single lift navigation lock. It is to be 516 feet long with inside length of 360 feet and width of 72 feet. A boat passing through will be lifted 65 feet.

Aimed at Cheaper Rates.

The improvement in navigation has been proposed with a view of reducing transportation costs for the farmers in areas close to the Columbia. One argument has been that wheat raisers in the northwest will save five to seven cents a bushel in transportation once the improvement is made. In Seattle this is rather a ticklish spot, for some shipping interests have argued that trade routes might be affected by the Columbia improvement to the advantage of Portland against Seattle.

Just how the fish will respond to a planned economy is one question vexing the Columbia fishing industry. The problem is how the salmon are to get over the 72 foot Bonneville dam when they go up river to spawn. Pilot Alyn, who brought in the Houston, bore in the pocket of his pea jacket a letter from the Astoria fishermen suggesting the fish be given all possible protection.

Plan Elevator for Fish.

The federal bureau of fisheries is proposing a hydraulic lift system in which the salmon would be hoisted to the crest in an ichthyological elevator. It's a sort of device by which the fish would be put into the higher level by means of a type of piscatorial lock, similar in principle to the ship locks.

The Oregon game department is against this idea, arguing it might be an easy way of getting the spawning salmon upstream, but not a practical way of getting fish down river afterward.

The department is for five gigantic fishways of the gravity type as opposed to the hydraulic fish elevators, and it is now up to the piscatorial engineers. It's one of the problems which occur when man seeks to improve on nature, and the salmon catchers and canners feel somewhat apprehensive.

BACHMAN AND M'KELLAR WIN IN TENNESSEE

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Trailing after approximately two-thirds of the state's precincts had been counted, Senator Nathan L. Bachman came from behind today to win a smashing victory over Representative Gordon Browning for the Democratic short term nomination to the United States senate.

In contrast Senator Kenneth McKellar took the lead from the start in yesterday's primary and easily outdistanced John R. Neal for the long term nomination.

Gov. Hill McAlister also was renominated by the Democrats over Lewis S. Pope, Nashville lawyer. They faced each other previously in the primaries of 1928 and 1932 with McAlister winning both times.

McKellar, the senior senator, will meet Ben W. Hooper of Newport, twice governor and a member of the railroad labor board under President Harding, in the November election. Dwayne Maddox of Huntington is the Republican nominee for the two year senate term.

HOLD ALLEGED WOMAN 'RED' IN DEATH INQUIRY

Mrs. Edna Sobel, 36 years old, 5516 Drexel avenue, said by police to be a "red" sympathizer, was held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter yesterday after a coroner's inquest into the death of William Krueger, 67 years old. Police Lieut. Make Mills said Mrs. Sobel was not listed officially as a sympathizer, but Policeman John Adair stated at the inquest held in the county morgue that she attended "red" meetings.

Krueger, a cigar maker, who lived at 5507 Drexel avenue, died at the county hospital, July 24, of injuries incurred July 14 when Mrs. Sobel is alleged to have pulled him to the ground in a scuffle at a radical meeting at 55th street and Ingleside avenue.

Mrs. Sobel said she was reaching for her daughter, standing nearby, and had not siezed Krueger intentionally.

HUEY'S TROOPS IGNORE COURT'S ORDER TO RETIRE

City Swears In Still More Police.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—"Partial military law" is still supreme in Louisiana. In answer to a court order directing him and his adjutant general to disband the troops now holding the registrar's office in New Orleans, Senator Long today, through Brig. Gen. Raymond Fleming, augmented his armed forces, mounted more machine guns and trained them directly on the city hall.

The answer of New Orleans was to bring in more police and place them in offices fearing seizure by the state troops.

Gen. Fleming today surrounded himself with a heavy guard in Jackson barracks and deputy sheriffs were unable to serve him with contempt proceedings for refusing to obey the mandate of the Civil District court to disband the state forces. Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley and Judge Nathaniel W. Bond, the latter whose order has been so contemptuously ignored, late this afternoon were considering means by which Gen. Fleming could be punished.

Guns Taken to Office.

Machine guns, rifles, tear gas bombs and steel helmets tonight were taken into the City Voters' Registration office, but their purpose was not explained. The office has been held by guards since the martial law proclamation was issued.

Senator Long made a short dash to Baton Rouge today, where he held a conference with Gov. O. K. Allen. He caused considerable amusement throughout the state when early editions of the afternoon newspapers carried an interview with him in which he said:

"You know I don't intend to be in contempt of nothing, not even my enemies who try to treat me mean. I didn't have nothing to do with ordering out the troops and I told Gov. Allen to withdraw them, and he told me to go to hell. I intend to roast the living tar out of him in next week's American Progress, my newspaper, because of his insolence towerd me. You know I made that boy ard for him to get chesty this way certainly riles me."

What Senator Long really went to Baton Rouge for, it was learned authoritatively, was to discuss with Gov. Allen his [Long's] plans for calling a special session of the legislature.

Plans to Control Police.

At this session Long, who it has been shown controls the legislature, intends to have enacted a law placing the governor in absolute charge, through the appointment of police commissioners, of the police department of the city of New Orleans. He also intends to have enacted into law a measure giving the governor authority to appoint the assessors for the city of New Orleans, giving him entire charge of the financial income of the city of New Orleans.

ALUMINUM COMPANY REJECTS 'PEACE' PLAN OF WORKERS' COUNCIL

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Mellon owned Aluminum Company of America today rejected the "peace" agreement advanced by the aluminum workers' council, terming it a "closed shop" agreement.

Spokesmen for the union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, said the company's reply was "a flat refusal to enter into any negotiations for an agreement."

The union called a "council of war" and the action decided upon—a guarded secret—will be presented to President William Green of the Federation of Labor at week-end conferences. Whatever steps the union decides must be sanctioned by Green.

Employés of the company voted to strike some weeks ago but on July 25 the union submitted its peace proposal to the company, requesting an answer by Aug. 3.

The council represents approximately 20,000 men, practically all of whom are employed directly or indirectly by the company which union officials claim dominates the industry.

PERSONAL TAX JUDGMENTS NET $421,602 IN JULY

Assistant State's Attorney Philip Treacy, in charge of tax prosecutions, reported yesterday that court judgments won for delinquent 1931 and 1932 personal property taxes in July amounted to $421,602. This compares with $129,000 won in July, 1933.

Mr. Treacy said $305,766 was collected in Circuit court, $49,351 in Superior court, $23,695 in Municipal court, and the remainder in Probate court and voluntary payments.

Assistant State's Attorney Bernard H. Hoss said that so far 950 suits have been filed in Circuit court seeking to collect a total of $2,731,771 in delinquent 1932 personal property taxes.

Admits Looting Visitors' Motor Cars of Clothing

Attempting to steal clothes from a car into which they had broken, Theodore Miller, 36 years old, 119 West Chestnut street, a painter, and Miss Leona Panze, 19 years old, of Sewickley, Pa., were arrested in Jackson park last night by South Park police. Miller confessed that he had been preying on cars of Chicago visitors and selling the stolen clothes to second hand dealers.

DALLS AT SAME RAILWAY STATION BUT DON'T MEET

Although the four members of the Dall family were as near to each other as the same railway station yesterday, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, the president's only daughter, and her recently divorced husband, Curtis B. Dall, New York broker, were headed for different sections of the country last night without having met in Chicago.

With the father on a train bound for Star Lake, near Eagle River, in northern Wisconsin, were the famous White House grand children, Anna Eleanor [Sistis] Dall and Curtis [Buzzie] Dall. Their presence with their father was in accordance with the terms of the divorce which Mrs. Dall obtained from her husband in Nevada last Monday.

On another train, traveling toward Washington, was Mrs. Dall. She had spent a restful day in Chicago, being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Breasted in their apartment at 5811 Dorchester avenue.

Children Shout Greeting.

Not so quiet was the day spent by Dall at the World's Fair with his two energetic children. He and a friend, W. G. Wilmot, who was a classmate of Dall at Princeton and an usher at his wedding, were on the platform of the North Western station when the Overland Limited bearing Mrs. Dall and the children pulled in from the west yesterday morning. There was a shout from the children as they caught sight of their father.

While Dall was hugging and lifting the little boy, 4 years old, and his sister, 7, Mrs. Dall remained discreetly in her Pullman. She helped Katy, the children's ample colored nurse, gather up their belongings, and then waited quietly until the little crowd had departed.

Dall and the children went to the Blackstone hotel, where Sistie and Buzzie entered the barber shop. Dall expressed surprise when Sistie insisted on having her long hair cut short, but he made no move to stop the procedure when she explained:

"I don't like braids. They fall into my dinner."

With Father Two Weeks.

Mrs. Dall took a room at the Palmer House and there she was interviewed. She was asked whether the separation from the children was in accordance with an agreement.

"Yes, they will stay with Mr. Dall for two weeks—perhaps a few days more," she replied, smiling. "Then I will have them again for some time."

When the reporter asked her to describe her blouse she replied that she'd been wearing blue jeans in Nevada for so long that she had forgotten the names of city clothes. Later she donned a shepherd check topcoat of slim lines and a Tyrol felt hat of green and departed to visit the Breasteds before catching a train to Washington.

In the meantime the others of the Dall family were at the Fair. They had taken rolling chairs with Wilmot and another friend, Max Epstein, general chairman of the American Tank Car company, but this mode of locomotion was too slow for the lively children. They went ahead on foot—directly for the Enchanted Island.

Met at the entrance by Ko-Ko, the clown, Sistie and Buzzie embarked on a round of rides and amusements. They shrieked with laughter at the monkey and dog acts in the Children's theater, tried the Ferris wheel, drove miniature automobiles, and at quantities of ice cream and cotton candy.

"I like the car on the track because I drove it myself," Buzzie volunteered at the close of the trip.

"I rung the choo-choo bell," said Sistie, complacently.

During her stay in the city Mrs. Dall was accompanied by Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan and other secret service men, but Dall and the children had no guards when they boarded the Fisherman's special of the Milwaukee line at the Union station last night. They will reach Star Lake this morning.

ROOSEVELT SON AND DAUGHTER MENTIONED IN DIVORCE QUESTION

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Members of President Roosevelt's family were mentioned today in a telegram sent by Manuel Ruiz, member of the Los Angeles Bar association, to Thomas D. Bowman, American consul general, in Mexico, asking if it is the intention of the consulate to refuse to validate divorces granted Americans who personally registered in the state of Chihuahua.

After sending the telegram Ruiz called attention to what he said was the similarity of residence requirements in Chihuahua and in Nevada, where Elliott Roosevelt and Anna Roosevelt Dall were divorced.

Ruiz asked Bowman "if the consular anti-Mexican divorce propaganda is intended to apply to Americans personally registering in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico, even as Americans, and as President Roosevelt's relatives have personally registered in Nevada."

Ruiz told the consul general that "clients who have personally registered are complaining against the new consular authentication," and asked if "the new form is intended to be restricted to the mail order type of Mexican divorce, or all types, irrespective of the legal procedure used."

CHICAGO BOY, 14, HELD IN SLAYING AT SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—William Atares, a 14 year old Chicago boy, was arrested at Auburn and brought here this evening, charged with the murder of Raymond Wylder, 11. The Atares youth was visiting relatives in Auburn. He was with a boy named Jack Beam, when the two met the Wylder boy on a railroad right of way. One of them was carrying a shotgun and it was discharged in the face of the Wylder boy. It developed later that the Wylder boy had given information against the Chicago youngster, who is said to have robbed a schoolhouse in the vicinity. Atares has confessed, say officers. Jack Beam is also being held.

HITS NEW DEAL, LAUDS COOLIDGE ON ANNIVERSARY

Rep. Beck Pays Tribute to Late President.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—A president of the United States who reduced the national debt by 10 billion dollars was remembered here today.

REP. J. M. BECK.

Standing not far from the modest headstone which marks the resting place of Calvin Coolidge, Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania recalled the qualities of the thirtieth President, qualities which, Mr. Beck reminded his hearers, are scorned by the present administration.

"It is the fashion," said Mr. Beck, "of some of the academic apprentices who now constitute an overgrown federal burocracy to sneer at the administration of Calvin Coolidge. Let me remind them that if they, in their varied schemes to redistribute wealth, are now able to command the lavish and too often wanton expenditures of billions of dollars, their opportunity thus to scatter billions is partly due to the wise administration of Coolidge which in a few short years had not only paid all the expenditures of the government out of curren' receipts, but had reduced the national debt by the enormous sum of 10 billion dollars.

Points to Mounting Debt.

"Those who have in a short twelve months now added 12 billions to the national debt ought not to criticize a President who reduced it by almost the same sum.

"He reduced the burdens of the people. They have imposed intolerable burdens of debt upon the American people which will curse them for a century to come."

Some 5,000 persons had journeyed to this hamlet to witness ceremonies commemorating the eleventh anniversary of President Coolidge's first oath of office.

Clustered in a natural amphitheater with the cool, green hills of Vermont looking down upon them, they listened with attention as the speaker compared the "square deal" of the Coolidge administration to the New Deal of today.

"Individualism" Defended.

Mr. Beck, authority on the Constitution, was even so bold as to defend the much abused "individualism" which enjoyed popularity in the Coolidge era. He said:

"Under the New Deal individualism is smothered. If Calvin Coolidge were alive today he would prefer the square deal of individualism to the New Deal of a burocratic regimentation which has changed the American from a citizen to a subject."

Among those listening was Mrs. Coolidge, widow of the President, and a number of Republican senators and representatives. They also witnessed a pageant depicting the spirit of the Green Mountain Boys of Revolutionary fame.

Others Praise Thrift.

There were other speakers who compared the thrift of the Coolidge administration to the extravagances of the Roosevelt régime. They included Senator Warren R. Austin of Vermont, Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, Senator Wallace W. White Jr. of Maine, house minority leader; Bertrand H. Snell, and former Attorney General John G. Sargent.

But it was the leading speaker, Congressman Beck, who flayed the present federal burocracy in most uncompromising fashion and called for a revival of the Coolidge virtues. "What place could be more fitting for a rebirth of the old-fashioned ideas of thrift and economy than here at the grave of Calvin Coolidge?" he asked.

"I have stigmatized the present workings of the federal burocracy as an economic dictatorship and no one can question that it has obliterated the line of demarcation between interstate commerce and that which is wholly within a state.

Defends State Rights.

"The constitution never intended to vest all power over trade and industry in the federal government. It prescribed a much narrower channel of power. Each state was to regulate on its own discretion the trade and industry that was in its borders.

"Today the federal bureaucracy, working through its innumerable alphabetical organs, controls all trade and industry within the United States. Never in the history of our nation has there been such an usurpation of power by the federal government.

"It cannot be reconciled with the plain provisions of the constitution and it cannot be justified on the theory of an emergency, for if a so-called emergency can temporarily suspend the constitution, then we are living under a government of limited powers. The federal government can at any time, when inspired by the lust of power, create the emergency, declare its existence and then arbitrarily suspend the constitution. That great compact never authorized the creation of a dictator or a suspension of its mandates."

Warns of Sterner Action.

Thus far, Mr. Beck declared, the iron hand of Roosevelt dictatorship has been veiled in a velvet glove, but he warned that the time may be near when dictatorial powers will be wielded without concealment.

"You cannot give a burocratic official the sword of absolute power," he said, "and not expect him to use it when the spirit moves him."

He defended Henry Ford in the latter's defiance of the NRA.

"Ford regarded the Blue Eagle as an emblem of governmental tyranny," he pointed out. "To the administrator of the NRA that was high treason. The NRA proceeded to injure Ford in every way that burocratic ingenuity could devise. In his case, at least, the Blue Eagle which to others may seem a harmless domesticated bird, closely resembled the soviet buzzard.

"Collectivism has not only exceeded any just boundaries of political power, but has gone mad with its own lust of power under the present administration," the speaker asserted.

"When a burocracy, as at present, tells the American how much he can plow," he commented, "and what cattle he should kill and what hours the factory man should work and what tools he can use and what methods of production he can adopt and how much he can produce and what price he shall obtain for his labor, then the government of our fathers has perished in spirit even though it survives in form.

"It is not only the constitution that has been suspended. It is the basic principles of American freedom that have been destroyed."

After the ceremonies the Pilgrims visited the old homestead where President Coolidge took from his father, John Coolidge, the oath of office in the early hours of Aug. 3, 1923. There was curiosity evident as they inspected the birthplace of a President who clung to cold facts rather than to rosy dreams, and who spent his years in office saving rather than spending.

IDAHO BAKER DEFIES NRA AFTER BORAH PROMISES LEGAL AID

Glenns Ferry, Idaho, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The price of unsliced white bread dropped a cent a loaf here today after Senator William E. Borah promised to provide "counsel without expense" to a baker if he should be prosecuted for defying an NRA code authority administrator's order.

E. W. Nestak, the only baker here, increased his wholesale and retail unsliced bread prices 1 cent to 7 and 10 cents Aug. 1 in accordance with an order issued by Sid Graves of Twin Falls, bakery code administrator for southern Idaho. After receiving the senator's message in response to an appeal for advice as to the course to pursue, Nestak lowered the prices.

"I feel you are justified in going ahead and conducting your business as you have been conducting it and disregarding all instructions to raise the price of bread," Borah wrote him. "If you choose to take this course and are prosecuted I will see that you get counsel without expense to you.

"I contend that they have no right to direct you to increase the price of your bread. I not only contend they have no constitutional right but that it is indefensible in morals and economics."

SENTENCES 3 MEN AND A WOMAN FOR POLL FRAUDS

Three men and a woman found guilty of contempt of court several months ago in connection with false canvass and return of votes were sentenced to the county jail yesterday by Judge Win G. Knoch of Wheaton, sitting in the County court here. All served as polls officials in the 30th precinct of the 39th ward during the election of November, 1932.

The three men were sentenced to sixty days each. They are Benjamin E. Schwartz, 4839 North Avers avenue, a lawyer, who served as Democratic judge; Herman Brown, 4815 North Springfield avenue, Republican judge, and Harry Schwed, 4817 North Springfield avenue, Republican clerk. Mrs. Thelma Goldman, 3841 North Avers avenue, Republican judge, was sentenced to 30 days.

FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE.

William Bigelow, 45 years old, 209 South 19th avenue, Maywood, was found dead of auto exhaust fumes yesterday in the garage behind the home of his brother, Ben, at 115 South 18th avenue. Police expressed the theory that Bigelow had committed suicide.

ASHLAND BRIDGE FUND SIGNED FOR BY MAYOR KELLY

Mayor Kelly yesterday signed a contract with the federal Public Works administration through which the city will get a federal grant of approximately $450,000 for the construction of a bridge in Ashland avenue across the north branch of the Chicago river. The remainder of the $1,700,000 cost of the span will be taken from the city's share of the state gasoline tax fund.

The mayor signed the contract in the presence of William W. Link, president of the board of local improvements; Charles A. Snyder, secretary of the West Central association, and representatives of a number of neighborhood civic and improvement associations, who have awaited the building of the bridge for years. The span will abolish a detour that has broken the continuity of Ashland avenue.

NEGRO LYNCHED BY MEMBERS OF HIS OWN RACE

Shreveport, La., Aug. 3. — (AP) — Beaten to death by members of his own race, authorities said, the body of Grafton Page, 30, Negro, was found tonight near Bethany, La., on the J. M. Prosper plantation about 22 miles southwest of here.

Page, known as a troublemaker among the Negroes at Bethany, had been tied with his hands above his head to the limb of an elm tree. His assailants, believed to have numbered ten or more, stripped him and used pine clubs to beat him to death, Deputy Sheriff W. G. Frye reported. They then cut down the corpse and threw the Negro's clothes over the body.

A blind Negro woman, who lived nearby, told Frye she had heard some one yelling for about 15 minutes before quiet descended over the woodland.

$180,000 FIRE ON KANSAS STATE COLLEGE CAMPUS

Manhattan, Kas., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Fire on the campus of Kansas State college late tonight destroyed Denison hall, chemistry and physics building, and threatened Anderson hall, the administration building. Wind whipped the flames, offering the danger of the fire spreading to other structures.

The fire had gained such headway by the time a general alarm was sounded that firemen found it necessary to abandon all efforts to save Denison hall and concentrate on buildings nearby.

The college catalog lists the value of the building and equipment of Denison hall at in excess of $180,000.

The summer session at the college has been in progress and commencement exercises were held at the college stadium earlier in the evening.

All the campus buildings are of stone construction, but the roofs offered a means of spreading the fire.

Girl Clerk's Timely Faint Foils Robber on 2d Call

A timely fainting spell last night saved Miss Myrtle Melberg, 24 years old, 1618 Belle Plaine avenue, from a robbery in the Dutch Mill Candy shop, 6443 Sheridan road, where she is employed as a clerk. A man, whom Miss Melberg recognized as one who had robbed the store of $15 two years ago, entered and ordered her to raise her hands. Instead Miss Melberg fainted. The robber fled to the street empty-handed.

Woman Ends Life by Gas; Asks Kin to Care for Dog

After carefully locking her pet dog in a bedroom Mrs. Carrie Bull, 40 years old, committed suicide last night by opening the burners of her stove in the kitchen of her home in Bartlett. The woman's body was discovered by her husband, Chester, a butcher. A note beside the body asked that the pet dog be cared for by members of the family.

EXMOOR GOLFERS TOTE OWN CLUBS IN CADDY STRIKE

Boys Want Gen. Johnson to Crack Down.

Golf was being played on a self-supporting basis at the Exmoor Country club in Highland Park yesterday, as the club's caddies continued their strike for more pay. The situation was relieved only by the presence of a solitary caddy who chased balls for the professional in the morning and was himself chased off the course in the afternoon by 159 irate striking caddies.

For the second consecutive day golfers toted their clubs up fairway and down rough under the warm sun, while from various vantage points about the winding course the boys booed and hissed.

There was, however, no repetition of the nudist swimming which nearly disrupted Thursday's mixed foursome tournament.

Club Issues Ultimatum.

In an attempt to force the caddies back to work, Chairman Walter E. Rutledge of the caddy committee announced that those who did not report for duty by noon yesterday would never be hired again by the club.

No one reported, however, except Elmer Kline of Highwood, whose rating under the system in vogue at Exmoor is "extra good." He enjoyed a profitable morning chasing balls while Professional Edward Stupple gave lessons, but trouble loomed when Kline went into the caddy yard for lunch. Extreme violence was averted only by Kline's fleetness of foot and the fact that the road to his home in Highwood was unobstructed.

Late in the day rumors spread among the strikers that other caddies were to be employed today, and there was concerted demand for mediation. Several of the strike leaders suggested that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, be called in to adjust the trouble.

Gen. Johnson Too Busy.

"He'll crack down on the members," asserted Philip Rogers of Waukegan, chairman of the strike committee, "and get us our $1 a round or a guarantee of 30 cents an hour."

But Gen. Johnson was busy all afternoon trying to settle the stockyards strike and could not be reached last evening for an opinion on the trouble at Exmoor.

The striking caddies, after a final conference with the club members, announced that they would continue to picket the grounds today. They stated they would refuse to accept their old wages of 25 cents an hour or continue with the club's merit system, which rewards good boys with bonuses and deducts small sums from the pay of poor caddies.

BURSTING DAMS CAUSE DAMAGE OF MILLION DOLLARS IN JERSEY

Bridgeton, N. J., Aug. 3—[Special.]—Bursting dams transformed the Cohansey river, running through the middle of this town of 16,000 inhabitants, into a destructive torrent early today, causing a flood and property damage estimated by police at one million dollars.

The town was virtually sliced into two when one of the bridges linking one half of the community with the other was destroyed and two others were badly damaged. Hundreds of homes and a number of stores were flooded.

Despite the extensive property damage, no serious casualties were reported. Twenty-five occupants of a two story apartment building, however, had a narrow escape, fleeing from their homes in their night clothing just a few minutes before part of the building toppled into the river.

The flood occurred at the tail end of a storm that struck southern New Jersey last night causing extensive crop damage and bringing a fall of more than seven inches of rain within a few hours. The storm roared in from the west off Delaware bay and when it reached Bridgeton, the rain was of cloudburst proportions.

WOMAN NAMED AS DIRECTOR OF INDIAN SCHOOL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—A clear-eyed woman with a wind-blown bob, Miss Alida Bowler, today added the title of "first woman Indian superintendent" to a colorful career.

She was director of the first Wandering Youth studies of the children's bureau. She dug up the statistics on crime and the foreign born for the Wickersham committee. She wrote gang histories of the Los Angeles area. With the Red Cross abroad, back in 1918-19, she helped Rumanian refugees to return to their homes.

Starting Sept. 1, Miss Bowler will supervise the scattered Indian tribes of northern Nevada, serving also as superintendent of the Carson Indian school at Stewart, Nev.

John Collier, superintendent of Indian affairs, said he had chosen Miss Bowler, not to follow a pattern of the past, but to do a trail-blazing job.

"She'll have a big program out there," he said. "One task will be to find out how to organize the scattered Indians of Nevada to receive the advantages of the new Wheeler-Howard act, which is predicated on the Indians being organized."

Portland, Ore., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Marked improvement in the condition of Gen. Edward M. Markham, chief of army engineers, was reported by his physician today. Gen. Markham collapsed yesterday from a heart attack.

BOARD EXPLAINS HOLDING UP PART OF TEACHERS' PAY

Fears Loan by RFC Might Be Reduced.

Board of education officials awaiting the arrival of Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, to study the board's application for a loan of $36,447,240 to pay teachers' back salaries, yesterday outlined the motives that have caused them to hold $3,500,000 in the school treasury while the negotiations with the RFC are in progress.

A plan to use the $3,500,000 to pay teachers and other school employés part of their back salaries was halted when it was discovered that the law permitting an RFC loan to the schools fixes a limit of June 1, 1934, for the period to be covered by the loan. Under the school board's loan application this condition is met. The loan would pay overdue salaries for the seven months from Nov. 1, 1933, to June 1, 1934.

Would Reduce RFC Loan.

If, however, the $3,500,000 now in the school treasury were paid out for any of that period, James B. McCahey, president of the board, pointed out yesterday, it would mean that the RFC loan would be reduced by that much and the teachers would, in the end, receive $3,500,000 less in back pay.

This situation, Mr. McCahey said, was explained to representatives of teachers' groups to their satisfaction and the money was withheld.

Teachers Approve Plan.

A further motive for holding the $3,500,000, Mr. McCahey said, is that the law does not make clear whether school civil service employés can be paid from the RFC loan. If they cannot, such employés would go unpaid after the loan is received if the $3,500,000 were paid out. If the RFC decides civil service employés are included under the law, then the $3,500,000 can be used to pay both teachers and employés from June 1 to Sept. 15.

"We have acted in the interests of the teachers and a group which visited my office in the spring acquiesced in the plan," said Mr. McCahey. "The teachers needed immediate funds, but they ddin't want to cut themselves off from full pay by demanding the money on hand."

FIRST WIFE 'CHANGES MIND' ABOUT DIVORCE; COUPLE LAND IN COURT

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Because his first wife allegedly changed her mind about obtaining a divorce, George W. Suprenant Jr., former film studio employé, and his second wife, daughter of Patrick Grady, Cleveland chain store official, found themselves in federal court today.

Suprenant, 24, who is associated with his father here in the cafe business, and the former Miss Trixie Grady, an expectant mother, were ordered by Judge Harry Hollzer to live apart pending an investigation of the marital tangle.

Suprenant told the court his first wife, the former Miss Helen Schulte of St. Louis, whom he married after a three day courtship, left him about a month afterward and told him she was going to Tia Juana, Mexico, to obtain a divorce. She later changed her mind, Suprenant said, but in the meantime he had married Miss Grady.

RACIAL THEORIES OF NAZIS AGAIN HIT BY SCIENTIST

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—For the second time in three days the Congress of Anthropological and Ethnological Sciences heard tonight an assault on racial theories such as those held by Nazi Germany. Tonight's speaker was J. B. S. Haldane, professor of genetics at the University of London. His attack supplemented that made on Tuesday by Sir Grafton Elliot Smith, noted British anthropologist.

Declaring that knowledge of a man's ancestry throws little light on his capabilities, Prof. Haldane said:

"Whatever innate differences in ability may exist between races, they are clearly of an overlapping type. The so-called races within Europe have a much more dubious status. In respect of physical characteristics they overlap to a considerable extent. Any population may be 'racially homogeneous' in the sense that its genes have been thoroughly mixed by random mating, but there is no reason to believe such populations differ in any but a statistical sense—the same genes being found throughout, though in different proportions.

"Within such a population a man of a given type—for example, a 'Nordic' with a long head of hair and blue eyes—is no more likely to have a high proportion of Scandinavian ancestry than a relative not possessing those characters."

OLSON "CRACKS DOWN" IN TRUCK FIGHT; RELENTS

Lifts Order Halting Motors After 15 Minutes.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 4 (Saturday).—[Special.]—For fifteen minutes this morning Gov. Floyd B. Olson played at the rôle of the big crack-'em-down man of Minneapolis. Then he pulled in his horns, acceded to a request of Father Francis J. Haas, federal mediator in the truck strike, and retired from the throne.

Profound hopes that the strike can be settled before Monday prompted Father Haas to make his request of the governor. Until midnight things looked black, it seemed that neither side could get together, and it appeared that the governor's earlier order of no trucks tomorrow, save those carrying bare necessities, would be carried out.

Ready to Rescind Permits.

Midnight passed and the Olson order, which would have added to the hindrances already experienced by business men, technically went into effect. The National Guard, on martial law duty here for eight days, was ready to rescind permits for trucks that did not carry ice, milk, etc., but Father Haas felt that conciliatory efforts would accomplish something and the governor abided by his convictions. The order was withdrawn.

So the situation will remain in status quo until Monday; that is, about 6,000 trucks will continue to transport merchandise throughout the city and the conference chambers will be hives of expostulation.

Meanwhile attention switched to the raiding expedition authorized by the governor last night upon the Citizens' alliance, an organization which has been trying to stop the strike.

A squad headed by Lieut. Kenneth Haycraft, former all-American end at the University of Minnesota, entered the offices of the Citizens' alliance, a business men's organization to which the governor is unfriendly, and took a number of records.

Correspondence Seized.

J. W. Schroeder, executive vice president of the alliance, said the records consisted of personal correspondence, "having no bearing upon the strike situation."

Olson, in turn, announced that evidence obtained on the raid "corroborates my charge that a Citizens' alliance clique dominates and controls the actions of the employers' advisory committee, and that it maintains a considerable number of stool pigeons in various labor unions."

The governor also charged that "just prior to the date of my declaration of martial law (July 26) four suitcases filled with papers and records were secretly taken down the front elevator of the Builders' Exchange building, where the alliance has offices, and delivered to parts unknown. It would be interesting to know what these records would show and why they were placed in concealment."

Calls Assertions "Ridiculous."

Schroeder characterized as "ridiculous" Olson's assertions that the alliance controls the employers' advisory committee or maintained stool pigeons. He would not discuss the charge that records had been taken from his office before martial law was declared.

Many felt that the governor was making an ostensible attempt to "balance the ledger" by his Citizens' alliance raid. Wednesday his guardsmen raided union headquarters and held three leaders prisoner for thirty-six hours.

"The governor's raid apparently was part of his persistent efforts to paint the Citizens' alliance as some mysterious 'big bad wolf' with which to scare the children and voters.

"To save the governor the trouble of 'exposing' the alliance a statement of its history and purposes with the names of its officers and directors will be made public Saturday."

Many regarded the governor's ultimatum as the act of an opportunist. They believe he felt that peace was in the offing and that if he came upon the scene with a stern order he would then be in a position to campaign for his third term in the fall upon the platform "I settled the strike."

Astute Political Move.

The governor apparently made an astute political move, but it was not certain that he chose the exact psychological moment. Union leaders were in session with the mediators—Father Haas and E. H. Dunnigan—at the time.

However, it was known that the principal point of contention rests now in the employers' stand toward drivers they regard as leaders in the rioting and the subsequent stormy picketing which has sizzled during the last three days.

Originally the employers declared that they would reserve the right to refuse the rehiring of the chieftains in these extralegal activities. They were willing that employés' elections should be held in the 166 firms involved, but they felt that they should not be compelled to rehire men who fomented the trouble.

Terms Are Modified.

Father Haas held several conferences with the employers after the peace plan was presented and it was known that a modification of the terms resulted from these meetings. Its provisions were not announced. However, the employers late yesterday authorized this statement:

"The employers today presented to the mediators their proposal for settlement of the strike as offered yesterday, with modifications asked by the mediators.

"These modifications changed the language of the proposal in numerous places and even some of the terms, but adhere to the essential provisions of the offer.

"The employers feel that they have shown a conciliatory spirit in this offer and that no more can be expected of them than they now concede.

"They believe that this proposal is so reasonable that the strikers can hardly refuse it, and that, therefore, a failure to end the strike on these terms will leave the responsibility from its continuance entirely on the shoulders of the strikers and their advisers."

Olson's Ultimatum.

A few moments after this statement came Gov. Olson's pronouncement, which read as follows:

"Sufficient time has now elapsed for the parties to the present strike to have reached an agreement. That agreement should be had today.

"I have carefully read the statements of the employers' committee with reference to the Haas-Dunnigan wage scales, and I find nothing in those statements which in any way challenges the fairness of those scales. Any difference of opinion between the parties as to the entire proposal can readily be adjusted.

"In my opinion the bombastic utterances of the employers' committee and the ill advised acts of the leaders of the union have contributed nothing toward the reaching of a settlement.

"In view of all the circumstances, unless a decent settlement is arrived at today I will issue an order, as commander in chief of the National Guard, effective at midnight today, revoking all permits except those for the transportation of actual necessities, such as milk, ice, and kindred commodities. The guard will take very drastic action thereafter with reference to forcible picketing.

"In the interests of the people of the city I hope that the differences are adjusted today."

That the governor didn't have much to lose politically by his ultimatum was the consensus of political observers. When his troops took over the strike headquarters Wednesday and arrested four of the leaders the union newspaper announced flatly that he was the enemy of labor and could not expect union support in his campaign. The union men were released yesterday after a night in the military stockade. The employers felt their arrest showed a foundation for the contention that communists have been the directing force behind the strike.

After their raid upon the strikers the troops also went through the labor temple seeking ringleaders of the strike and this raid made other union men equally angry.

Five Gunmen Line Up 20; Rob Paymaster of $1,000

Five men, two of them armed with sawedoff shotguns, entered the offices of the Metal Specialties company at 3200 Carroll avenue while employés were being paid yesterday and forced H. W. Haynes, the paymaster, to surrender $1,000. The robbers menaced 20 employés, including six women, and struck Lloyd W. Golder, secretary of the company, and Edward Schoendint, the bookkeeper, with their gun butts when they were slow in obeying the order to line up against the wall. The robbers then fled in an automobile in which a sixth man had been waiting.

Police Capt. H.T. McCarthy Recovers from Operation

Police Capt. Hugh T. McCarthy, at present unassigned, was recovering yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital from an operation Thursday for gallstones and a sinus disorder. Capt. McCarthy became ill in his home at 4312 North Keeler avenue July 13, and has been in the hospital since. His physician, Dr. Hugh McKenna, said yesterday that he is progressing satisfactorily.

TWO REPORTERS WHO REFUSED TO BREAK CONFIDENCE FREED

Danville, Ky., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The hanging in effigy case in which two reporters have spent 45 hours in jail and paid fines of $22 rather than break a confidence ended today.

Two witnesses in the case, Victor Bodner, 24, and Lucien Chrisman, 21, who had previously refused to testify, pleaded guilty to charges of breach of the peace before Judge Jay W. Harlan and were fined $10 each. The judge then announced that the court of inquiry into the "hanging" of State Representative J. Sterling Towles was ended.

The "silent" reporters, Jack Durham and Wesley Carty, who were summoned this morning after serving their last six hour stretch in jail yesterday, were then dismissed.

Dismissal of the newsmen, who refused to divulge the source of their advance information into the hanging, was hailed as a victory for the reporters. They had previously stated they would "stick it out all summer" with the judge "before we reveal our confidences." They received congratulatory telegrams from Kentucky and elsewhere, among them a message from George A. Joplin Jr., president of the Kentucky Press association.

"In refusing to betray a confidence in the face of the court's repeated attempts to intimidate them they [Durham and Carty] displayed a genuine sense of personal honor," Joplin said. "The Kentucky Press association will endeavor to obtain enactment of a state law to preserve newspaper confidences."

The two reporters returned today to their work on the Kentucky Advocate.

COACH LINE ASKS CHICAGO HEARING ON NRA CHARGES

Offers to Call 200 Witnesses.

The Chicago Motor Coach company, target for a bitter attack by the national labor relations board at Washington on Thursday, replied yesterday with a request for a hearing in Chicago before any "cracking down" is done by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, chief of the NRA.

John A. Ritchie, president of the bus company, made the request in a telegram addressed to L. J. Martin, director of the national compliance board of the NRA, to which the case was referred by the labor relations board. The company is charged with having violated the national recovery act by the discharge of 25 employés.

In his telegram Mr. Ritchie explained that the company is willing to submit to an inquiry if the hearing is held in Chicago. It would be impractical to hold such a hearing in Washington, the message said, because of the large number of witnesses the company would like to present.

Wants to Present Facts.

"While we have no official notice," the telegram to Martin said, "Chicago papers announce that national labor relations board has referred the Chicago Motor Coach case to your board for action. We are advised here that you are the director of the national compliance division of the NRA.

"The Chicago Motor Coach company requests a hearing before you take action. We are desirous of presenting all of the facts to your division. Because of the large number of witnesses necessary, including those in public office, it is impracticable to carry on the hearing in Washington.

"We suggest that you nominate a representative here so that we may present all of the facts for your consideration. If you could be present yourself it would be most desirable. We feel that a full knowledge of all the facts will better enable you to determine what action you desire to take."

Officials of the company emphasized yesterday that they are not in any way retreating from their former stand by requesting a hearing.

"We've offered to participate in a hearing in Chicago at any time," declared Attorney James G. Condon, counsel for the company. "We want to be heard, but we want the hearing here where our witnesses are available.

May Offer 200 Witnesses.

"Depending entirely upon the contentions of the union, we may have to place 200 or 300 witnesses on the stand. If we took that number of employés to Washington it would cripple our service. Then, too, there are the public officials who investigated burning of buses and other acts of violence, that we cannot take to Washington."

The national labor relations board held that the bus company was violating section 7A of the NRA by discharging workers for union activity. The company maintains that the men were dismissed for inefficiency.

If the compliance board upholds the labor relations board the next step would be removal of the Blue Eagle from the company, it was said.

CONSIDER PLAN TO CUT REALTY TAXES IN HALF

Scott W. Lucas, chairman of the Illinois state tax commission, announced yesterday that the commission is working on a plan to cut in half the tax burden on real estate. The plan will be presented to the next session of the legislature.

"Real estate must be given relief, but it should be done in an orderly way," Chairman Lucas said. "The 1 or 1½ per cent tax limitation proposal will not work. A study in De Page county disclosed that local governments, including the schools, would suffer terrific reductions in revenue, even if valuations were doubled. It appears the conditions would be similar in all other counties."

SEIZE TWO IN SWINDLE.

Hearing on fugitive warants against Lee Watson, 37 years old, and Fred Foley, 36 years old, who are wanted in Denver on a swindling charge, was continued to Aug. 17 by Judge Francis Borrelli yesterday. The men were arrested at 6930 South Shore drive.

FRANCE'S TOTAL OF UNEMPLOYED SHOWS A STEADY INCREASE

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 3.—The extent to which unemployment is increasing in France was shown again today by the publication of official statistics for the week ending July 28. They reveal that 320,427 persons are registered as wholly unemployed, against 316,351 for the previous week and 239,692 for the corresponding week of 1933.

The unemployment figures have been causing serious concern to the authorities, particularly since the immediate future does not offer a hope of amelioration. The situation is exceptionally bad in the metallurgical, the textile and the construction industries.

The government's figures do not take into account the partly unemployed or those without work who are not receiving the dole. The actual total would approximate 1,000,000.

BEGIN STUDY OF POSSIBLE STATE, CITY LOTTERIES

New York, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The national conference on legalizing lotteries, chartered yesterday at Albany, will investigate the possibilities of state and municipal lotteries and, if it finds them economically sound and capable of being run without crookedness, will urge them as a means of meeting relief funds. This was disclosed today by one of its socially prominent incorporators.

Mrs. Francis D. Gallatin, widow of the former park commissioner, who is president of the new organization, said today that it would keep an entirely open mind on the question of the economic and moral soundness of government lotteries. If the investigation brings affirmative findings, however, she added, they will be urged as a means of financing public relief.

Besides Mrs. Gallatin the incorporators are Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Mrs. Mary Derieux, writer and former fiction editor of the Delineator and the American magazine; Kent B. Stiles, editor of a national trade publication, and Arthur J. Hadley, a theatrical man.

Pay Roll 15 Minutes Late; Bandits Leave in Panic

Because a $6,000 pay roll was 15 minutes late in arriving, four bandits, one of them armed with a machine gun, left empty handed yesterday after holding up the offices of the Great Lakes Plating company at 1715 Dickson street. When the bandits entered they forced five women clerks to stand against the wall and ordered K. H. West, general manager of the firm, to give them the money. He told them the pay roll was late and the bandits waited a few minutes and then fled. Fifteen minutes later the pay roll arrived.

Rescuers Arrive Too Late; Swimmer Drowns in Lake

The rescue efforts of four boys proved unavailing yesterday after they had swum out into the lake at 53d street and brought the body of Edwin Levy, 18 years old, of New Haven, Ind., to shore. The boys, led by Robert Kein, 20 years old, 5454 Harper avenue, heard Levy shout for help, but he had drowned before they could reach him. An inhalator squad was unable to revive him.

23 MILLION IN U. S. DEPEND ON NEW DEAL DOLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Approximately 23 million people—almost one out of every five persons in the country—are wholly or partially dependent for their living on easy money doled out by the New Dealers.

A survey of official figures today showed that through relief, work relief, pensions, farm benefit payments, and direct employment, the New Dealers have placed 22,934,000 persons on the taxpayers' pay roll. Millions upon millions of dollars are flowing directly from the treasury into the pockets of these people.

Million More Get Aid.

In addition to the staggering total of those receiving direct cash benefits from the federal government, there are 1,336,000 home owners and farmers in the country who are being financed by direct federal loans. They bring the total of federal easy money beneficiaries up to 24,170,000.

Here is the cash pay roll, having on it one out of every five persons in the country, which the New Dealers have built up:

DIRECT PAYMENTS.
Relief	16,000,000
Work relief	970,000
Veterans and retired civilians	919,000
Federal employés	650,000
Public works employés	633,000
Army and navy	259,000
Conservation corps	328,000
AAA beneficiaries	3,185,000
Total	22,934,000
LOANS.
Home mortgages	414,000
Farm mortgages	420,000
Seed loans	376,000
Drouth loans	26,000

Brain Trust Grips Power.

With a fifth of the country wholly or partially dependent on the New Dealers for their living, the brain trust has taken a terrific grip on political power in this country, observers here admit.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and other brain trust members are frank to say that at least a by-product of the huge New Deal is the purchase of political popularity for the Roosevelt administration. Secretary Wallace, in discussing the relatively poor showing of the New Deal in the middle west in a recent straw vote of the country, frankly ascribed the fact to the failure of AAA corn-hog payments to get under way.

That the ward heelers of the party in power are attempting to turn citizens' dependency on easy money into political capital has recently come to light. The Home Owners Loan corporation and the Farm Credit administration, who hold mortgages on more than 800,000 farmers and city dwellers, have admitted being approached by political workers with requests for lists of their mortgagees.

Seen as Frankenstein.

Critics of the New Deal charge that the huge pay roll will turn out to be a Frankenstein, destroying the New Deal. Having given the people a taste of easy money, the New Dealers must go through the unpopular process of cutting them off the pay roll or of bankrupting the treasury through a continuation of the billion dollar pay roll.

By far the largest item on the pay roll is relief. The drouth, which has added almost 3,200,000 to the dole lists this summer, has prevented the usual midyear recession in relief costs. As a result the total number on relief, as reported by the relief administration, is 3,600,000 families, or, according to administration estimates, 16,000,000 persons.

Second largest item, however, is the AAA cash payments to farmers. This year approximately 3,185,000 farmers are scheduled to receive checks on the federal treasury for acreage reduction. Of these 1,112,000 will be under the corn-hog program, 970,000 under cotton, 844,000 under wheat, and 239,000 under tobacco.

970,000 on "Work Relief."

"Work relief," the successor to the CWA, is causing 970,000 persons to draw weekly pay checks from the treasury. Veterans and other pensioners who get a monthly stipend from the government number 919,000.

Since the arrival of the New Deal direct employment in the federal bureaucracy has risen steadily until it is near the wartime peak. About 650,000 persons, including some part time workers, are directly employed making the wheels of the Washington bureaucracy turn.

Public works, once hailed as the solution for unemployment, have amounted to very little and are far down on the list of pay roll totals with only 623,000.

FIND MISSING WOMAN DROWNED.

The body of a woman recovered from the lake near Navy pier last Wednesday was identified yesterday as that of Mrs. Praska Plywaczyk, 51 years old, 1531 West 20th street, who had disappeared from her home the previous day.

8 BLUE EAGLES ARE WITHDRAWN; 2 FROM CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—NRA today announced the withdrawal of eight Blue Eagles. They were:

Blakeland inn, Littleton, Colo., charged with violating both minimum wage and maximum hour provisions of the restaurant code.

Boston Lunch, Inc., Milwaukee, charged with violating maximum hour provisions of the restaurant code.

Frank Sirota, Chicago, charged with violating wage and hour provisions of the retail food and grocery code.

NRA said the Blue Eagle would be restored to the General Felt Products company on the signing of certificates of compliance. The same statement was made in Sirota's case with the additional requirement that he must make up employés' back wages.

BRANDS JOHNSON TALK CHALLENGE TO PRESS OF U. S.

Statement Called Libel by Dean Ackerman.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia university school of journalism, said tonight Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's Chicago speech was "a direct challenge to the press to lead the fight for freedom of public opinion."

CARL ACKERMAN.

Ackerman told a special meeting of the California Publishers' association that from the time the President signed the recovery act "Gen. Johnson has been fighting to control the press and substitute NRA made opinion for public opinion."

"The men who drafted the law which gave the President power to license the press not only desired but expected to control the press," he said. "Furthermore, they intended to use the radio, which the government can license, to manufacture government opinion."

Scores Johnson's Efforts.

He charged Gen. Johnson a year ago believed he could "control the press and suppress public opinion," but said the fight of the publishers for press freedom in the newspaper code "deprived him of his opportunity to establish a dictatorship by law."

"Today Gen. Johnson seeks to accomplish the same objective by criticizing the press over the radio in the hope and with the expectation that he can undermine public confidence in news and substitute government opinion for public opinion," he continued.

Dean Ackerman asserted that Gen. Johnson had libeled the press of the nation when he said he had seen "able young men prostituting their talents in libelous and misleading stories pandered as news at the behest of opinionated bosses."

Dean Ackerman called on the press to make Gen. Johnson submit proof of this indictment.

"Are not the libel laws for the protection of the press as well as the public?" he asked.

Text of Speech.

Here is the address of Mr. Ackerman:

"Gen. Johnson's address in Chicago last night is a challenge to every citizen who has sworn to support the constitution of the United States. Speaking as a responsible official of the United States government he pleaded again for a dictatorship under the NRA. He made statements which are historically and factually inaccurate and which were unquestionably deliberately intended to substitute government made opinion for public opinion.

"Gen. Johnson's speech makes the freedom of opinion as important an issue today as the freedom of the press was one year ago and every citizen who cherishes his liberties must decide between the bill of rights or government by executive order, the twin brother of martial law.

Must Not Be Servile.

"President Nicholas Murray Butler stated the issue clearly when he said that the first principle of a democracy is that government must be subject to public opinion. Public opinion must not be servile to government. Gen. Johnson is opposed to that principle.

"From the day the national industrial recovery act was signed by President Roosevelt to the present hour Gen. Johnson has been fighting to control the press and substitute NRA made opinion for public opinion. The men who drafted that law which gave the President power to license the press not only desired but expected to control the press. Furthermore, they intended to use the radio which the government can license to manufacture government opinion.

Wanted "Symphony of Action."

"One year ago Gen. Johnson personally asserted at A Century of Progress Exposition that with the radio and motion picture he could create a 'symphony of action' in the United States. At that time he thought he would be able to control the press and suppress public opinion, but the fight of the newspaper publishers of the United States for the freedom of the press in the daily newspaper code deprived him of his opportunity to establish a dictatorship by law.

"Today Gen. Johnson seeks to accomplish his objective by criticizing the press over the radio in the hope and with the expectation that he can undermine public confidence in news and substitute government opinion for public opinion.

"'Why,' he asks, 'we do not have an undivided press is beyond me.' What is an undivided press but a servile press? 'I wish we could get more general, wholehearted support for NRA.' What is that but the wish of a would-be dictator?

Wants Press to Take Orders.

"What Gen. Johnson wants is a press which will take orders, a press which is united for the government and by the government, edited by government yes-men who will suppress every opinion not approved by an American made dictator of propaganda.

"While there is more involved in Gen. Johnson's address than the fate of the press let us consider calmly as newspaper men his specific charges. Gen. Johnson said:

"'I have seen news garbled, suppressed, and colored, and I have seen able young men prostituting their talents in libelous and misleading stories pandered as news at the behest of opinionated bosses.'

Demands He Submit Proof.

"The American press should make Gen. Johnson state the facts in his possession and submit proof of this indictment. To have a statement such as this enter millions of American homes, sponsored by a high official of our government, is a libel on every newspaper in the United States. Are not libel laws for the protection of the press as well as the public?

"Continuing, Gen. Johnson declared: 'I protest that it is not freedom of the press to suppress or garble important news of public affairs which happens not to be in accord with some editorial policy or opinion.'

"In these two statements Gen. Johnson accused you gentlemen and every other newspaper publisher and owner in this country of being parties to the suppression, the garbling and the coloring of news. That is a serious charge which is factually untrue. What are you going to do about it, write editorials or take some action?

Free and Fair Press Here.

"Of what value is the freedom of the press to you if the officials of your government can make charges such as these over the radio, charges which are deliberately calculated to undermine public confidence in your newspapers, in your policies, in your integrity, in your intellectual honesty and in your independence?

"From my knowledge of the newspapers and press associations of the United States I do not believe Gen. Johnson can prove either statement. Looking back over twenty-five years of experience in newspaper work in Europe, the orient and all parts of this country and as a reader of scores of newspapers regularly, I know that there is not a freer, a more impartial or a more public spirited press in the world than we have in this country.

"I know the press associations which report and distribute news from Washington to every city in this country are as accurate, fair, and impartial as any human activity can be. I know that no man, in office or in private life, can buy, control, influence, garble or color the Washington news of the leading press associations.

Libel on Correspondents.

"Furthermore, there is not a more honest and public spirited group of men in the United States than the Washington correspondents of the American newspapers, but Gen. Johnson libels these men as he libels you because he is not specific. He gives the radio audience to understand that the suppression, the garbling, and the coloring of news is a common practice of newspaper men. That is the same charge Hitler made against the German press before he destroyed its freedom and substituted government made newspapers for an independent press. That is the way Hitler tried to justify his actions. That is the course he followed to create a so-called united nation.

"Fortunately for the United States Gen. Johnson will never be able to establish an NRA dictatorship because freedom of opinion makes public opinion and the American people are not going to substitute government made news for the news of free and independent newspapers.

Must Continue to Lead.

"Ever since the newspapers united to fight for the freedom of the press under the NRA they have been leading public opinion. Looking forward to an unknown and equally uncertain future, will the press and should it continue to lead?

"The answer to the first half of that question rests with you, with the newspaper publishers of the United States. Will you lead or will you follow public opinion? In reply to the second half may I submit for your consideration the following observations in regard to the relation of public opinion to government?

"The free flow of news, locally, nationally, and internationally is indispensable in a democracy. Information holds the community together. It makes the United States a united country. Without the minute by minute collection of uncensored and uncontroled news and its daily distribution throughout the country this nation would be as divided as the continent of Europe.

"Without the free, full flow of daily news there can be no public opinion because news provides the sinews of public opinion. In the gathering of news the press must lead.

Must Lead Opinion.

"The press must lead public opinion because it is independent. The NRA does not and cannot control the press. The press is not subject to the influence of any federal appropriations. In its news policies it is wholly independent of politicians, and if it maintains this independence public opinion will follow its leadership.

"By independence I mean courageous independence. The press must be independent of big and little business. It must be independent of organized and unorganized labor. It must be independent of government made news and opinions. It must be independent in order that it may challenge any government policy, any act or edict of the NRA. It must continue to be independent to print all the news, all facts and differing opinions or the people of this country will experience a nation-wide disillusionment which will end in a revolution of action.

"And it is that kind of action which Gen. Johnson will bring if he continues to claim that recovery and reconstruction depend upon an undivided press in support of NRA.

"Compare the public attitude toward recovery one year ago with today. Last year at this time freedom of opinion did not exist. Public emotion controled our destiny. We cheered like children who had found a new bird in the woods. The beginning, the middle and the end of the story you publishers know because you cooperated with the newspapers throughout the country in safeguarding the freedom of opinion in a national emergency. That institutional achievement will rank with anything John Milton ever said or did because it restored public opinion as a force in national affairs.

Today's Status More Wholesome.

"Today the public attitude toward recovery is more wholesome because it is democratic. Freedom is the most active subject of national discussion, claimed by many speakers, Democrats and Republicans alike, as their trademark. But the theory and blessings of liberty are not worth a postage stamp unless applied to the practical problems of the day. That is the responsibility of an independent press.

"A courageous, independent press must lead the people to a realization of one all-important fact—that democracy rests upon the individual responsibility of every citizen. Recovery depends upon it. Reconstruction is impossible without it. Every new deal and every succession of new deals which we have had since the pilgrims landed depend upon local and individual responsibility.

Press Is Largely Local.

"Fortunately for the United States, the newspapers in this country are largely local institutions, so that they are in a position to lead public opinion. Fortunately for the future of our country and the peace of our country, the press is independent. If it continues to be as courageous as it has been during the past year freedom of opinion will not only make public opinion the master of our destiny but it will master the practical problems which trouble all of us.

"Today President Roosevelt arrived in Portland on his way to Washington. He will inspect two gigantic electric power projects. But all of the electricity which may be generated there and by all other federal water power projects will not begin to have the influence upon recovery and reconstruction that public opinion will have in the future if the newspapers have the courage to be independent as well as free."

POLICE HUNT WATCH GEN. JOHNSON LEFT ON SPEAKER'S STAND

Sergt. Sam McDowell and Patrolman William Higgins of the World's Fair police yesterday were assigned to search for the wrist watch which Gen. Hugh S. Johnson reported lost Thursday night after he had completed his speech in the Lagoon theater at the Fair.

The general had placed his watch on a stand beside him while he spoke into the microphone, and had returned to his automobile before he realized he had forgotten it. He went back to search for it and found it was gone.

Another thing that was reported to have perturbed Gen. Johnson yesterday was his discovery that most of the radio audience did not hear the last six minutes of his address at the Fair. Gen. Johnson was scheduled to go on the air at 8:15 Thursday night, but Mayor Kelly and Gov. Horner, who preceded him, spoke until 8:34. According to schedule, the National Broadcasting company cut off the program on its chain at 9 o'clock, but the general kept on speaking until 9:06, unaware that all the radio listeners did not hear his concluding remarks. The general's speech was heard in full over WCFL and W-G-N.

JOHNSON FAILS TO PROVE CHARGE AGAINST PAPERS

Doesn't Produce Orders to Slam NRA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, chief of the NRA, who has accused newspapers of ordering their reporters to play up news unfavorable to the NRA, has failed thus far to produce copies of any such orders to reporters.

Johnson yesterday in a speech at Chicago accused the press of garbling and distorting news on the New Deal. This attack was practically a repetition of an attack he made on the press at Charleston, W. Va., in June when he said, "I have seen instructions to reporters to send no news favorable to NRA, but to play up everything that might be construed against NRA."

A reporter for THE TRIBUNE, in an interview with Gen. Johnson, offered to reproduce photostatic copies of such orders which Johnson could produce. Although still professing to have seen or to possess copies of such orders, Johnson refused and has thus far failed to produce them.

Makes Offer to Tribune.

In response to THE TRIBUNE'S inquiry, however, the general through his secretary, Miss Frances Robinson, offered to furnish evidence of such orders issued by THE TRIBUNE itself. The general and Miss Robinson asserted that they felt justified in showing a paper evidence of its own orders but did not feel that they should make public to one newspaper orders given by another.

THE TRIBUNE'S orders offered by the general turned out to be a long letter written by former Gov. William E. Sweet of Colorado, who is now on the NRA pay roll.

Gov. Sweet recounted his experiences at a rubber trade association meeting in Chicago where, he said, he encountered a TRIBUNE reporter who said that he was looking for an angle of the meeting which would be derogatory to the NRA because his paper's policy was contrary to the NRA.

Charges Garbling of Speech.

Gov. Sweet in his letter to Johnson also quoted at length from a speech he made at the meeting and from THE TRIBUNE account of the speech, claiming that the news story distorted and garbled his address.

It was pointed out to Johnson that the letter and documents which he offered contained no orders telling reporters to play up derogatory news and that, furthermore, the documents gave no evidence even if what they stated were true that the reporter had received any orders on the subject.

Johnson and Miss Robinson replied that they had seen actual orders issued by other papers to play down favorable NRA developments. Asked if they would not give these orders to THE TRIBUNE for reproduction in its columns, they replied again that they did not feel justified in giving one paper orders or documents issued by another.

PUBLISHERS WILL FIGHT NRA RULE OVER NEWSPRINT

Attempt to Fix Prices Battled.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—American newspaper publishers today gave NRA notice of a "fight to the finish" to block operations of a proposed special board with powers over newsprint prices and supply.

The publishers' association through its counsel, Elisha Hanson, and Special Attorney Bainbridge Colby, expressed its unanimous opposition to the plan as "monopolistic."

Edgar Rickard, chairman of the code authority, spoke for the newsprint industry but did not go into the merits of the proposal beyond expressing the industry's approval. Rickard referred NRA to the record of previous hearings for the newsprint attitude and said creation of a board was suggested by NRA itself.

The pending recommendation designed as a supplement to the newsprint code, would establish a newsprint planning and adjustment board of nine—three from the newsprint industry, three for newspaper publishers, one labor man from each of these groups and a disinterested administration member. This board would have authority over supply and prices always subject to review by Hugh E Johnson.

Consumers Board Represented.

Just before Lieut. D. H. Tulley, a deputy administrator, closed the hearing and took the testimony under advisement, a statement was read for NRA's consumers advisory board by Thomas McGuire. The board endorsed the proposal but said "we do not agree that price fixing is the appropriate way to deal with this industry's problems."

McGuire's recommendation would allow the planning board to fix, with Johnson's approval, minimum prices during declared emergencies, but would eliminate trade practice provisions written into the plan.

"It is our understanding that the board was to do the planning and advising, not just inherit a set of arbitrary rules that it might be impossible to change or correct," McGuire said.

He recommended also that "no ruling adversely affecting industry or consumer would be effective unless approved by a majority of six members.

See Attempt at Monopoly.

Hanson contended the proposal violated a 1917 federal court decree "perpetually" enjoining price fixing and other anti-trust law violations and asserted the "whole matter" should be referred to Attorney General Cummings for investigation.

He said the plan sought "to create a monopoly of the United States market for the benefit of Canadian and United States manufacturers of newsprint paper."

"I submit," he said, "that the time has come when the NRA, instead of listening further to their pleas to cloak their illegal acts with administrative sanction should refer their case to the attorney general for appropriate action."

Colby, who was secretary of state during the Wilson administration, said the newsprint industry had "utterly disregarded" and "designedly, intentionally and purposely violated" the court decree against price fixing.

He added that since last October the industry had operated under an agreement which had eliminated competition in violation of the court decree.

"You are now asked to approve their lawless conduct," Colby said, "and protect them from the penalties which are their due and give them a clean bill of health."

See Press Freedom Imperiled.

He asserted that freedom of the press would be endangered by creation of a monopoly with control over newsprint.

Floyd Chalfant of the Waynesboro Herald endorsed the A. N. P. A. petition on behalf of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' association. A similar endorsement was given by Robert R. Pritchard, vice president of the National Editorial association, representing 12,000 small weekly papers.

Paul Patterson spoke in behalf of the Scripps-Howard papers which he said publish 24 newspapers with a daily circulation of over 2,000,000.

"The only purpose of this proposal is to fix prices so they can sell to foreigners at a low price and to us at a high price," Patterson said. "They hope for $50 a ton. That's a high price compared to $20 to England and $20 to South America. This proposal does nothing else but provide machinery for price fixing for the benefit of the Canadian newsprint industry.

"In our opinion, it violates the anti-trust laws."

Uses Ice Box to Prove Size of Hailstones

Morris, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—In order to refute any doubts about it, Mrs. Ida Walker went out into a hailstorm yesterday and secured a hailstone which measured 5¼ inches around the middle and 6 inches the other way. She preserved it in an ice box to prove her story.

Uncover a Will Drawn 18 Years Before Emerson's Death

Stockton, Cal., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—A last will and testament, drawn 13 years before the outbreak of the civil war, has been found among the belongings of Emerson Andrew Hera. The parchment document, penned and sealed on Aug. 4, 1847, by Samuel Ralston, pioneer Indiana jurist, will be 101 years old Monday. It was bequeathed his home property, a horse and cattle to his wife. He gave each of three daughters a share in other land holdings and stock. To one surviving son he left 10 pounds of "sound silver money," and to a kinsman left 20 pounds "providing he behaved well."

FRENCH PREDICT HITLER'S ACTION WILL CRUSH HIM

Paris Sees Nazi Chieftain Headed for Disaster.

[Copyright 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Having recovered from the first shock of learning that Adolf Hitler is now leader and chancellor of Germany, and so is commander-in-chief of the German army, France set about today to gather what crums of comfort it could find in contemplating the tremendous difficulties that beset his path.

Officially there has been no deviation from that calm with which government leaders here generally act at times when the rest of the world expects the Frenchman's proverbially excitable disposition to show itself.

It is a safe prediction that the French will go on continue the policies that have so successful ringed Germany with powerful opponents. If possible, those policies will be pushed harder than ever.

Vision "End of Hitler."

The French have always regarded the reich's serious economic situation as the weakest part of the Nazi armor and they do not believe Hitler's assumption of greater power will make any difference. As they see it, the leader has taken on responsibilities that may sober him at first and crush him later.

The chief question being asked is: "Which way will Hitler go—left or right?" French observers are unable to figure out whether he is a tool of the army and as such will follow the lead of the generals, the junkers, the industrialists, and perhaps even of the monarchists, or whether he has thrown his lot completely with his party in an effort to carry out its revolutionary program. Between these two evils the French would prefer the former, but judging by the newspapers, and particularly by the semi-official Temps, they fear that the latter is most likely.

What everyone is agreed upon is that Hitler must do something. As Pierre Bernus put it in tonight's Journal des Debats:

"In order to escape falling, Hitler always has had to climb higher and higher. Now that he is at the summit, there is nothing left but to slide off the top, which is surrounded by precipices. The fall will take place some day, but it may take time.

Surprised by Army's Action.

"The reich leader, who has proved that he stops at no violence, will resort to every possible means to stay where he is, and when crushes he will make sure that he does not fall alone or without a struggle."

The army's immediate capitulation to Hitler caught the French by surprise. They had expected to see a struggle for power between the reichswehr command and the chancellor. The press commentators seek to make the best of the situation.

"The reichswehr is marching along," writes Dominique in the Republique. "It has taken an oath. But we know what such an oath is worth. The French army between 1799 and 1852 took oaths to a consul, two emperors, three kings, and one republic and changed flags three times. One cannot govern with machine guns. An obedient reichswehr does not solve a problem that may be put as follows: How can 65,000,000 Germans be led?"

POLAND WISHES HITLER WELL IN HIS NEW DUTIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Aug. 3.—Poland wishes Chancellor Hitler well. This sentiment, although carefully expressed, is contained in many articles in the Polish newspapers about possible developments in Germany. Many Poles, who today are linked with Germany in a pact of friendship and non-aggression, believe Hitler has made Germany less militaristic.

"Both Germany and Hitler lost much with the death of President von Hindenburg, because for the country Von Hindenburg was the last guarantee of order and common sense, while Hitler and his régime, through the prestige of the president, was treated with respect abroad," said Poland's conservative pro-government newspaper, the Cracow Czas. "Today Hitler is left alone, facing dangerous internal problems, and also a strong wall of distrust and enmity abroad which has developed because of the mistakes of the third reich."

Czas also thinks the slaying during Hitler's purge of the Nazi party of Von Hindenburg's pupil and friend, Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, did much to hasten the death of the marshal.

"This epic man died prosaically, but how bitter his last moments must have been, thinking of the future of his fatherland," Czas said.

MISSING BRITISH NAVAL PAPERS TURN UP SAFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Search for a missing box containing admiralty papers, which disappeared mysteriously from a train between London and Portsmouth, ended tonight with its unexpected return to the starting point at Hebburn-on-Tyne. The box, which was being taken by an admiralty messenger from Messrs. Hawthorn Leslie & Co., a naval construction concern at Hebburn, to the Portsmouth dockyard, disappeared yesterday.

It appears that during the London to Portsmouth stage of the journey the label directing the box be delivered to the dockyard became detached. A railroad official, noticing the firm's name painted on the box, immediately placed it on a train heading back north. Railway officials at Hebburn were greatly surprised when the red box, for which officials of the admiralty, two railroad companies, and the criminal investigation departments of Scotland Yard, Portsmouth, and Newcastle were searching for more than twenty-four hours, was dumped out of the train as a parcel in ordinary transit.

GERMANY PAYS TRIBUTE AT BIER OF HINDENBURG

Controversy Arises Over Burial Plans.

it had been announced by government officials that the body would be buried in the Tower of the Commander in the Tannenberg memorial. The authorities said the Von Hindenburg family had yielded to the government's wish to bury him there instead of on the Neudeck estate, as Von Hindenburg had expressed a wish to be.

Family Withholds Consent.

Today the family indicated that it had not yet given its consent for burial in the memorial, which was erected to commemorate Von Hindenburg's victory over the Russian army which invaded Germany 20 years ago this month.

The family said burial probably would be in the family plot on the Neudeck estate, and that a mausoleum probably would be built later in the estate park.

Nevertheless, at Hohenstein, near the Tannenberg monument, activities were begun by officials and workmen in preparation for the funeral ceremony.

Rumor Will Is Lost.

There were rumors tonight that Von Hindenburg's will cannot be found and that the late president's secretary, Otto Meissner, spent most of the day at Neudeck castle frantically searching for it. Authorities refuse to deny or confirm the rumor.

Best informed circles believe that if a will was left it would have been intrusted to Minister of War Gen. Werner von Blomberg, close friend of the late president. Gen. von Blomberg is chief of the reichswehr [army].

The alacrity with which Gen. von Blomberg ordered the army to swear allegiance to Hitler yesterday was taken as an indication that Von Hindenburg saw in Hitler his only possible successor, although it is known that Von Hindenburg, as a descendant of the feudal lords of Prussia, would have been happy to have been able to pave the way for a return of the monarchy.

Among the flood of messages of condolence received by the government today that of President Roosevelt made the deepest impression because, as the Nazi press points out, "it is the first direct message from Mr. Roosevelt to Hitler."

Will Hitler Become King?

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The events of the last few days, coupled with a historical parallel, caused some observers to wonder tonight whether Germany is headed again toward a monarchy, with Adolf Hitler on the throne instead of a Hohenzollern.

Hitler's assumption of the chief executive's powers and functions after the death of President von Hindenburg and then demanding a plebiscite seemed strikingly in line with the practices of Napoleon III.

On Nov. 7, 1852, Napoleon was elevated by the senate from the presidency of the throne and five days later a plebiscite put the stamp of popular approval on the action.

That the plebiscite called by Hitler for Aug. 19 will result in overwhelming approval of his action in assuming the presidential functions in addition to those of chancellor was taken for granted throughout the country.

BRITISH FOREIGN MINISTER DENIES THAT HE'S A JEW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—A vigorous denial of statements current in Great Britain and abroad that he is of Jewish origin, and that his ancestry has powerfully influenced the policy of the national government since he became foreign secretary was made by Sir John Simon in a letter to Sir Archibald Hurd, published tonight.

Hurd recently brought the reports to the notice of the foreign secretary, who in his reply declared:

"I am just an ordinary Briton of Aryan stock, without any Jewish admixture whatever. My mother comes of an old English family, and my father was Welsh."

Simon also expressed the hope his denial would not be distorted to make him appear sympathetic with anti-Semitism, an attitude which he regards as "un-English" and which he "utterly condemns."

Toronto Vets' Condolences Sent to Hindenburg's Son

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 3.—Toronto's fighting forces in the world war as represented by the Canadian Legion convention here today decided to send a letter of condolence to the bereaved son of President Paul von Hindenburg of Germany. The war veterans expressed respect for the warrior president. There was no dissenting vote.

Luther Sails to Resume Post as Nazi Envoy to U. S.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador to the United States, left for Washington today aboard the S. S. Europa to resume his post. His departure set at rest rumors that he would be supplanted as ambassador by a Nazi party member.

REGISTRATION OF KEYS, NEW FREE SERVICE, OFFERED BY TRIBUNE

Yesterday morning THE TRIBUNE advertising and public service office in Tribune Tower announced a new free service of registering keys through serial numbers to facilitate their recovery if lost by their owners.

To demonstrate the practicability of the service, six bunches of keys with bronze tags bearing a serial number attached were dropped at various places in the loop.

Up to last night, four of the bunches of keys had been returned to the public service office. One bunch, bearing a tag with the number "235" was brought in at 4 p. m. by John B. Calo, 17 years old, 7442 Addison street. He explained that he had found the keys on the public library steps and was able to return them immediately because the tag said that the owner's name was on file at the want ad store of THE TRIBUNE at Tribune Tower. He was presented with an award of a registered key tag, one of the more than 325 requested yesterday.

Another bunch of keys, found at State and Jackson streets, was turned in to THE TRIBUNE public service office at 1 South Dearborn street by a man who would not give his name. The other bunches were returned by an employé of the Hotel Sherman and by H. Donnelly, superintendent of the main floor at Mandel Brothers.

The use of the serial number, registered with name and address in Tribune Tower, it was explained, is a guarantee of safety in case keys are lost, since name and address tags may act as an invitation to the dishonest to invade the office, home, or garage.

HITLER SEEKING UNITY, AVERS KIN OF KAISER HERE

Prince Sees No Peril for Conservatives.

The ascendancy of Adolf Hitler as German president-dictator will not mean the end of stabilization in Germany despite the death of President Paul von Hindenburg, Prince Louis Ferdinand, grandson of the former kaiser, predicted in Chicago yesterday.

Prince Louis, who left Germany July 19, is spending two days at A Century of Progress. The lanky 26 year old Hohenzollern is the second son of Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm and is a representative of the Ford Motor company in Germany. He previously worked for the company in Detroit, California, and South America.

Seeks Unity, He Says.

"Hitler will rule as the people wish him to," said the prince. "Germany does not fear that the death of Von Hindenburg means the end of conservatism.

"The people are thoroughly behind Hitler. They know he is improving economic conditions and that he is seeking to improve foreign relations. He is really conservative and is seeking the needed unity of Germany."

The differences between Austria and Germany will be ended, Prince Louis declared. "The visit of Von Papen to Austria should clear everything," he said.

Pre-War South Viewed as Idea in This Novel

"So Red the Rose" Is Set in Natchez.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"So Red the Rose," by Stark Young. [Scribners.]

ABOUT no portion of the United States has there been so much and such balderdash written as about "the old south." It became, for many years, a sort of set piece of fireworks, like the old "The Last Days of Pompeii," glaringly spectacular, full of bombast and showers of golden rain which was damped out almost as soon as it was shot into the air, leaving behind an acrid smell of burned powder rather than the subtle insinuation of cape jasmine and olive myrtle.

"Graciousness," "chivalry," "old family plate," "pillars and porticos" came to be gibes of emotions and decoration rather than exact statements of psychological and physical fact. "Southern romance," once luring, became lurid. Readers were fed up with the soppy sentimental and turned with a natural eagerness to the realer horrors of southern life as depicted by Faulkner and Wolfe. Then of a sudden there arose a school of southern writing which resurrected the romance, married it to reality, and bore fruit in such work as that of T. S. Stribling.

And now comes a novel which has everything that the gagging school of the pre-Faulkner days wrote about, done, miraculously in the period, but giving a sense of reality as vivid as any of the moderns. Stark Young has chosen Natchez, Miss., as the scene of "So Red the Rose," and the days preceding the outbreak of the civil war, the war itself, and the immediate months following for his re-creation of what, as much as Boston ever was, was a state of mind.

"The old south" was less a civilization than an outlook on life, and as such Stark Young treats it. The result is an idyll rather than a picture, a sensing rather than a statement.

To me "So Red the Rose" is wholly successful in its faults as well as in all of its virtues. The conversation, so vague, so sort of undirected [authors usually prune away or add irrelancies for their purpose], the psychology of the characters, so humanly illogical, the background so soft, so fragrant, so accepted by the characters, all seem to me to be of the very essence of the time, the place, and the psychology.

The war takes its toll, materially and spiritually, in its pages, but when the reader finishes the book there is that sense of the permanency of an idea which one feels in the south . . . or the east, or the west, or Germany, or France, or Canada . . . the roots of something, grafted and regrafted to produce fruit utterly unlike themselves, but fundamentally permanent.

Mr. Young, in writing "So Red the Rose," has taken from me the material which I had stored up against my old age when my feeble fingers were to write my novels. Ever since my first sight of Natchez a book has been seething in my mind with that background. Being farther away from the old south psychologically, my imagined tale had less of the soft loveliness of camellias and more of the dead gray moss in it than Mr. Young's, but he has done so well, an epic of Natchez, that it is with regret but not rueful reluctance that I give up my unwritten tale of the place in America which seems to me to be more vibrant with a certain kind of fictional material than any other.

All of those lovely old houses, now miraculously preserved in their great moment of death—like flies in amber—which become a part of your mind, and heart, and spirit at first glimpse of them, live in Mr. Young's pages in their moments of highest, most vibrant life.

Mr. Young has managed to capture in his first novel the fragrance, the romance, the reality of an idea.

GUEST BOOK

This amusing caricature labeled "Approaching Broadway" adorns the incomparable guest book of Mary Anderson of the Drake hotel. It was drawn before my eyes on Wednesday afternoon by the author of "Sherman," Lloyd Lewis [the Union soldier in the background about to pop off his cannon], while he and Sinclair Lewis discussed the approaching first night of their civil war play, "The Jayhawker."

Sinclair Lewis had just returned from a visit to his birthplace, Sauk Center, Minn., and was packing Secretary Lou Florey [who has been with him a decade or more], and the Ford in which they had driven from Minnesota onto a boat for Buffalo—seeing America by hand as he has seen the world.

"The Jayhawker" will open in Washington and will be published in book form simultaneously in the fall.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

A more engaging mystery story than Channing Pollock's "Synthetic Gentleman" [Farrar & Rinehart] it would be hard to find. Young Barry Gilbert will win your heart at the first go-off and though you may be a little mystified by the way he puts it over for the duration of the summer you'd be awfully upset if anything really serious checked his career.

It's another of those stories where all your sympathies are with the murderer who has pushed off the earth a thoroughly obnoxious character. With Barry's, your suspicions range all over Long Island and greater New York but when the final surprise is sprung you will heave a sigh of relief and say to yourself, "Of course, I might have known it." Which in my opinion is a real tribute to a writer of mystery stories who has led you a chase among assorted possibilities and never until almost the last page makes any disclosures.

Another nice thing about the book is the likeableness of almost everybody in it from a girl with a nasty temper to a chauffeur with a sick wife. They all, no matter how rough the exterior, have hearts of gold and not a Pollyanna anywhere about the place. Somehow, even after the final revelation, you would like to keep right on reading about them instead of putting the book down and heaving a sigh of relief that the criminal is safely jailed—not that he-she is, but that might be telling.

Even without the mystery element this would be a neat little novel so suited to the summer reading of any age or condition that I urge its immediate purchase. You'll be entertained from the first word to the last and even though you may feel that Mr. Pollock has made plausible a pretty untenable proposition you'll applaud him for so doing and respect his skill.

Intimate Diary of Psychologist to Be Published

English Woman Tells of Hunt for Happiness.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A book that promises to be of exceptional interest is to be published in the early autumn by Chatto & Windus. It is called "A Life of One's Own" [the echo of Mrs. Woolf's "A Room of One's Own" is palpable], and is by a practicing and experienced psychologist who prefers to use the pseudonym of Joanna Field. The book is based upon the writer's personal and very intimate diary as kept during seven years, when she was exploring herself with strict and merciless candor.

And the effect of it is to show how Joanna Field reached an understanding of what was needed for her own happiness. In this way it should have an appeal for innumerable women whose self-explorations have not had so happy a conclusion, and as a human document and a revelation of the spirit it should command wide attention.

Rather less exactly, Richard Aldington is going to picture in his next novel, "Women Must Work," [also Chatto & Windus], the history of a woman of today, born in a provincial town.

The heroine runs away from home, arrives in London, is affected by the suffragist ideas of her age, works in a city office, then as private secretary and companion, and finally in a government office during the war. The book is modern in tone and may be Mr. Aldington's best work to date.

Two highly ingenious books are announced by Victor Gollancz; and both are anthologies. The first, "The Major Pleasures of Life," has been compiled by Martin Armstrong, the novelist and poet, and ranges from books and art to food, drink, and the simple life. It is no haphazard collection of sayings and brief essays, but a serious and constructive gathering of human ideas concerning whatever is of most importance to human beings.

The second book, which is called "The Minor Pleasures of Life," has been made by Miss Rose Macaulay. Here the number of pleasures is well nigh limitless, and Miss Macaulay has to reduce them to alphabetical order. She begins with churchgoing, passes to clothes, destruction, gossip, ignorance, malice, old age, snacks between meals, sprunking [which is defined as "making up the face and appearance"] through the ages, and ends with xenophobia, or hate of foreigners.

These two books will unquestionably be the anthologies of the year. They are full of research into all sorts of byways in literature, and will divert, instruct, and edify the age.

Another interesting set of books is that inaugurated by J. B. Priestley's "English Journey" [it will be remembered that "English Journey" was published jointly by Heinemann and Gollancz, and the same is true of the first of its successors, while the others are by Gollancz alone]. Sir Philip Gibbs writes "European Journey," M. Edouard Herriot "Russian Journey," and Edwin Muir "Scottish Journey."

Claude Houghton's Second Novel Published in City

Not long ago Frank Swinnerton wrote us from London, "There is probably no English novelist of less than middle age in whom Americans visiting London show such interest as Claude Houghton," and spoke of a new novel of his to be published in the fall. The Argus book shop of Chicago has recently published his second novel, "The Riddle of Helena," never before published in this country. It was this novel that Masaryk, professor-president of Czechoslovakia called "the most interesting foreign book read by me in 1932."

Soviet Artist Draws on Newsprint, Wins International Award

When the members of the Limited Editions club got their ration of "The Travels of Marco Polo" they found it illustrated with 150 drawings by Nikolai Fyodorovitch Lapshin. Those drawings won their creator, a professor in Leningrad, twenty-five hundred sound American dollars in an international contest. Four hundred artists from twenty-five countries entered the competition. Most of the contestants mounted their pictures beautifully, some even using large wood and glass frames.

But the fourteen soviet Russians who entered the contest were afflicted by the Russian shortage of paper; all of their drawings were sent in small envelopes and made upon scraps of paper. The Lapshin drawings, in multitudious colors, were drawn upon little scraps of newsprint and mailed in the smallest envelope of all.

"Lysistrata," the acting version by Gilbert Seldes, is the latest limited editions prize packet. It is illustrated with copper plate engravings by Pablo Picasso. An edition of "Ulysses" illustrated with lithographs by Henri Matisse is promised for 1935.

BOY SCOUTS WILL THRILL CROWD AT MUSIC FESTIVAL

4,000 Working on New Drill Feature.

FESTIVAL TICKETS

It is easy to purchase tickets for the great Chicagoland Music festival which will be given on the night of Aug. 18 at Soldiers' field. Your TRIBUNE carrier boy will take your order and deliver the tickets. You may purchase them by writing to the Music Festival Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, enclosing money order, check, or cash, or you may buy the tickets at any of The Tribune Public Service offices. Reserved seats are 50 cents; general admission tickets are 25 cents.

Four thousand Boy Scouts, under the direction of Alfred C. Nichols Jr., are working these days harder than they have worked all summer, preparing the biggest show Boy Scouts ever gave.

The show is to be one of the features of the Chicagoland Music festival the night of Aug. 18.

For four summers the festival has been the high point of popular priced entertainment in Chicago. The first festival drew so many thousands to Soldiers' field that the gates to the big arena had to be thrown open hours before the show began. Each succeeding show has demonstrated its pulling power. More than half a million have seen the four festivals.

Bands and Giant Choruses.

The massed bands and the giant choruses, seated on the platform at the north end of the field, have thrilled the listeners. The Western Electric company technicians have successfully worked out an amplification system capable of carrying the low tones of a single voice to the highest tiers of the horseshoe curve at the south end of the stadium.

But there has been one persistent suggestion from festival fans. "Give us more visual entertainment," they have asked.

And that's why the Boy Scouts have been given a featured part on this coming program.

While the bands play and the big horns send their martial airs ringing through the stadium four thousand Scouts will put on a display in the field that will answer the demand for something to see as well as hear.

Scouts to Show Craft.

The Scouts will be on the field only seven minutes.

But in that time they will erect 200 trees, raise hundreds of pup tents, build scores of camp fires, log cabins, and lean-tos, bridges and towers, conduct drills, and make a complete encampment.

All of this they will do in seven minutes.

A special Boy Scout train will bring 400 of the boys direct from their camp at Owasippe on the night of the big show.

Chicagoans have never had an opportunity to see Scout work on such a spectacular scale.

BIND BEAUTY SHOP WOMAN; EYES ARE TAPED, HAIR CUT

Kansas City, Kas., Aug. 3—(AP)—Federal agents have joined police in investigating an attack upon Mrs. Laura Ellis, a beauty parlor operator, who was found in her apartment today with her feet bound to the legs of a refrigerator, her eyes taped shut, and her hair closely cropped from her head. Unconscious when found, Mrs. Ellis could not tell authorities tonight what happened.

Mrs. Ellis was released in Decatur, Ill., June 22, after allegedly being kidnaped by three men in Kansas City, who, she said, tried to force her to sign a statement which she asserted was derogatory to W. Lee Vaughan, owner of a Kansas City, Kas., theater.

Kansas City, Kas., police said Vaughan has had trouble with a union labor group which has urged him to employ union workmen in his theater.

8,500 GUARDSMEN TO ARRIVE TODAY AT CAMP GRANT

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Final preparations were being rushed here today for the opening of the annual encampment of the Illinois National Guard and the arrival of 8,500 troops at Camp Grant tomorrow morning. More than 600 guardsmen are already upon the grounds.

Eleven planes piloted by officers of the aviation unit from the Chicago Municipal airport are due to arrive Saturday. Maj. Merrill D. Mann, 33d division aviation, is expected tonight, and Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, division commander, will arrive in the morning with the main body of troops.

Gov. Henry Horner, according to an announcement made today, will make his official visit to the camp Sunday, Aug. 12, although the principal review of the division is scheduled for Chicago on Saturday, Aug. 18.

PUSH HEARING ON PERMIT FOR FAIR IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3—[Special.]—Plans for a hearing Aug. 15 on the question of revoking a stock permit granted the Los Angeles National Exhibition, Inc., promoting a World's Fair here, went forward today under direction of local officers of the state corporation commission.

It was said that investigation would be made at the hearing as to whether a high officer of the group under inquiry had been arrested on various charges in Los Angeles, San Bernardino, and Tucson, Ariz.

Details of a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, filed in January of this year, also would be sought, it was declared.

Railway Glee Club to Compete in Music Festival

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Glee club of Baltimore, Md., is entered in the male chorus contest of the fifth Chicagoland Music festival, which will be held Saturday, Aug. 18. The chorus, directed by Ivan Servais, will compete that Saturday afternoon in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel and sing that night at the festival concert in Soldiers' field. R. M. Van Sant, secretary of the club, is in charge of the B. & O. exhibit in the Travel and Transport building at the World's Fair grounds. Fifty-four men will make the trip to Chicago. The woman in the picture is Charlotte Rodda, the accompanist. In addition to taking part in the festival the glee club will sing at the company's exhibit.

HEAD OF AUSTRIA SAVES NAZI CHIEF FROM GALLOWS

Sentence Commuted to Life in Prison.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Aug. 3.—Another death sentence by hanging was pronounced today by a special tribunal against Edward Honisch, 24 year old salesman, who was charged with possessing bombs, contrary to a decree promulgated by the slain Chancellor Dollfuss last month. The decree was issued to stamp out Nazi terrorism.

In accordance with the policy of leniency adopted yesterday in the case of Paul Hudl, however, President Wilhelm Miklas responded to an appeal for grace and commuted Honisch's sentence to life imprisonment.

Find Bombs in Residence.

The convicted Nazi's residence in Saint Polten, a town near Vienna, was raided July 27, the day after the Nazi putsch. A large quantity of explosives, bombs, and ammunition was found. Honisch was known as a local Nazi chieftain. He apparently obtained leniency on a plea that he had the explosives in his possession for a long time and had not surrendered them because of fear of arrest.

Today's death sentence was the fifth passed on Nazi terrorists this week. Three of the sentences have been carried out.

The case of Toni Egghard, 27 year old innkeeper of Graz, who was in command of the Nazi uprising in Styria, will be heard by a military court at Graz tomorrow, after having been twice postponed. Egghard may hang, as he is charged with high treason.

Socialists Get Light Sentences.

Before the ordinary tribunal at Vienna today three Socialists, charged with throwing a bomb on May 24, were given five months' imprisonment. The inconsistency in this decision to imprison three men for only five months for actually throwing bombs and sentencing a man to death before another court for merely possessing bombs was the subject of comment tonight.

Vienna is beginning to assume a normal appearance after a tragic week. Curfew regulations have been lifted and the streets have an unusual appearance of gayety. Tourist trafic is apparent and sightseeing buses have resumed business. Vienna's bathing beaches along the Danube are crowded with the usual week-end pleasure excursionists. Many trains, carrying thousands of people to various destinations for the August holidays, have left Vienna.

A report received tonight from Zagreb, Jugo-Slavia, said that the German consul was feeding groups of Austrian Nazis who had escaped across the border after the fighting in Carinthia. The consul is reported to possess special funds for this purpose. The escaped Nazis are seeking permits to go to Germany, it is stated.

Rintelen Suffers Stroke.

VIENNA, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Dr. Anton Rintelen, former Austrian minister to Italy, who has been seriously ill since a bullet almost killed him on the day after the Nazi putsch July 25, suffered a stroke of paralysis in his left side today. His condition was reported as critical. Rintelen was arrested after his name had been connected with the putsch. He was wounded in his cell.

The arrest of Dr. Erich Fuehrer, one of the attorneys who defended the two Nazis hanged for participation in the putsch which was fatal to Chancellor Dollfuss, has been revealed.

The lawyer's secretary said that the home and office of Fuehrer were raided by police yesterday, and after a thorough search for incriminating documents he was taken to headquarters.

"That was the last I saw of him," said the secretary.

The police and press offices when asked about the arrest resorted to generalities.

"Many hundreds have been arrested in the last few days," said an official. "We don't know whether Fuehrer was among them."

GETS 3 MONTHS IN BRIDEWELL AS DRUNKEN DRIVER

Samuel Salvo, 43 years old, 1517 South Wabash avenue, yesterday was sentenced to three months in the Bridewell and fined $100 by Judge Justin McCarthy in the Traffic court on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. A motion to vacate the judgment was entered and set for a hearing on Sept. 19.

Salvo, who owns a saloon, was arrested on the night of July 2 after his automobile collided in front of 3021 Milwaukee avenue with a car operated by Theodore Smolka, 3823 Diversey avenue. The police who investigated the accident testified that Salvo was drunk.

KILLED HOPPING TRAIN.

Andrew Schoemaker, 61 years old, inmate of a municipal shelter at 116 South Green street, was killed yesterday when he fell beneath the wheels while trying to board a Pere Marquette freight train at 95th street and South Chicago avenue.

FIANCEE CRIES BELIEF IN MAN ARRESTED AS YOUNG GIRL'S SLAYER

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The girl he was to have married next summer came today to the defense of Robert R. Edwards, young mining engineer charged with the murder of Freda McKechnie, 26, church worker.

ROBT. R. EDWARDS.

Edwards, police say, has admitted he slugged Miss McKechnie with a blackjack and threw her unconscious form into Harvey's lake, near Edwardsville, to avoid the consequences of her approaching motherhood.

Over mountain roads Margaret Crain, 23, a music teacher and the young man's fiancée, sped by automobile from her home at East Aurora, N. Y. Her 200 mile dash ended at midnight at the Wyoming barracks of the state police, where Edwards is a prisoner.

"It's a lie," she cried when told he had confessed slaying his home town sweetheart. "He's a gentleman, a perfect gentleman, and I know he never would do such a thing—I know it deep in my heart."

WANT ADS TRAP POLISH OFFICER AS GERMAN SPY

Sent to French Prison After Secret Trial.

PARIS, Aug. 3 — (AP) — Stanislas Krauss, former Polish army officer, was convicted today of being a German spy and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment and a fine of 500 francs [$33].

The sentence, the maximum penalty under the law, was based on charges made against Krauss and Capt. Georges Froge of the French army's quartermaster service in a secret trial.

Froge and Krauss were charged with having worked together to smuggle French military secrets across the Rhine, especially plans for the wartime defense of Belfort, important frontier city where Froge was stationed.

Says He Paid Officer $7,000.

Krauss, caught in a police trap in Paris, confessed, said the authorities, and implicated Froge, who has vehemently denied every charge, including even acquaintance with his alleged accomplice.

Amazing operations attributed to Krauss and the high repute in which Froge was held by his fellow-townsmen of Belfort, as well as the importance ascribed to the documents in which they were charged with trafficking, lift the case above the run-of-the-mill spy trials in France.

Krauss told the authorities, they said, that he had paid Froge 105,000 francs [about $7,000] for documents since the pair first met in a café near the French war school in Paris in April, 1931, until Froge found himself under suspicion two years' later.

Trapped by Want Ads.

Want ads in the Paris newspapers were their undoing, the police said. The secret police, scanning the papers, fell upon advertisments offering loans to functionaries and officers. At about the same time a French officer, innocently answering them, learned that a mysterious person was more than willing to exchange money for "documents interesting the national defense."

The officer notified his superiors and made an appointment to meet the stranger in Paris. Money for the trip was sent him in a psuedo-love letter signed "Germaine."

While police looked on from hiding in the gardens of the tuileries, in the heart of Paris, the officer and a stranger met. The officer handed over some documents, the stranger glanced through them with seeming satisfaction, placed them in his pocket and handed the officer a roll of banknotes. The stranger was Krauss.

Freed When Judge Rules Crash Law Omits Wagons

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Steve Markowich, 50, accused of violating the motor vehicle law pertaining to leaving the scene of an accident, walked out of court a free man today. Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud ruled the law did not cover horse and wagon mishaps. Markowich had been given a summons after his wagon bumped the fender of an automobile.

AUTOMOBILE TAX REDUCTION BODY ORGANIZED HERE

Plans Fight on Gas and License Fees.

BY HAL FOUST.

The organization of the Automobile Tax Reduction league was perfected yesterday at a meeting in the Drake hotel. Its purpose, as suggested by its name, is to reduce the gasoline tax and the state and city license fees on motor cars.

Judge O. B. Irwin of the Sangamon county Circuit court at Springfield was elected president. The other officers are: Franklin M. Miller, Chicago automobile dealer, first vice president; T. J. Schmitz, president of the Elgin Motor club, second vice president; Walter A Wade, attorney of the firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, treasurer; and Ray H. Weisbrod of Chicago, secretary. Si Mayer, president of the Automobile Club of Illinois, is the league's managing executive.

Plan Legislative Fight.

The objectives of the new organization, to be pressed before the next regular session of the general assembly, are as follows:

1. Prevent any further diversion of highway funds in Illinois. In 1933, $79,524,157 was diverted.

2. Reduce the state license fee to a flat $3 for all passenger cars and trucks. The present rates for passenger cars, depending upon the horsepower, are $8, $12, and $20, and the truck rates are as high as $250.

3. Cut the state motor fuel excise from 3 cents to 2 cents a gallon.

4. Prohibit any municipality from imposing a city wheel tax in excess of $2.50 a year. The prices of the Chicago windshield stickers are $10, $20, and $30.

Predicts 26 Million Revenue.

"The tax basis advocated by the league," said Judge Irwin, "would yield the state $26,000,000 a year. Interest and retirement of road bonds requires $9,000,000 and maintenance costs $6,000,000. This leaves $11,000,000 for construction. The farmers downstate still marooned in the mud don't want any more expensive, high speed concrete slabs that disturb home life and threaten the safety of stock."

"Chicago, under our program," said Mr. Mayer, "would still receive $3,500,000 a year as its share of the gasoline tax, and $1,250,000 from licensing its half million motor cars. This is sufficient if the city will stop using the revenue from the wheel tax for purposes other than street repairing."

The move to reduce motorists' taxes has gained considerable headway in the last year. Many legislators campaigned for election or reëlection on this issue. A popular complaint has been that the automobile owners have not received trafic facilities, such as a west side elevated highway, that they might expect in return for their heavy burden of special taxes.

POLICE TO "KEEP LID ON VILLAGES" AT WORLD'S FAIR

There will be no "wide open" policy at the Fair, so far as obscene shows are concerned, and if Fair officials do not enforce regulations the south park police will. This was announced yesterday after a conference between Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, and George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the Chicago parks system.

"We have been given the utmost coöperation by Fair officials," Donoghue said. "We are assured they will keep the Fair decent. However, we read in some of the papers that the 'lid is off' and wished to assure ourselves that this was not true. We are not reformers and believe that there should be the same freedom here that there is in Chicago playhouses. I am glad to say that that is exactly the attitude of the Fair officials."

Boys Reach Fair in 1908 Two Cylinder Automobile

Paul Dilley, 18 years old, and Eugene Rude, 16, both of Blaisdell, N. D., wanted to visit the World's Fair in the worst way, so they came in a high-wheeled, hard-tired, two-cylinder automobile of the vintage of 1908, which they borrowed from a neighbor, Ole Benson. The ancient vehicle, built by the International Harvester company, was used for several years on a mail route. Its air-cooled engine, which cranks from the side, gives a top speed of 30 miles an hour and can run for an hour on one gallon of gasoline, the boys asserted.

FAIR WILL HONOR COAST GUARD ON 144TH BIRTHDAY

Maneuvers and Pageant Planned Today.

BY EARL MULLIN.

The oldest armed sea force in the service of the United States will be honored today at the Fair when the United States coast guard observes its 144th birthday with maneuvers in the North lagoon. Naval officers said today's show would be one of the most spectacular yet seen at the Fair.

The stirring history of the service, dating to the continental congress in 1790, will be told in motion pictures and pageantry. The coast guard, organized as the revenue marine, followed the continental navy, which was disbanded after the revolutionary war. With a force of ten ships this service for six years was the only maritime defense of the infant republic.

Last Merger in 1915.

The name was soon changed to the United States revenue cutter service and in 1915 the force was combined with the life saving service to form the present coast guard. In today's program, under direction of Commander E. A. Coffin, fifty guardsmen, steeped in 144 years of tradition, will lead in the maneuvers. The coast guard fleet will be headed by the patrol boat Rush, long noted in life saving feats on the great lakes.

The 125 foot craft, powered by Diesel engines and carrying a crew of 20 men and three officers, will be anchored in the South lagoon.

In the afternoon program the tars who have braved the elements to war against rum runners and smugglers will stage a cutter race, double capsize drill and resuscitation drill on the keel of an overturned cutter.

One of the most thrilling events in the afternoon program, starting at 3 o'clock, will be the demonstration of a sea rescue under radio direction. Breeches buoys and a surfboat will be used. Repeated at 9:30 p. m. the rescue will be conducted in the light of flares. The night rescue will be from a burning ship.

Show Arctic Adventures.

Concluding the day's birthday party will be a motion show in the Lagoon theater. The picture deals with annual cruises of the cutter North Land and was made by Lieutenant Commander J. N. Heiner. The service's mail and medical relief activities in the arctic are shown.

Other special events at the Fair today will include French-Canadian day, which will be observed today with a program starting at 3:30 p. m. Patriotic and romantic music by Miles. Anna Bessette, Claire Simand, Florence Regnier, Laura Moisan, and a mixed chorus of 100 voices will be heard in the Hall of States.

As the present week moved toward its close yesterday plans were completed for one of the biggest single periods of Fair entertainment which will open Monday—Chicago week observance.

Week of Spectacles Ahead.

The entire week will be devoted to pageantry, spectacles, music, and fun. Each day has been dedicated to a major special event. One of the high lights will be a masquerade party, with each visitor expected to appear in a gay carnival costume.

The opening of Chicago week is not to be confused with Chicago Hospitality week, opening on Sept. 10, when the history of Chicago will be told in a pageant spectacle in Soldiers' field.

In intervening weeks smaller pageants will be held thoughout the city. Former Chicagoans have been invited by civic committees to return for the week and help swing the last quarter of the Fair to an attendance record.

The attendance upswing already is under way and at midnight yesterday the official attendance was 73,605.

Godmother's $500 Stolen; Milwaukee Nabs Two Boys

Two boys, one of whom is alleged to have stolen the $500 savings of his godmother, were arrested yesterday in Milwaukee, along with two taxicab drivers, who, police said, had contracted to drive the boys to New Holstein, Wis., for $50. Frank Lemke, 13 years old, 3602 South Union avenue, and Albert Shinkus, 15, of 3606 South Union avenue, are the boys. Frank, according to Mrs. Mary Warren, 3455 Lituania avenue, his godmother, took the $500 from her. Martin Nazz and Richard Midetz are the cab drivers held. All were to be returned to Chicago today.

World's Fair Notes

Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, yesterday was decorated and given the rank of commander in the Oredr of the Crown of Rumania. The decoration was presented on behalf of King Carol and the Rumanian government by Cornelius H. Dimitriu, acting consul general in Chicago. The citation commended Mr. Dawes for the conducting of Rumanian day at the 1933 Fair and for the recognition the Exposition had given the Rumanian people.

The "around the world tour" idea sponsored by the Fair to encourage attendance at the villages yesterday became authentic when passports were made available in all the foreign villages. The passports look real, carrying pictures of the visitor and having visas stamped.

The Firestone exhibit is to be put on a special schedule to accommodate an estimated 5,000 excursionists from the Akron, O., factory Friday, Aug. 31. Six or eight train loads of Firestone workers will remain in Chicago and at the Fair for Labor day. The entire group will see a special showing of the tire production line; a sort of postman's holiday.

The National Commercial Museum of Mexico City exhibition in the Mexican Village at the Fair will be dedicated this evening, with members of the Chicago consular corps as guests of Euganio Pesqueira, Mexican consul, and M. T. Morlet, vice consul. The exhibit consists of examples of handicraft and arts, including the prize winning serapes from the exposition in Seville, Spain, swords, rawhide furniture, and inlaid woods.

The U. S. S. Truant, carrying 80 Sea Scouts, will arrive at the 12th street pier today. The vessel, which is cruising from Detroit, is under the command of Lieutenant Commander A. W. Schraeder of Ypsilanti, Mich. The boys, who range in age from 18 to 22 years, and their commanding officers will be guests of the Fair today and tomorrow.

Flashing a pretty smile that emphatically belied the homely soubriquet of "Little Miss Poker Face" when she ruled the tennis courts of the world, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody yesterday visited the Fair on her way to San Francisco from England, where she has been writing tennis articles. It was an afternoon of sightseeing and autographing, the latter often times interfering with her progress through the grounds.

A 14 foot king cobra, captured in India a year ago, and which died yesterday at the Frank Buck animal show, was given to the Field museum. It will be stuffed and added to the museum collection.

M'NUTT PLEDGES DRASTIC INDIANA PRISON SHAKEUP

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—A report of an investigation into the escape of five prisoners from the Indiana state penitentiary here last Saturday and a recommendation that a drastic shakeup be made in the prison personnel were made public here today as word was received of the capture of two more of the fugitives in Hopkinsville, Ky.

Only one of the escaped prisoners is now at large. The other two were seized earlier in the week at Mexico, Mo., and have since been returned to the prison.

The inquiry into the prisoners' nonchalant stroll from the bastile was made by Wayne Coy, undersecretary to Gov. Paul V. McNutt. In his report he blamed the escape on Capt. W. C. Griswold, night captain who has already been discharged, and four other prison employés.

In criticizing the prison staf and advising a thorough revision, Coy made no specific mention of Warden Louis E. Kunkel, who was appointed last June by Gov. McNutt. At the same time the investigation report was made public the governor announced that Coy's recommendations would be followed in the near future.

The fugitives captured in Kentucky, Louis Crail, 19, and Kenneth Rogers, 22, owe their identification to a letter that had been sent to Crail at the prison. The missive bore a notation that it had been sent to "No. 15471."

LOOP DRUG STORE ROBBED OF $1,000 BY TWO GUNMEN

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Savosak, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Sam Grano, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Rudolph Mrchalik and Tony Tobess, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; John Perkins and Glen Hudson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Roman Guminski, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Two robbers invaded the Liggett drug store at 200 South State street yesterday, inquired the way to the manager's office, and took $1,000, representing overnight receipts.

Late breakfast customers were in the store when the gunman walked in and threatened Frank Wood, 6141 University, an employé, with their guns.

"Lead me to the manager's office," one said, "and no funny business."

William G. Taft, 1137 Grant street, Evanston, the manager, was preparing the money for deposit in the bank. He at first refused to open the door for Wood and the robber, believing it to be a joke. Sight of the bandit's gun changed his mind.

The robber scooped up the money and ran down the stairs, where he was joined by his partner. They fled through the front door and disappeared into the crowd as store employés shouted for police.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."

—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

BUROCRATIC ROBOTS AND AMERICAN CITIZENS.

It was erroneously supposed that if Mr. Roosevelt could be informed at some point on his Pacific voyage of the plight of Mrs. Kathryn Budd he would suspend the operation of a code until rational modifications could be made. Mrs. Budd is the Brooklyn woman who was supporting two small children by making artificial flowers in her home under a permit granted by the New York industrial commission, which permit was revoked by Nathan Straus Jr., federal compliance authority.

The supposition was erroneous, as proved when Mr. Roosevelt, being informed, replied through his White House staf that any such modification would defeat the purposes of the code. Mrs. Budd, when advised by her attorney to persist in contumacy and make a case of it in the courts, was too alarmed for her safety to rebel. She has been out of work while the authorities battled for and against her and is now at the end of her resources. The safer course appears to her to go on relief and give up her attempt to support her youngsters.

This case has all the elements to make it an example of the blunders of the professoriat, of the grand and petty dictators and the mechanical morons in Washington. Naturally it has achieved prominence and when Gen. Johnson in Chicago again turned to blasting his opposition, press and other, he tried to justify the acts of the burocratic robots. He enters the scene as the Carpenter with the Walrus to shed a bitter tear before eating the oysters.

It is the general's contention that promoters of sweatshops and their allies, the newspapers, use these incidents of prohibited home work to protect child labor and the sweating of adult labor. The general says that the unpatriotic criticism of the benign codes makes him sick at his stomach. If his blundering codes had not interfered Mrs. Budd would have been protected by the New York state laws which distinguish between undesirable and desirable home work. They are much more enlightened laws than his own moronic mechanisms. He thinks it is an impiety to criticize him or his works.

By making artificial flowers at home Mrs. Budd earned, it is said, from $18 to $22 a week, on which the family could do very well and the mother could not only support her young children but she could take care of them. If she had factory work the care of the children would be a problem. In fact, the situation which the code destroys would have been regarded as ideal less than two years ago.

In many instances home work is not sweating labor. There are particular cases in which it is undesirable in every way but many others in which it represents the best economic and social adjustment possible. Mrs. Budd, a deserted wife, could not find anything more suited to her needs than the employment she had, the employment the federal government took away from her.

If she had been a woman compelled to work at low wages in insanitary conditions in order that her employer might reduce his expenses at her cost a state law governing conditions of employment, under honest administration, could have made the distinction between what was desirable and what was undesirable.

Washington, undertaking to compress the whole country under codes, creates a mechanical rhinoceros which has the destructive power of the animal without its intelligence, such as it may be. One of these mechanical brutes steps on a woman who is in desperate need of the necessities with which she could supply herself. A few weeks ago she was an American citizen supposed to have the constitutional right to earn her living peaceably with the moral duty of supporting her small children if she could. She was supposed to be safe under the Declaration of Independence granting her life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. The burocratic rhinoceros puts its foot through the declaration and the constitution and on the woman. Mr. Roosevelt says it stays there.

Mrs. Budd is too frightened by now to persist in the legal defense of her rights. She has seen the fish eye of the mechanical thing she must call her government and she has felt the force of its feet. She could put up a fight for her home and her family against the ordinary rigors and uncertainties of life but not against this ruthless, emotionless, brainless thing which charged upon her out of the Washington jungle. She takes her place in the bread line to live upon whatever is doled out to her by the government which took away her living.

Her plight is one confronting thousands of others. The New Deal, in the words of one of its administrators, spoken with reference to this particular case, "takes no account of individuals."

Mr. Roosevelt in effect has signed a fugitive slave warrant. Mrs. Budd had escaped. Gen. Johnson damns citizens who tried to help her. The old law made it treason to refuse to help to catch the escaped slave. Is that the general's next proposal?

A WARNING FROM THE A. F. OF L.

The American Federation of Labor is greatly alarmed by the threat of a paper money inflation. In its latest bulletin the federation calls attention to the fact that all of the government's relief expenditures are being paid for with borrowed money. Last year, in the federation's accounting, this meant an increase of 4 billion dollars in the federal debt. There is a limit to the government's credit, but apparently no limit to its extravagances. The time is therefore approaching when it must find another means of meeting its bills, and the only other means available is the printing of paper money. It is idle, the federation points out, to expect the budget to be balanced from increases in taxation. State, local, and federal taxes already absorb 20 per cent of the nation's income.

With this candid appraisal of the outlook there can be no quarrel. Naturally the spokesmen for labor are alarmed. Inflation is a ruthless destroyer which hurts all sections of society, but no section suffers graver injury than labor.

In an inflation prices always rise more rapidly than wages. The consequence is that labor's real wages in an inflation are always on the down grade. Collective bargaining becomes a meaningless phrase because the weekly wage which is fair when the bargain is sealed may not be sufficient to buy a loaf of bread a few weeks later. The resulting economic disorganization leads to increased unemployment and irregularity of employment. When monetary stability is finally restored organized labor finds itself obliged to start once more from scratch in its effort to improve wages and working conditions. The accomplishments of years of campaigning have been wiped out.

Inflation is ruinous to every individual who has a job, money in the bank, an annuity, an insurance policy, or a bond. One of its most disastrous consequences is its destruction of all working capital, with a resultant strangulation of business, large and small. Many years are required to replace the vanished reserves, years during which interest rates must be high, credit facilities insufficient, and wages correspondingly low.

To any one so misguided as to think that only persons of great wealth suffer in an inflation a careful study of the federation's bulletin is recommended. The rich will suffer, too, but they will be the last to go down into the abyss. There is only one section of the population which is likely to come through with colors flying: it consists of the financial manipulators who will contrive some means of putting their wealth into a relatively stable form. Mr. Roosevelt calls these people the money changers and has declared war on them. It is ironic, indeed, that Mr. Roosevelt's fiscal policies are calculated, as the federation of labor has shown, to ruin every class in the community except the money changers.

HE HAS A DRAG.

George Basso, an organizer for the Chicago Flat Janitors' union, has a "drag."

That means that, by exerting a certain amount of petty political influence, he can violate such things as trafic regulations with perfect impunity, secure in the knowledge that he will not be punished. For many months he has unlawfully parked his automobile in front of his office at 130 North Wells street. Mounted Policeman John Connors says he has been giving Basso tickets to appear in court for this offense for the last three years.

Perhaps it has been that long, although the official records show but 23 parking tickets given him between Nov. 2, 1933, and July 9, 1934. Policeman Connors passed them out faithfully, but nothing ever happened to Mr. Basso.

He had a "drag."

Now, Mr. Basso's offenses were nothing cataclysmic. Certainly they were far less than the offense of the drunken driver who endangers the lives of other motorists as well as his own. But the revelation of his brazen disregard for regulations which must be obeyed by citizens who do not have a "drag" presents a problem far more serious than mere illegal parking.

It presents the picture of a city where petty political influence can be exerted to condone petty and useless misdemeanors. Certainly not a pleasant picture for Chicagoans to contemplate.

This evil of "fixing" is the seepage through the dike of respect for law. And trite but true is the principle that respect for law is, in the last analysis, the law itself.

Editorial of the Day

MOST CONVINCING SIGN OF THE TURN.

[Des Moines Register.]

President Roosevelt is literally, and much of the nation is still figuratively, at sea. Business continues to tremble from its old economic jitters. Strikes rage on the west coast. Drought burns the countryside. Stratosphere flyers toast in a hill pocket. The McAdoos are permanently parted in a five minute court action. Lupe and Tarzan attend the fights together, but have no referee on their own hearthstone. Distillers deplore the high taxes. All this is trite stuff.

But significant news comes out of the east. Bernard Deutsch, president of New York City's board of aldermen, in the fine old Jimmy Walker tradition, has just bade a formal municipal farewell for the metropolis to Donald Taylor and William M. Robb, who have resolved themselves into a "human wheelbarrow" and set out upon a 2,000 mile pushing trek to the Pacific coast. Donald grips the axle of the wheel and Bill carries Don's legs and does the shoving. Neither end of the barrow can think of any very good reason for making the trip thus, but they're on their way.

Donald and William certainly herald the return of another "nutty" period in American life—one of those flagpole-sitting, marathon-chair-rocking, long-distance-stilt-waltzing, perpetual-pie-eating, squirrelly periods which we naturally associate with booming days. Such things simply don't flourish under a falling market. Other signs may fail, but not cross-country wheelbarrow pushers. Obviously, we have at last turned the corner.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE-LINE: One day in the spring of 1882 a crowd of us boys and girls from the South Division High school, then located in the Moseley building at Michigan and 24th, rode from 22d street to Grand Crossing (75th street) on the Illinois Central. We then walked on the Lake Shore (N. Y. C.) and Fort Wayne (Pennsylvania) tracks about one-half mile to the southeast to a large wooded tract known locally as "Hogg Island."

Grand Crossing was quite a settlement, but toward the east was almost in a state of nature.

When the Illinois Steel company located at South Chicago in the early '80s the writer went there one Sunday and looked east along Ewing avenue from 92d street bridge over the Calumet. As far as the eye could reach there were no houses. Just an ordinary dirt road.

J. C. Howland.

In 1875 the leading milliners in Chicago were E. J. Hopson & Co. and Jules Ballenberg. Mrs. Hopson's establishment was on the west side of Wabash avenue a few doors south of Harrison street. Ballenberg's store was on the east side of State street about midway between Madison and Monroe.

Herman Hefter.

The Hooley company, with James O'Neil, W. H. Crane, and Louise Hawthorne playing leads, E. J. Buckley and others, played a week's engagement at McVicker's in May, 1876. They presented "The Overland Route," "Richard the Third," "Van, The Virginian," and a farce called "Jenny Lind." When the company moved on to New York, the leading lady, Louise Hawthorne, stayed over at the old Tremont house and was killed the next day, falling from the window of her room at this hotel.

AUGUST TREES.

The middle age of trees is here.
They grow thick-veined, or dull and sere,
Turn brown and yellow from the drouth
And heated winds from out the south.

Full-sated with their treasured gold.
They droop and look above in vain
For April skies and April rain!

Clara Edmunds-Hemingway.

A CHAP WHO SAID HE had specialized in higher mathematics just telephoned to say that our record of choosing the wrong one of two keys to open the outer door of R. H. L.'s sanctum was against all laws of the exact sciences. "My dear sir," he said, "instead of picking at random the wrong key seven of eight times, you should have picked the right key seven of eight times."

Thirsting for knowledge, we inquired, "Why should we have picked the right key more than four of eight times since they are identical in size and I carry both in the same pocket?"

"That's just the point," he chortled. "You should carry the keys in different pockets."

"Then why wouldn't I get the right key eight out of eight times?" we remonstrated.

"That one mistake is to allow for the time when you forget which key is in which pocket," he concluded triumphantly.

EVIDENCE OF LEGAL LORE.

Harvey: An illiterate woman in Ohio was looking for a lawyer to help her secure a share in an estate. She found an office whose sign read, "J. J. Jones, Attorney at Law." When a friend asked how she knew Mr. Jones would be a satisfactory lawyer she said, "He must be a good lawyer, for his sign says 'Eternally at Law.'"

D. O. Coate.

FLORIDA'S EXHIBIT.

Wake-Line: Overheard in the Florida state exhibit at A Century of Progress: "Oh, here is an exhibition of citrus fruit," said one matron to her companion, who replied, "Where? All I can see are some oranges, lemons, and grapefruit."

ERROR.

I kindled a fire out of the past
And burned a dream today.
It drifted in smoke to the heavens
And a stray breeze took it away.
I thought when I had burned my dream
That it would haunt me no more—
But the same breeze that took it away
Has brought it back to my door.

WASN'T IT JUST LIKE Marie Dressler, the actress, to reward in her will a faithful colored maid with the largest single bequest, $35,000? And we'll just trust this departed popular figure of stage and screen to know whether this maid of 25 years' service was most deserving of those to whom she bequeathed her property.

QUESTION OF TASTE.

Wake-Line: Two women motored up to the curbing of a soft drink place and honked until an attendant came out to take their order. One wanted something with vanilla in it and the other "anything cooling." So the clerk brought out two paper cups of a widely advertised soft drink.

"Why, this doesn't taste of vanilla," said the first.

"Try this," said the second; "it tastes strongly of vanilla, so I'll change with you." So they exchanged the same kind of drinks and every one was satisfied.

SO THE RACE TRACK EMPLOYES' union has ordered a strike of mutuel clerks, ticket sellers and cashiers at Hawthorne. We haven't been to Hawthorne yet owing to our occupancy of this niche, but so far as we are concerned the strike of the cashiers, judging from precedent, will have little effect on our enjoyment of the gallant thoroughbreds. But we still don't get the connection between the track employes' union and the hodcarriers' union, said to have the same president. An affiliation or working agreement, however, does suggest great potentialities.

PRONUNCIATION.

A young lady pronounced the German word "hoch" as if it rhymed with lock or stock. A German scholar corrected her, explaining it was a salutation pronounced with a broad o to rhyme with stoke. "Sez you," replied the young woman. "Why, I know a lot of drinking people who pronounce that word 'hooch.'"

DEAFNESS IN CHILDREN.

ALL too frequently the foundation stones for many of life's tragedies are laid in childhood. Disease sometimes ushers the child into a world of silence or even a world of darkness, for both deafness and blindness may follow certain types of acute infections.

Recent studies indicate that there are today nearly three million school children in the United States with defective hearing. Of these nearly four hundred thousand have hearing so impaired that instruction in lip reading is required. Deafness is a serious social handicap and unless fully compensated for may become a definite inhibiting factor in educational life. The economic handicap is obvious. These data present a problem that is of paramount interest to parents. As is the rule in so many disease conditions, prevention consists first in combating ear, nose, and throat infections; second, early diagnosis; and third, early treatment.

Acute diseases such as scarlet fever, measles, influenza, meningitis, and broncho-pneumonia predispose the child to ear infections. The wide and unusual spread of measles during the present year will be followed by thousands of cases of middle ear infections with earache and in many cases perforation of ear drums and a discharge of pus. Infected tonsils and adenoids, infections of the nasal passages and of the sinuses all play an important rôle as causative factors of deafness.

The eustachian tube is a canal that leads from the throat to a space in the skull that lies to the inner side of the ear drum and that contains much of the delicate machinery of hearing. Nature has provided this canal so that air pressure may be equal on both sides of the ear drum. This tube opens when the middle ear needs air. Ordinarily the throat end of the tube remains closed. One may demonstrate the presence of the canal by closing the mouth, holding the nostrils, and blowing gently. A slight cracking sound will be heard and there is a sensation of pressure in the middle ear. In the presence of enlarged tonsils it has been shown that the throat end of the tube may remain open, thus providing a possible pathway for the entrance of bacteria. In throat infections bacteria may be forced up the tube by forcibly blowing the nose, or even by the posture of the head.

Inflammation in the middle ear frequently results in the formation of pus, and if the tube leading to the throat is swollen shut the increased pressure causes the ear drum to bulge and perhaps perforate. If there is much discharge and if the inflammation continues for a considerable period destruction of some of the delicate hearing machinery is bound to follow.

Early recognition and early treatment of ear disease are of the highest importance. Much can be done if the infection is quickly recognized and appropriate treatment instituted. Earache must not be considered a casual or incidental thing. In any acute infectious disease the physician will usually examine the ear drum at frequent intervals for signs of pressure. Far greater attention should be paid to the hygiene of the nose and throat, and patients with running or discharging ears must promptly seek skilled advice and care. Immunizing children against scarlet fever will no doubt help.

TIRED NERVES.

Mrs. F. P. B. writes: What would you advise a woman to do for herself who is extremely tired all the time, easily irritated, and, though not mentally weak, seems mentally ill at times?

The woman is 46 years old, married, and has worked continuously in an office for 28 years, never taking more than a two weeks' vacation each year.

REPLY.

Sometimes nerves tire more quickly than muscles. When they do tire recovery is slow. Relieve yourself of every possible fatiguing task, mental as well as physical. Get twelve hours' rest in bed, whether asleep or not. If you are not above normal weight use more food and drink milk between meals.

MAY BE RINGWORM.

A. S. P. writes: For the last three months I have had itching and breaking out resembling hives. When I wash my hands the red spots show up and sometimes my hands are swollen. There are various breakings out on different parts of the body. What causes it?

REPLY.

You may have scabies or you may have ringworm. First determine what you have by consulting a competent physician.

Scabies is caused by a tiny insect that burrows under the skin. The female lays eggs that hatch a numerous progeny.

FIBROID TUMOR.

A reader writes: If a fibroid tumor is not removed is it liable to turn into cancer?

REPLY.

Fibroids of the uterus are, as a rule, benign and not cancerous tumors. They may weaken the wall of the uterus and cause pressure symptoms because of their growth. They may also degenerate and become infected. Cancer growths come from irritated epithelial cells, and fibroids are associated with cancer in some instances.

Said lease was drawn and signed by former owner of land, whose deed still remained on the deed register, I. G. H.

1. We do not see that this is any reason for not recording the deed.

FRIEND OF THE INSURED

COMPULSORY INSURANCE.

Chicago, July 19.—[Friend of the Insured.]—It was with great interest that I read your recent article on compulsory insurance. If as you say the bulk of the economic loss falls upon the poorer classes and they go unindemnified, why then have so many states considered compulsory insurance legislation and failed to enact it? It seems to me that compulsory insurance for automobile owners is the one solution for the protection of all.

M. N. T.

The enactment of compulsory automobile insurance laws has failed mainly because such proposals have had little support and very active resistance. Since most people are constantly exposed to the dangers of the automobile and are anxious to collect damages if they are injured, it would appear that this kind of legislation would receive universal support. This, however, is not the case, and the blocking of such laws is due to the organized efforts of the insurance companies and automobile owners in the less thickly populated sections of the country. The opponents to this form of legislation have presented many sound arguments which would appear to offset the advantages as presented by the advocates of the compulsory idea. It is, we believe, rightfully said that instead of decreasing accidents there would be a tremendous increase, the theory being that the compulsory assumption of financial responsibility will certainly not make the average driver more careful, but on the contrary it will tend to make those who were formerly careful on account of the fear of individual responsibility more careless because they are insured. It is estimated that less than 50 per cent of those injured by automobiles are legally entitled to collect. Of these only about 25 per cent fail to collect because of financial responsibility, which leaves but a small percentage of cases that are without the protection which compulsory insurance would provide. It is well known that juries are generous with the funds of large corporations, so if every automobile were compulsorily insured they will increase the size of the award, knowing that the eventual payment will come from the large insurance companies and not from the dependent motorist. This condition would be reflected in the automobile rates, resulting in material increases to all policyholders due principally to increased moral hazard which would tend to increase the number of fake claims.

MRS. BUDD.

Chicago, July 31.—After having read the article in the July 31 issue of THE TRIBUNE under the heading, "Mother Denied Right to Work by President," I was rather stunned.

The New Deal, as it is called, has done a lot of good, I'll admit. But when politics, laws, etc., prevent a woman from making a livelihood as she sees fit in her own home in order that she might keep her family together, this country, in my mind, has lost all of its freedom and individuality. Mrs. Budd was able to make a living, and now she must depend on charity. What is there for her to look forward to now?

EDITH G. MOFFAT.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—It has been well known for years that home work is done at outrageously low pay and long hours; hence the opposition to it. Now the papers state that this New York mother has been making $18 to $25 weekly at it, and that her two children are small, which means that she has not much help from them and therefore earns that all by her own efforts.

In these depression times it hardly seemed possible that she could do that even if she created the flower ideas herself and sold them independently to those who can still afford special "pretties." Now we are told she just does it for some manufacturer—same as you or I making artificial flowers at home for any factory. Can you imagine one lone person earning $18 to $25 weekly at it? Neither can any one who knows.

V. C.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Being a home worker, I am more than interested in the case of the popular Mrs. Budd. Your cartoon on the front page of today's TRIBUNE is a disgrace to your paper and a direct slam at the NRA. Thank God for the NRA, because we poor home workers who work all day and night for such a small pay may get a break at last. All this publicity and sympathy for Mrs. Budd is another slam at our President, who is trying so hard to do the right thing.

Mrs. Budd is the most selfish person I know. She isn't thinking of thousands of other women who don't earn $2 a week. She claims she earns $20 to $25 making artificial flowers. What kind does she make, I wonder? No one is going to pay her such a rate, and I know any one who does home work of any kind can't make that much. Her employer can hire all the help he wants for half that amount. I am a home worker and my rate averages from 3 to 5 cents an hour. Can you blame us home workers for wanting to see the code for home workers enforced? Let the manufacturers put the help into factories, pay a living wage, and thereby do away with child labor in the homes of these workers and give thousands of men and women more work.

A HOME WORKER.

INFORMING THE DEPOSITORS.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—In glancing over the current meaningless reports of closed banks, it occurs to me that a semi-annual letter from the receivers of these banks to the depositors would tend to mitigate the suspicion and distrust with which the helpless depositors regard the liquidators and the liquidation process. Such a letter should contain a simple and frank statement of what has been done to date and what remains to be done in the future. A simple enumeration of the real assets of the bank, listing the various securities together with their face values and present market values, should accompany such a letter.

After all, it is the depositors' assets that are being administered and it is the depositors' money that is paying all the expenses and salaries, including that of the receiver. By all rules of fairness, they who are paying the bills and they who are the most interested in the closed bank should know the facts. Is it possible that the former bankers are confederated with the present liquidators to keep the public in ignorance of the intimate details of the respective banks? Silence where there is a duty to give utterance harbors distrust, suspicion and despair.

The cost of printing and mailing these letters, amounting to a few cents per depositor, is one item of expense for which receivers would not have to apologize.

HIGHWAY SAFETY.

Chicago, July 25.—I have been very much interested in your campaign for greater highway safety, which has been running in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, now, for some weeks. This is an admirable thing to undertake, not only the education of the motorists but also to energize public officials in the enforcement of the laws, involving safety to the public, by making these laws effective. I wish to congratulate and compliment you on the forceful manner in which this important subject has been presented and is being followed up.

I have noticed in your columns that many fatal accidents, as well as those involving serious injury, occur outside of the city, on state highways, at intersections such as Roosevelt road and Mannheim road and Mannheim road and 22d street. Going through that territory I noticed the absence of stop and go lights at these intersections.

Throughout the east, and particularly noticeable at similar intersections outside of Milwaukee, there are installed stop and go lights which not only properly regulate the automotive trafic but also insure safety to the motorists and the public. If similar protective devices were installed at many intersections such as those enumerated above I believe many deaths and injuries would be avoided in the future.

W. RUFUS ABBOTT.

A DEFENSE OF THE GERMANS.

Chicago, July 29.—Before we condemn Germany for her resentment towards the meddling by other nations in her affairs, let us pause and ask ourselves how we would react in similar circumstances. Suppose we had been defeated by a combination of powers, all jealous of our greatness, and had been forced to sign a peace which, besides stripping us of all our island possessions and taking from us a sizable portion of our mainland, imposed upon us a rôle of economic slavery and degradation, such as the treaty of Versailles imposes upon Germany. Suppose we had been compelled to disarm completely by our conquerors, while they themselves continue to arm on every side of us, to encircle our borders with fortresses of steel and to patrol our coasts with mighty ships of battle. Would we, as a great and proud people, calmly and without protest accept the part assigned to us by our vanquishers, and this, too, in the face of repeated accusations that we were incorrigible and unworthy of being trusted? No. And neither will the Germans. Can we blame them?

PLAN TO BOOST DENTAL RELIEF FEES CRITICIZED

Commissioners Postpone Action on Proposal.

A new plan of dental service for persons on the relief rolls, providing higher fees and control of the central examining clinic by the Chicago Dental society, was criticized by members of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission at a meeting yesterday.

Action on the plan was deferred, and indications were that it would be radically revised or possibly discarded and a new one drawn.

Under the plan now in operation the commission pays approximately $8,500 each month for dental service in Cook county alone. This figure would jump more than 100 per cent, to between $18,000 and $22,000 monthly, it was estimated, under the new proposal.

Dr. Tylman Defends Plan.

The plan was submitted by Bernard C. Roloff, director of the commission's medical department outside of Cook county. It was defended by Dr. Stanley D. Tylman, president of the dental society, who protested against control of the central clinic by the commission, asserting that "it belongs to the society."

"The proposed rates," he declared, "are the result of a year's study. They are the lowest in 14 states where dental relief is given."

At this point criticism of the program by commissioners began.

"This plan offers a great opportunity for imposition on the part of dentists to do work that is not absolutely needed," declared Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton.

"You can't make me believe," added Commissioner Omer H. Wright of Belvidere, "that dentists or doctors if they can get an easy piece of public money aren't going to take it. If we start out on this program we'll find it will cost many times what may be estimated before we get through."

Fears Waste of Funds.

Questioning Dr. Tylman, commissioner Wright learned that approximately 60 per cent of the dentists in Cook county are members of the Chicago Dental society.

Another side of the question was pointed out by Commissioner George Barr of Joliet.

"Our responsibility in conserving public funds," he said. "There is a feeling in the mind of the public that relief funds are not properly handled."

"The commission need have no fear of being attacked on this point," Dr. Tylman replied. "You can rest assured that the question of fees is safe and sound. The only work that will be done will be that of an emergency nature where the suffering or welfare of the client is involved."

Declares Prices Are Too Low.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, defended the proposed boost in fees. He asserted that during the last year prices charged by dentists "were too low—they have not been fair and right."

Chairman Robert J. Dunham suggested that the commission and not the dental society should assume sole control over the central clinic, from which clients are assigned to dentists after an examination.

"Is it proposed to raise these rates to help members of the profession?" he asked.

Dr. Tylman replied that the present rates had been found to entail a "definite sacrifice and loss" to dentists by a committee of 18 dentists who studied the problem. The new rates, he added, included a downward revision for work done outside of Cook county.

Waits Three Months for Teeth.

Chairman Dunham cited the case of a relief client whose teeth were all pulled. The client waited three months for a plate, he added, and was finally told there was no money for that purpose.

It was recalled yesterday that Dr. M. D. K. Bremmer was recently ousted as chairman of the emergency dental relief commission and as director of the central clinic at about the same time the new higher cost plan was being agreed upon.

Dr. Bremmer, a former chairman of the committee on economics of the dental society, had constantly opposed increasing costs in the treatment of charity patients and effected many economies.

The replacement of Dr. Bremmer was explained by Dr. Tylman at the time as an effort to correlate more closely the activities of the dentists' commission with that of the relief organization.

SLAIN BY POLICE WHEN HE FLEES STRIPPED AUTO

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 26; recovered, 33; stripped, 4 (from police records for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight Thursday).

Gabriel Dodaro, 23 years old, 709 North 17th avenue, Melrose Park, who was shot early yesterday by Chief of Police Charles Topp of Berkeley when Dodaro and a companion attempted to flee from a stripped automobile in Berkeley, died several hours later in the County hospital.

State's attorney's police were holding Dodaro's sister, Eleanor, 19 years old, and three men who went with her to visit Dodaro shortly before he died. Another held is Peter Boni, 24 years old, 1416 Broadway, Melrose Park, who was captured at the scene of the shooting.

The three seized with the Dodaro girl are Edward Blickhahn, 22 years old, 2205 South 16th avenue, Maywood; Frank Bruncori, 22, who lived with Dodaro in Melrose Park, and Eugene Zenz, 32, of 830 South 19th avenue, Maywood. The police expressed the view that neither these three nor the Dodaro girl was involved with Boni and the dead youth, but said they would question all of them.

Chief Topp and Lieut. Thomas Kelly of the state's attorney's police were summoned to Tost and Madison streets in Berkeley by reports that two youths were tinkering with an autmobile there. They saw Dodaro and Boni leaving a car from which accessories had been stripped. Dodaro was shot twice in the abdomen when he scuffled with Chief Topp in an attempt to escape.

KILLED IN CRASH

PERCY LEA.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—A young man was killed and five other youths were injured today when the car in which they were returning from the Chicago World's Fair crashed into a truck on U. S. highway 41, five miles south of Veedersburg, Ind.

Percy Lea, 24, a son of Luke Lea, former Nashville publisher, was killed. Those injured are James Simpkins, 18; William Louis, 16; Milton Thornton, 18; Percy Austin, 12, and Leo Barbee, 26. They were brought to the Lakeview hospital here.

The accident occurred when a tire blew out on the passenger car, which was being driven by Barbee. It swerved and struck the approaching truck.

Seeks Prison Furlough.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 3.—(AP)—In a telegram to Gov. Ehringhaus of North Carolina Gov. McAlister tonight recommended that Luke Lea, former Nashville newspaper publisher now in prison in North Carolina, be permitted to return here for the funeral of his son Percy. Pending a decision by Gov. Ehringhaus on the petition for the elder Lea's return funeral plans have not been completed.

16 PERSONS DEAD, 11 IN MICHIGAN, IN STORM WAKE

Scores Are Injured in Midwest States.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Leaving in their wake a toll of 16 persons dead or missing and property damage running into millions of dollars in Great Lakes states, a series of wind, rain, hail, and lightning storms swept eastward toward the Atlantic seaboard today.

The elements wreaked heavy damage to homes, commerce, shipping, utilities, and communications. Scores of persons were injured, some seriously, in addition to those killed or drowned.

Eleven persons were dead in Michigan, where the wind was estimated to have attained a velocity of 100 miles an hour. In Ohio two persons were drowned and the bodies of three others were being hunted by coast guardsmen.

Michigan Hard Hit.

Michigan was probably the hardest hit, but the storms swept with unabated fury across Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio and then on eastward into Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Deleware, and Maryland.

Hail, driven by the high wind, added to the destruction in Michigan and Ohio. A great deal of damage to crops resulted from the ice stones. Docks were wrecked and hurled into lakes, small craft were destroyed, and garages and other buildings flattened throughout the area.

Severe Damage in Illinois.

In central Illinois lashing winds and heavy rains and hail crippled power service and severely damaged homes and crops. Three persons were injured in this area. Hail measuring three inches in diameter fell between Goodfield and Bloomington, stampeding stock and destroying whole fields of corn. A small tornado did damage at Litchfield and cut a swath north to Tallula, west of Springfield.

DIES IN BRIDEWELL.

William Fellow, 38 years old, of Madison, Wis., died of a heart attack Thursday in the hospital at the Bridewell, where he had been serving out a $50 fine for disorderly conduct imposed July 23.

DEMOCRATS PICK FLYNN AS COUNTY CLERK CANDIDATE

Central Committee Choice Is Unanimous.

Michael J. Flynn, Democratic committeeman of the 13th ward, was selected by the Democratic Cook county central committee yesterday as the party's candidate in November for county clerk. He will take the place on the ticket left vacant two months ago by the death of Joseph B. McDonough, who was nominated in the April primary.

The vote by the committeemen on Mr. Flynn was unanimous. Only one other name, that of Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe [42d] was put up for the vacancy, but he withdrew in favor of Flynn. Flynn's name was placed in nomination by Richard Frohlich, deputy clerk of the Municipal court and committeeman of the 15th ward.

Long Political Record.

Flynn, who is president of the Inland Rubber company, has a long record in Democratic politics. He was committeeman of the old 31st ward, now the 16th, and served one term as city treasurer from 1913 to 1915. For the last year and a half he has been civil service commissioner of the south parks. Mayor Kelly praised the selection of Flynn for the position.

The county committee also gave its approval to the selection by the state central committee of Arthur W. Mitchell, colored, as the candidate for congress in the 1st congressional district. Mitchell goes into the vacancy on the ticket caused by the death of Harry Baker, who gained the nomination in the party's spring primary.

In the primary, Mitchell, who lives at 3657 South Park way, received 6,812 votes to 7,236 for Baker. The committeemen decided that the vacancy on the ticket should go to Mitchell, rather than to anyone else, because of the showing he made in the primary. His Republican opponent in November will be Congressman Oscar DePriest.

Republicans Map Plans.

While the Democrats were filling the vacancies on their ticket, a committee of the Republican county central committee was listening to suggestions for the state platform which will be adopted at the Republican convention, which is to be held at the state fair grounds in Springfield Aug. 9.

Communistic activities in the United States resulting in riots and disturbances throughout the country were denounced before the committee by Julius Miner, a master in chancery. He urged that one plank advocate the withdrawal of American recognition of soviet Russia.

For the Illinois League of Women Voters Mrs. W. W. Ramsey presented a group of planks including permanent registration of all voters, adoption of the office group form of ballot to prevent straight party voting, support of the constitutional convention proposal in November, and redistribution of the tax burden to give real estate more relief.

23 GO TO COURT TODAY ON WATER METER CHARGES

Owners or managers of 21 businesses and two others charged with defrauding the city by tampering with water meters will be arraigned before Judge Francis Borrelli in the South State street court today.

The evidence against them was compiled for presentation in court at a conference attended by Assistant State's Attorney C. Vernon Thompson, Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt, and Loran D. Gayton, acting city engineer.

Edward Reiter, 33 years old, 3151 South Springfield avenue, chauffeur in the city water bureau for 11 years, charged with actually tampering with the meters, and Albert Dorsey, 3260 Maypole avenue, who allegedly got the business for Reiter, will also be arraigned.

Falling Dump Truck Body Crushes Driver to Death

Fred Simon, 27 years old, 2005 Byron street, a driver for the Kaiser Coal company, 3615 North Artesian avenue, was killed yesterday while trying to discover what was the trouble with the automatic hoist on his truck in front of 940 Lawrence avenue. While Simon was peering up under the dump body it suddenly fell, crushing his head.

25,000 ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS MEET AT BIG FISH FRY

Senator Dietrich Feted at Beardstown.

Beardstown, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Twenty-five thousand Illinois Democrats assembled here today at a statewide rally of their party, held in conjunction with the forty-fourth annual Beardstown fish fry.

The affair was also a homecoming for United States Senator William H. Dieterich, whose home is here. He was honored in speeches made by Gov. Horner and United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis.

The crowd which attended the function was said to be the largest that ever gathered in this city. During the day 4,400 pounds of fish were given away.

Officeholders Present.

Delegations from nearly every county in the state were present. They included more than 100 state and national officeholders and candidates for election. Speaker Henry T. Rainey and Bruce Campbell, chairman of the state Democratic committee, also spoke, the former making a spirited defense of the New Deal. He was speaking in his own district. Campbell extoled the harmony he said existed between the Democratic candidates for state-wide offices.

Senator Lewis outlined the work his contemporary has been doing in congress and declared that Dieterich "has accomplished more in the short time he has been there than any other man in the senate."

Senator Dieterich is a member of the important judiciary committee, the naval affairs committee, and the interstate commerce committee.

Horner Praises Guest.

Gov. Horner also honored the guest and then outlined the achievements of his own administration. He called attention to the fact that he has cut down the membership of nearly every board under his supervision.

Following the outdoor rally in the city park a dinner was held tonight for the candidates at the Beardstown Country club.

DROP CONTEMPT CHARGE BROUGHT AGAINST WRITER

Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court yesterday dismissed contempt of court proceedings against A. L. Sloan, reporter for an afternoon newspaper. The charge was brought several days ago after Sloan had refused to disclose to the grand jury the sources of his information concerning alleged graft in the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

On Thursday Sloan furnished the grand jurors with a list of names of 15 persons who, he said, might be able to give information about graft. Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright, in charge of relief matters, said that all 15 persons had been summoned, but had been able to give little or no information of value to the grand jury.

SUMMER RAINS SAVE THE CROPS FOR WISCONSIN

Forage Outlook Is Good in Most Sections.

BY FRANK RITTGWAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Wisconsin farmers are jubilant over the favorable outlook for corn and other growing crops that promise to furnish an abundance of winter roughage, especially in the northern three-fourths of the state. Farmers interviewed in THE TRIBUNE'S agricultural survey declared that crops have been so greatly stimulated by rains during June and July they can "hear the corn grow."

The optimism that prevails in Wisconsin today is in contrast to the gloomy situation faced by farmers in this state up until the first part of June. Since then crops have been thriving in general except in the dry era in the southern fourth of the state. With hay crops extremely short and the small grain yields low, farmers have made a state-wide effort to grow sudan grass, soy beans, millet, and fodder corn for roughage.

Largest Corn Acreage.

In their determination to produce enough feed for their dairy cows and other live stock this winter, Wisconsin farmers planted 2,339,000 acres of corn, the largest acreage of corn ever produced in the state. With this big acreage of corn and emergency crops millions of tons of feed is now growing under favorable conditions on more than 90 per cent of the state's cropping land.

From here north the crops are generally in fine condition. Corn is well advanced for this time of the year. Farmers are sharpening and oiling up their ensilage cutters getting ready to store an unusually large tonnage of corn in their silos.

Within three weeks ensilage cutters will be humming throughout southern and central Wisconsin. The corn crop is so well advanced that farmers expect to have much of it in the silos by the first of September. Walter H. Ebling, federal-state crop statistician, estimates that Wisconsin corn will average about seven tons of silage per acre.

Binders are running from sunup to sundown throughout the small grain sections north of here. Within a short time the small grain crops will be safe in the shock, stack or bin.

Mow Grain for Hay.

Some farmers are mowing the small grain for hay. Recent rains have produced a luxurious growth of grass in the small grain fields. In salvaging every green sprig they can find on the place many are lowering their cutter bars on the binder in order that the undergrowth of grass may be harvested and fed along with the straw. Farmers who are short of hay expect to feed straw along with other roughage to horses and young cattle.

Wisconsin has fared well with her feed crops. The state's canning pea crop of 114,700 acres is already harvested. A total of 57,000 tons of early and late varieties of peas have been canned this year, according to official estimates.

Present prospects are favorable for a good crop of potatoes. There were 258,000 acres planted, an increase of 20,000 acres over last year.

Wisconsin's tobacco crop is making a fine showing. Low prices for tobacco has discouraged the growing of tobacco in this state and as a result the crop has been reduced to 10,500 acres this year.

S. L. KOLANOWSKI TO QUIT AS CHIEF DEPUTY CORONER

The resignation of Chief Deputy Coroner Stephen L. Kolanowski, effective Aug. 15, was announced yesterday by Coroner Frank J. Walsh. Asked for the reason given in the resignation, Coroner Walsh said:

"I guess he wants a better job. I hate to lose him."

The retiring chief deputy said that he had not voluntarily resigned and that political pressure had been brought to bear on the coroner for his removal.

Kolanowski's successor will be Victor Schlaeger, 3004 East 88th street, Coroner Walsh said. Mr. Schlaeger, a lawyer and real estate dealer, has already assumed some of the duties of his new office.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Beware of Snakeroot

Aug. 3, 1934.

CLARENCE THUROW, manager of the farm, has been scouting around the farm to make sure that there is no growth of white snakeroot, a poisonous weed, which if eaten by horses and cattle can cause serious losses. Fortunately there aren't any of these flowering weeds in the woods down here, although farmers in Illinois and Indiana since the times of earliest settlers have had considerable trouble with white snakeroot. The poison in this weed causes a disease known as trembles or "slows" among cattle. If cows or horses eat a fairly large amount of snakeroot it kills them.

Farmers in the middle west should keep their eyes open for this poisonous weed in wooded pastures and exterminate it. Here is the way to identify white snakeroot. First, the plant is one that grows in woods or along the borders of woods. This fact is important in finding the plant and identifying it. Second, the plant grows from 1 to 5 feet tall and has opposite leaves. These leaves are very thin and the undersurface has a slight luster compared with the upper surface. The third point to keep in mind is that each leaf has three main ribs or veins which are conspicuous on the under surface. The fourth point about this poisonous plant is that the flower clusters are white and very conspicuous. These do not appear until late in August or September.

R. A. Craig, chief veterinarian of the department of veterinary science of Purdue university, says that in dry summers and early autumn when pastures are short, live stock is most apt to eat the white snakeroot and suffer from its poisonous effects. Purdue university has conducted many experiments with snakeroot and its effects on stock.

In describing the general symptoms of snakeroot poisoning Dr. Craig says:

"The early symptoms are general in character, such as impaired appetite and depression. The animal is inclined to stand or lie down in the shade or barn lot. When driven it appears weak, staggers, and may fall. There is complete loss of appetite and trembling occurs. In reproducing the disease a larger quantity of the weed was fed to cattle than necessary to produce the toxin effect. Fifteen pounds of the green weed and 10 pounds of the dry weed proved fatal to cattle in eight to twelve days. Twenty pounds of the green weed and 10 pounds of the dry weed proved fatal to horses in eleven to eighteen days.

"Judging from the appearance of white snakeroot in pastures where fatal cases of poisoning occurred, the quantity eaten by the live stock was much less than the above animals."

Dr. Craig said that hogs seem to be immune to white snakeroot poisoning. Sheep, as well as horses and cattle, are the worst sufferers from this plant. If a large area of woodland pasture is very heavily infested with snakeroot farmers can turn in the hogs to clean it up, although the method of eradication recommended is to go through a pasture and pull up every white snakeroot plant by hand. Mowing the weeds is only a temporary method of handling the growth because the plant will grow again unless the root is destroyed.

LIGHTNING BOLTS START NEW FIRES IN WESTERN AREA

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Lightning, playing over the Bitter Root and Nez Perce national forests of western Montana and central Idaho today added new woes to fire fighters.

Preceding scattered light showers and cloudy weather, the lightning sprayed fifteen small spot blazes on the Bitter Root forest, and numerous small ones of the Nez Perce. All blazes were well manned at noon, forest service officers at Missoula reported, and unless weather conditions change little difficulty is expected.

Rain on the western edge of the timber country, with showers farther east and predictions for soaking rains over the timber country, did much to brighten the fighters' outlook.

The Trout creek blaze, which yesterday claimed the life of a Civilian Conservation corps worker, was reported to have spread during the night and today had a perimeter of 20 miles. All but eight miles, however, had been encircled with fire lines.

Hitch Hiker Gets Ride, but Loses His Clothes and $46

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Edward Koerber of New Britain, Conn., hitch hiking to Montana "thumbed" a ride with two men. Between Davenport and Clinton, Ia., his "benefactors" took all his clothing, $46 and turned him loose, nude, in a cornfield.

2-WAY FIREMEN'S RADIO WORKS ON FIRST TEST HERE

Need of System Seen at Stockyards Blaze.

Developed to supply a need emphasized by the recent stock yards fire, a new two way short wave radio communication system for firemen successfully passed its first tests yesterday.

Sending and receiving apparatus was stationed in Randolph street near the city hall. Smaller apparatus, weighing eight pounds, was set up in the offices of Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan on the first floor of the building. Despite much electrical interference in the vicinity, radio conversations were carried on with remarkable clarity. Later, similar conversations were conducted between Chief Corrigan's office and that of Police Commissioner James P. Allman on the fifth floor.

Quick Method Needed.

The system was developed by police radio experts on orders of Mayor Kelly following the stock yards fire.

"I attended that fire," the mayor said, "and it pointed out to me the need of a modern means of quick communication at major fires. A method was needed by which the fire marshal could be informed instantly of developments and give orders."

In practice, the main apparatus would be stationed at a central point at a large fire. Each of the twelve division marshals and perhaps the 58 battalion chiefs would carry the smaller instruments on their backs.

Couriers Now Used.

Thus, Chief Corrigan or Deputy Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney, one or both of whom attend all large fires, could keep informed of all developments and shift their men about as the need required. At present intercommunication at fires is by courier.

The apparatus is designed to operate over a mile radius, and probably would cost less than $5,000 to install, its sponsors said.

Drouth Dust Blinds Bull; Farmer Escapes with Life

The continued drouth yesterday saved Milton Hollestein, 27 year old farmer living near Frankfort, 12 miles west of Chicago Heights, from death or serious injury. While driving his cattle to pasture Hollestein was attacked by a bull. The animal, after knocking its owner to the ground, was blinded by a cloud of dust it kicked up in the parched field. In floundering about the bull stepped on Hollestein's right arm and neck, inflicting flesh wounds. Under cover of the dust cloud Hollestein managed to roll to safety under a fence.

Boost Theater Art Exhibit

MISS DOROTHY SCHMIDT.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Dorothy Schmidt, a former president of the Junior league of Chicago and one of its most capable and active members, is one of those working very hard these summer days to make a huge success of the benefit the league is having Monday afternoon. It is to be the opening of an International Exhibition of Theater Art from the Museum of Modern Art of New York from 2 to 6 o'clock at 26 South Michigan avenue.

The league hopes to raise a large sum for its charity fund by acting as hostess that day. The exhibition will be shown until Sept. 25, every day from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Miss Schmidt also is busy with wedding and trousseau plans for she is to be married this fall to Otto Teegen of New York.

Golf Tourney for Women to Open Monday

Illinois Championship at Evanston Club.

BY JUDITH CASS.

HOUSEHOLD routine, summer holidays, and fall wardrobes will take second place to championship golf as topics of interest next week for the majority of society's sports minded women. Beginning early Monday morning and continuing through Saturday, the greens and fairways of the beautiful Evanston Golf club are to be cleared for the first Illinois women's state championship golf tournament, and it has enlisted most of the state's finest golfers.

"In fact, it will be the greatest group of local and state players ever brought together," Mrs. Mary M. Wheeler, president of the Chicago Woman's District Golf association, the sponsoring organization, told a group of her friends Thursday on the veranda of the George Henneberrys' charming summer home, Hawthorne Farm, at Warrenville. Mrs. Henneberry was hostess at golf, luncheon, and swimming to a dozen and a half of her golfing friends, most of whom are to play in the state tourney.

After eighteen holes of play in the morning on the historic Chicago Golf club course the party gathered at Mrs. Henneberry's house—incidentally this was built by Chauncey McCormick on his farm for the Nibiack Thornes—for luncheon and then returned to the club in the afternoon for swimming in the pool. Besides Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Paul Walker, Mrs. Timothy Lowry, Mrs. Albert Copeland, Mrs. Harold Scott, and Mrs. "Jack" Cady were among the guests.

Many Chicagoans Will Enter Tourney.

Mrs. Henneberry and Mrs. Walker will be entered in the tournament Monday through the Chicago Golf club, of which they are members. Miss Jean Armstrong, who is one of Chicago's finest young golfers, will play under the colors of Indian Hill, and so will Mrs. Austin Pardue, several times a champion, who is here from her home in Minneapolis for the wedding of her sister, Miss Catherine Klotz, a week from today. Still others signed up for the competition through their Indian Hill membership are Miss Marie Louise Gardner, a debutante of the last season, and Miss Helen MacMorran.

Miss Ada Rew, Mrs. David Norton, Miss Polly Pietch, Mrs. Artemus D. Watson Jr., and Mrs. W. L. Graham, all members of Glenview, will be trying for the handsome trophy Gov. Horner has given as the tournament prize. And so will Miss June Beebe of Olympia Fields, whose engagement to Philip Trowbridge Atwood was announced yesterday morning; Miss Rena Nelson, Mrs. William W. Haerther, Miss Janet Willard, Mrs. Charles B. Willard, Miss Jane Hart, Mrs. Karl Meyer, Mrs. Floyd Hunt, Miss Louise Willard, and Mrs. Edward L. Ives, all of Exmoor; Miss Shirley Ann Johnson of Sunset Ridge; Mrs. J. Lennox Nairn of Knollwood, and Mrs. Hunter Dickson of Flossmoor.

Tell Engagement of Miss Dickinson.

From California comes an announcement of interest here because the persons concerned are former Chicagoans. The announcement is that of the engagement of Miss Martha Dickinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Reynolds Dickinson of Hope Ranch Park, Santa Barbara, to Henry Johnson Ullmann Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson Ullmann of Hill 70, Mission Canyon, Santa Barbara.

The Dickinsons and Ullmanns both used to live here, and they still have many relatives here. Mr. Dickinson is Francis R. Dickinson's brother, and Mrs. Dickinson is the sister of John P. Wilson. Dr. Ullmann, who formerly lived in Highland Park, is a cousin of Frederic Ullmann of Winnetka, and he also has relatives living in Oak Park and River Forest.

Mrs. Wilson Weds in London Today.

Today at high noon in London, England, Chicago society will lose one of its attractive young women when Mrs. Marjorie Allen Wilson becomes the bride of an English aviator, Flight Lieutenant Hugh M. Groves of the royal air force.

Only the immediate families will witness the ceremony but a large number of friends have been invited to the reception at Grosvenor house in Park lane, where the bride and her 3 year old son, Benjamin Allen Wilson, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin C. Allen of State parkway, have been living since they went to London about six weeks ago.

Mrs. Wilson has spent much time abroad ever since she was a little girl and quite a bit in England since she was grown, for her only sister, Mildred, is married to an Englishman, Maj. Oliver C. Bryson, and lives in Stamford, England.

The bride's Chicago relatives, her aunt, Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, and her cousins, Mrs. T. Philip Swift and Mrs. Dexter Cummings, do not anticipate meeting Lieut. Groves very soon unless they take trips to England, for the former Marjorie Allen hasn't written of any plans she and her husband-to-be have for visiting Chicago any time in the near future.

Gay House Party at Harbor Point.

A FRIEND tells a little story about the late President Paul von Hindenburg that illustrates the character and mettle of "Der Alte." It was told her by Philip Heinecken, who was then president of the North German Lloyd and is now retired. About three years ago President von Hindenburg went from Berlin to Bremen to unveil a statue and he spent the night at the home of Mr. Heinecken, which was on the way between the two cities. The following morning the party went on to Bremen by auto and, although it was raining and the rest of the party would have liked the windows closed, the old president wanted the air and to see the country, so they all got pretty wet. Upon his arrival at Bremen Von Hindenburg spoke for one hour in the pouring rain. The other dignitaries stood in the rain, too, perforce, taking nips of cognac and swallowing aspirin, and most of them took hot baths and went to bed immediately afterward. Old Paul, however, started back to Berlin immediately after his speech.

A GIRL who signs her letter Goldy Abraham writes that she is attending the University of Chicago this summer, and that the other day she stepped into the office of the head of an important department to inquire about some courses. The secretary of the dignitary is a girl who is working for her master's thesis and who lives in the same dormitory with her. The secretary inquired as to the whereabouts of a friend who was studying at the university last summer.

"He has gone back to Hawaii," Miss Abraham told her.

"Why, he told me he was going to Honolulu," the master's thesis aspirant replied indignantly.

By Anna Nangle.

The Chicago theater is just full of youth, beauty, and college spirit this week. Warings' Pennsylvanians, famed for their smooth renditions of college medleys, are on the stage, and the screen presents the tale of what a chorus girl on the loose did to dear old Princeton.

The story of this woman and her wiles was published serially in a magazine, got rave notices as a stage production, and will now delight the hearts of movie fans.

Miriam Hopkins as Curly Flagg, a chorus girl, runs into a murder while doing her number in a night club. Afraid of being mixed in the affair, she grabs a coat and buys 75 cents' worth of ride on a bus, which lands her at Princeton. Here we find our hero, Mr. Bing Crosby, in the rôle of Paul Lawton Sr. composing soulful music for the school show and eating chocolate cake. The cake is too much for the hungry Curly, who marches into his quarters, and once she's in there's no getting her out.

Perplexed but sympathetic, Paul invites his pal, Biff Jones, to share his problem. They dress the gal in slacks, cut her hair, and park her in Biff's room while he takes off for New York to persuade papa, a movie mogul, to come across with a job for the stowaway.

Paul, after finally convincing Curly that she's about as attractive as a horse as far as he's concerned, writes to his fiancée asking her to take an interest in a "deserving chorus girl," which goes over big with her. After that master stroke he meets the dean's daughter and promptly falls in love with her. In New York a bright publicity man has sold Mr. Jones on the idea of using Curly in a movie, and from that point the film is a laughable, exciting whirl, involving all the characters plus the press, police and a few gangsters.

Bing has a pleasant, easy manner, and there are several swell songs—"Straight from the Shoulder" and "Love in Bloom"—which he sings as only he can. Miss Hopkins is excellent as the rather crude little go-getter and succeeds in making you laugh at her antics.

The entire supporting cast is excellent, but special mention is awarded to Kitty Carlisle as the dean's daughter, who sings several duets with the star, and to young Edward Nugent, who portrays Biff. I always did like his work and wonder why they insist on looking around for juveniles with this bright lad in their midst. Lynne Overman is perfect as Gus McNeal, the p. a.

Dialog is fast and funny, photography and direction expert, and the music is responsible for a great part of the film's charm. There's dancing, rhythm, beauty, and brains in this flicker, and for once, in spite of the collegiate setting, no one yells "Fight, team, fight."

Fur Industries Will Hold Fashion Show at Loop Theater

One of the greatest single collections of furs in the country will be on view next week in the annual fur fashion show of the Associated Fur Industries of Chicago at the State-Lake theater. Every type of pelt to be noted in the parade of femininity this winter will be displayed by forty mannequins during the regular performances at the theater in the coming season's foremost fur styles.

The total value of the garments is estimated at a million dollars. A corps of detectives has been retained to guard the coats.

The range of coat styles will take the spectators through the price lists from the most moderately priced to the opulent and expensive formal wraps. In many cases muffs of matching furs will be carried, in line with fashion's decree that muffs are "good" again.

Milady Must Look Wise in Fall Fashions

Sophisticated Models Seen in Paris Shows.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.
[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Fall fashions are going to make women wiser—at least, they'll look that way. The most mature styles in years are shown, and the most sophisticated, with a great increase in elaboration shown in spangles, embroideries, a number of heavy silks, and grandma's favorite, chinchilla cloth.

Molyneux displays streamline silhouettes. There's very little room inside, from all appearances. Some of his split hemmed, long skirts have fringed edges for daytime, and gaudy hems for evening. He shows skirts almost ankle length for day wear and with trains for evening.

Necklines come high, like those of the 1900 femme fatale, with brilliant ties under the chin, and long, simple sleeves.

The Molyneux coats are short and flaring from the shoulders, varying in length, many of knee length. Cutaway capes in fur, or cloth rich with fur—seal, astrakhan and fox—are being played up. Lots of dyed fox is shown. Fur is used unstintingly, many wool wraps being half fur.

Shiny velvets are used for daytime and evening, and sheath dresses in shaded velvet for evening are a stunning feature. There are lots of lace and net evening dresses, with ruffles rampant around 1860 décolletés and at the hems of pencil line, split skirts. Shoulder straps are omitted entirely. Many evening dresses have hems covered with bunches of ostrich plumes, and sealskin stoles and muffs for day are trimmed with ostrich.

Molyneux varies the streamline with dashing Russian suits with tunics, worn with fur toques and trimmed with fur. Capes are preferred as evening wraps. They are usually about fingertip length, some made of changeable, furlined taffeta, and others of velvet or lame.

Bottle green, chartreuse, rose, brown, black, and sapphire blue are the featured colors of the Molyneux collection.

Lucien Lelong shows varying silhouettes. He sponsors both dolman topped coats and capes with slim skirt portions, and coats fitted at the waistline, with wide skirt portions. Some of his dresses have wide skirts, and some are on the streamline plan—frocks of the utmost narrowness.

Fur is laid on coats by this house without reserve. They have the most stunning, widest revers and the biggest collars of the season—a specialty reviving woman's pet fur, natural lynx, as well as gray astrakhan and fox. Medium long and short fur capes, some of dark brown Alaska seal, are also a feature here.

There is a revival, too, of pearl and turquoise studded pendants on slender necklaces for evening.

Evening gowns of two tone faille and moire, and of velvet with gold underweave, streamline, trailing, and with daringly low V shaped décolletés are trimmed with sable fur.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Being reborn for a social whirl after a day's work is no easy matter. It can be done if you have time to rest, to bathe, and to apply a new outer coat to your face and perhaps the finger tips, but if you dash from office to engagement there are several handicaps. Not the least of these is the somewhat indelicate matter of perspiration odor that deals a death blow to your pretenses as a charmer.

We're completely sold on a deodorant in a strikingly new form, a little dusting bag to tote with you everywhere, and use as swiftly and as unobtrusively as the puff with which you powder your nose. It actually neutralizes all odor of perspiration and it isn't irritating.

It's a small bag of powder sealed in a square case. This slips into an outer envelope of celanese silk in pastel colors as dainty as that used for lingerie. It's a well bred accessory that will be used by well bred women.

It performs its delicate personal service almost anywhere and any time. If it's after the morning shower you can be certain that the bogey man of undaintiness is outwitted for that day. You can use it in a moment of privacy while you're at business, shopping or perhaps, if you're one of the leisured class, in an interval when you're caught in the throng at a sticky crowded cocktail party. It can be used between dances. In the pretty case it doesn't add much to the burden of an evening bag, and it's as attractive as many compacts.

This puff is a life saver when you must do a quick brushing up before you set out to be gay. Using it makes you feel almost as refreshed as you would if you'd had time to take the shower. Men will like it, too, and as one anguished by their failure in general to use any deodorant, we hereby plead with mothers and sisters and wives to urge this upon them.

It's sold all over town—and it's cheap. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Movie Change Threatens Rule in Chinatown

Los Angeles "Mayor" Hit by Paramount Policy.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The government of Los Angeles' Chinatown is wavering, like that of Austria, New Orleans, and North Dakota. In the local case the movies are responsible. Although Tom Gubbins, Hongkong born Englishman and for 15 years unofficial mayor of Chinatown, may not be as important in the world scheme as Dollfuss, Huey Long, and Mr. and Mrs. William Langer, yet the story of his troubles is interesting.

Strangely, the mayoralty of Chinatown depends on the favor of Hollywood movie magnates.

Most Los Angeles Chinese are on the ragged edge of penury. An occasional few days' work in the studios as part of oriental mob scenes bridges the gap between near starvation and comparative affluence.

Gubbins, who came to this country as an interpreter and spent a dozen years learning the movie business in the early days of the silents, has for many years been the employment agent who carefully rotated extras and bit players among the local Chinese. Every film with a Chinese locale made here in years depended on Gubbins to find the oriental actors. Gubbins also acted as technical adviser and interpreter and supplied Chinese costumes and props.

The picturesque, burly, gray haired mayor nursed extras until they became bit players or accomplished actors, with salaries increased from $5 a day to $15 and even $25. He saw that no one in Chinatown lacked food; loaning money against possible future pay checks.

Now Gubbins' power is threatened. For the first time another has replaced him as technical adviser, interpreter, and employment agent. Gubbins, who makes a trip every year to Hongkong to keep in touch with things native, has been discharged from technical charge of the Chinese sequences in Greta Garbo's "The Painted Veil," laid principally in Hongkong.

Lew Chee, who runs a Chinatown drugstore, and who is a friend of the Los Angeles vice consul representing the Nanking Chinese government, is the man who was hired on the picture in Gubbins' place. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has the favor of the Chinese governmental representative to think about, for when its current Garbo story is completed the same studio is to film Pearl Buck's "The Good Earth," and each film represents a studio outlay close to half a million.

Each film may need more background scenes shot in China, and the coöperation which the vice consul, Yi-Seng Kiang, and the government might extend or withhold from future movie expeditions makes the vice consul's local friend, Lew Chee, important to the studio.

In the meantime things look glum for Gubbins. The Hongkong "mayor's" contract had chiefly been with Cantonese Chinese, and the players he put in pictures spoke Canton dialect. The new arrangement, as in the case of Harold Lloyd's Chinese sequence in "The Catspaw," is taken to represent the desire of the Nanking government to register Nanking importance and a dialect different from the Cantonese in the international field so fortunately provided for their purposes by American movies.

Virginia Cherrill [Mrs. Cary Grant] may enter the business of being an actors' agent.

Noble Johnson, colored actor who played an American Indian in many film stories, now is cast by Paramount as a Hindu native in "Lives of a Bengal Lancer."

Wellington Mack, one of the few men following the profession of writing comedy pantomimes for circus clowns, has been signed by Producer P. A. Powres to write situations for the "Comi-Color" cartoons at Animated Pictures corporation.

Sally to Tell Plans for Another Gay Party in Tribune Tomorrow

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

If you children just knew the news that I have in store for you, and which will be told in tomorrow's TRIBUNE, you'd probably all rush down here to the Tribune Tower and stand beside the big presses that turn out the papers so you could grab a paper quickly.

Well, you can't do that—but you'd better not miss the paper tomorrow. I've warned you—and it's your own hard luck if you do. If I don't stop this I'll be giving the secret away, I'm so awfully excited about it.

I know all you youngsters who wrote in for our movie party won't miss it, because the winners will be listed in the same column as the news of the next good time I've planned for you. Watch for your name, and if you see it be on the lookout for the postman, 'cause he'll be coming your way with an invitation from me. If your address is printed incorrectly please let me know immediately.

CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE

Her Husband's Fiancee

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Cecily Marshall returns after a year's absence to the home in Colchester, England, where she had lived with her husband, David Marshall, the city's leading merchant prince. Cecily had been a shopgirl at Marshall's. Beautiful Audrey Lowe, who had wanted David herself, and her cousin, Reggie Davies, had contrived to break up Cecily's marriage. David believed Cecily unfaithful and won a divorce from her and the custody of their small child, Rose Ann. The child doesn't know the cause of her mother's long absence and grieves for her. Fearing for the child's health, Nanna, her nurse, wires Cecily. David, who is about to marry Audrey, is giving a dinner party for her when Cecily arrives. Nanna admits Cecily secretly. David stops in the nursery before retiring and sees Cecily sleeping beside Rose Ann. Suspecting she plans to kidnap the child he lies in wait till morning. Then he orders her and Nanna from the house. Rose Ann develops brain fever, and David is forced to send for Cecily. Audrey is blackmailed by the wife of the deceased innkeeper she had bribed to swear that Cecily and Reggie had shared the same room a night they were marooned due to motor trouble. Rose Ann improves. Cecily has dinner with David, at his invitation. He proposes, for Rose Ann's sake, that they remarry.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

FUTURE PLANS.

Once more David's pride had been dragged in the mire. What would he not have given to be able to recall that "proposal." Cecily looked quite serious, but he felt that she was laughing at him all the same.

"Apparently you are not so fond of your daughter as you've led me to believe. A pity Rose Ann is so fond of you."

"From your point of view it is a pity," said Cecily. "Where she is concerned, I think the situation can be met by my going to stay at Mrs. Leach's and seeing Rose Ann every day. I can take her for walks and teach her simple lessons. She could have her midday dinner with me. If you like, you can pay me to be Rose Ann's governess."

David's bronzed face was getting turkey red. He looked as though he would blow up at any moment.

"You can take it or leave it," said Cecily. "But one thing is quite certain, I shall never come back to live in this house under the humiliating conditions you laid down just now. If I ever do come back—which seems most unlikely—it would be after you had gone on your knees and begged my forgiveness."

David made a wry mouth. "As you say, that seems most unlikely," he told her.

Mason had just admitted a visitor to the lounge and for the first time in his life David was stricken with a real sense of embarrassment, although of late there had been times when his self-possession had come near to being shaken.

Audrey Lowe laid aside her cloak with a manner of definite assurance.

"If he's alone I'll join him," she said. "You may bring me a cup of coffee, Mason."

"H'm—Mr. Marshall is not alone, miss. If you will go into the drawing room——"

"Who is with him?"

"Er—Mrs. Marshall, miss."

"You mean old Mrs. Marshall?"

Mason coughed on an apologetic note.

"No—er—the young mistress," he said tactlessly.

Certainly he was fast losing his head. It had been nearly an hour since he had served coffee and left David and Cecily to themselves, and so far they seemed not to have left the table. Mason no less than Nanna was allowing himself to hope that they were patching up their badly damaged romance. What a pity it was that Miss Lowe should come along just now.

"I think you're forgetting yourself," Audrey said severely. "If you mean Cecily Marshall, she is not the mistress of this house."

"Yes, miss—no, miss."

"Please tell Mr. Marshall that I am here and wish to see him."

Mason glanced uncertainly toward the closed door of the dining room.

"I'm sorry, but I don't think I can do that."

Audrey's eyes blazed and she stamped her foot.

"How dare you defy me! When Mr. Marshall hears of this——"

"Yes, miss. If you will kindly go into the drawing room, I'm sure Mr. Marshall won't be very long, now, and I'll tell him just as soon as——"

Audrey threw him a withering glance and swept past him, her long earrings jangling and arrogance in the very swish of her flounced skirts.

Without any warning she flung open the dining room door.

What had she expected to find? Cecily in David's arms? It was a relief to her that they were sitting with the width of the table between them.

David got to his feet so hastily that he knocked over his chair.

"Audrey, my dear!" he exclaimed.

Audrey blazed at him, ignoring Cecily's presence completely.

"I should like to know what this means, David. That butler of yours was insufferably rude to me just now. If you don't dismiss him on the spot——"

"Come, come, Audrey—really! I can't imagine old Mason——"

"The fact is, he was. But I can see now why he didn't want me to come in here."

Tacitly she was admitting the presence of a third person, although she still refused to glance at Cecily.

Cecily rose less impetuously than David had done, and it seemed to her former husband that her demureness of face covered a pussy cat smile. Already she had put one over on him, and his painful embarrassment—which in essence resembled Mason's—must be affording her much secret amusement.

"If there's nothing more you want to say to me, David, I'll ask you to excuse me," she said.

"You see—I was right," she added with meaning.

He felt that he detested her for that last remark. Right about Audrey she meant, of course. That Audrey Lowe would not relinquish him without a struggle.

When David led his outraged bride-to-be into the drawing room there was no sign of Cecily. She had gone back to the west wing and Nanna, he supposed.

"Audrey, please calm yourself," he entreated.

Audrey's breast heaved.

"You ask me to calm myself! You haven't been near me for three days and today you haven't even telephoned. I thought you must be ill, and when I come around here I find you having dinner with—with that woman you profess to despise. And then you ask me to calm myself!"

"I had to see Cecily. There were things——"

"Were you obliged to have dinner with her?"

"It seemed easier to talk that way."

"And more intimate. What are the 'things' you had to talk over with Cecily?"

"Our—our future plans."

"Ha! The next thing you'll be asking her to take you back again."

David flushed darkly. "Cecily might have something to say as to that."

"You think she wouldn't jump at the chance? You poor fool. Why, that's the only thing she came back to Bellchester for. Between her and that Nanna of yours, a nice little trap has been laid for you, David Marshall."

David lit a cigaret with unsteady fingers. Cecily had hurt and humiliated him, but Audrey was making him a little angry.

"Cecily came back to Bellchester because Nanna telegraphed her that Rose Ann was on the verge of a collapse. Thank God she did come."

"O, that's how you feel about it! Mother was right. When a man has failed one woman as a husband, he's a pretty big risk to the next one who's taking him on."

"Do you want to end our engagement, Audrey?"

It seemed to her that she detected a note of eagerness in David's question, and it brought her up short.

If David but faintly guessed how much she loved him, how utterly he possessed her. What would she not do to keep him, now that she had won through thus far? Murder would be a slight crime to commit. The wedding bells were almost within hearing distance. People had begun to forget Cecily. And then all this had to happen.

Traveling Mate Leaves Lonely Wife at Home

Her Situation Is Indeed Dangerous One.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is just twenty, but married for two years; has no children, is pretty, fun loving, but married to a man whose job keeps him on the road much of the time.

"Marriage hasn't made me feel older than my years," she confides. "But I am always alone. Or always was alone until recently. A young man neighbor has been asking me to go to the movies. He is alone in the city, has no girl, and understands how it is with me, always alone. The chap is fine and decent. Never makes a pass that my husband could resent, but my husband says he will leave me if he ever hears of me going out with the chap again. I love my husband, but I simply cannot stand being alone so much. And the worst of it is that he could have a steady position here, but he prefers traveling.

"There's more money in the job he's on, but I've told him often I'd rather live on less if he would only be home more. What would you do if you were twenty? Stay home and get old just sitting alone night after night? Or would you continue going out with the young man just to keep you from going completely nutty? I have no relatives here and know very few people. DESPERATE."

That is a stickler, Desperate! We can see where, unless that young husband of yours realizes that he has some responsibility in your welfare, too, your marriage will wind up in the divorce heap, unless you can muster a lot more stamina than ordinarily is expected of twenty years.

On the other hand, you are twenty and married and you knew what business your young man was in when you married him. You knew you would be required to be alone a lot. So, it becomes a question of whether you are going to stick to your part of the bargain as the patient, waiting wife of not. Personally, we feel some one ought to take your husband in hand and try to make him see that you either have to be taken along on trips with him occasionally or, if he is interested in preserving his marriage, he should meet your terms on the other job. As you hint, Desperate, the better paying job means nothing if companionship is completely denied. And these lonely affiliations, as between you and the single chap, are dangerous substitutes for a husband's companionship.

Golf Tourney for Women to Open Monday

Most of the guests went north by train or motor Thursday to be there in time for a beach party that Mrs. Waller gave last night.

Today Mrs. Wheeler is entertaining at luncheon at the Beach club and tonight the four hostesses are giving a dinner at the Little Harbor club. The festivities will end with a luncheon tomorrow at which Mrs. Gordon will be hostess and then the young people will scatter to return to their respective homes. Among those in the party are the John Olivers, Miss Betty Smith, Miss Ann Small, Miss Honore White, Miss Jean Hyman, Miss Alice May Dickinson, Miss Jean O'Brien, Jack Brittingham, Dick Juergens, Bill Little, John McWilliams III., Mason Wells, Nelson L. Barnes Jr., Charles Bloomfield, Billy Waller, Bob Wheeler, and Henry L. McIntyre. Miss Wheeler's fiancé; also the Fred Blocks of Peoria, the John R. Hurleys, and Miss Barbara Graf and her fiancé, Charles S. Connell, who motor north through Wisconsin, stopping in Oshkosh for a visit with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Gregory Connell.

Philip Mahers to Drive East.

Next Friday Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Maher are leaving on a week's motor trip that will be repeated in less than another month. They are going east to Raquette lake in the Adirondacks to visit Mrs. Maher's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Michelson Dick, and her fiancé, John Bitter, at the summer home of Mr. Bitter's mother, Mrs. Karl Bitter, and to help them set the day for their wedding the first week in September. Returning home for a fortnight after this is settled, the Mahers will go back in early September for the wedding.

The service is to be a very simple and quiet one with no attendants excepting little Barbara Foster, daughter of the Festus Fosters of Washington, D. C., a niece of Mrs. Dick. She will be the flower girl. It is still uncertain where Mrs. Dick and Mr. Bitter will make their home, for Mr. Bitter, a young orchestra conductor, just back from Vienna, does not know what his post will be.

Chicago is represented in the Marblehead regatta this week-end by the Hope, the Robinson twins' Q boat. The Robinsons, Theodore W. Jr. and Sanger, shipped the boat east just before the Mackinac race and they motored east a bit later. William B. Goltra of Chicago also went east to sail with them, and the trio will return to Chicago the end of next week.

Miss Virginia Ashcraft has joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft Jr., at their summer place on Pike lake in Wisconsin for the rest of the summer.

Solomon B. Smiths Plan Motor Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon B. Smith are hoping to get away by Aug. 15 for a motor trip through the White mountains. They will be gone about three weeks.

The Hamilton Allports of Glencoe will return shortly from a three weeks' motor trip through Canada.

Mrs. Sidney Haskell, Mr. Allport's sister, and her three children, Carolyn, Henry, and Diana, have deserted their home in Geneva for the month of August and are at a camp on Butternut lake in northern Wisconsin. Mr. Haskell will join them for the last two weeks they are there.

Striking caddies mean nothing to tennis enthusiasts, so there is sure to be a large gallery tomorrow afternoon for some exhibition tennis matches that Louis Volpe Jr. has arranged for the Exmoor Country club, starting at 3 o'clock. The players will be those two attractive cousins, Miss Mary Reed and Miss Jean Schweppe; Charles Garland and Bill Croker from the Onwentsia club; George Jennings, former national clay court champion, and Mr. Volpe.

Birthday Party for Alister McCormick.

Alister H. McCormick and his wife, who are here from their home in Santa Barbara for a visit with his mother, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, had planned to join a dinner party at the Fair last night, but when they told the elder Mrs. McCormick of their plans she reminded them that Aug. 3 was Alister's birthday and told them that she was planning a family dinner at home to celebrate the occasion.

So they missed seeing the Spanish pageant that Helen Tieken Geraghty had arranged for the Spanish Village last night, but they expect to dine and to see the pageant some night next week.

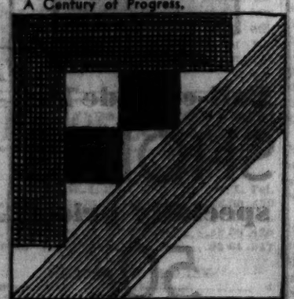
Virginian Honors King George III. in Regal Quilt

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.



King's Crown.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A Virginian honored George III. by naming her favorite quilt block, "King's Crown," for him. The beauty of the block is more apparent in the completed spread, since four pieced blocks are arranged to fashion a crown. The block is made in royal colors, deep purple, gold and white.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

BELATED GAME CONTRACTS BY A WEAK RESPONDING HAND.

Continuing directly yesterday's article dealing with the situation when each partner has a major suit of five or more cards, let us assume that the bidding has been one no trump by the opener, two hearts by responder, two no trumps by opener, three hearts by responder, three spades by opener. If the responder's holdings are about as follows:

Sp. x x	Di. K x x
Hts. Q J x x x	Cl. x x x

he should pass. However, with

Sp. x x	Di. K 10 x
Hts. Q J x x x	Cl. J 9 x

he should, I think, bid three no trumps, now knowing that he is not, and cannot be, expected to supply anything in spades. With

Sp. x	Di. K x x
Hts. Q x x x x x	Cl. x x x

he should bid four hearts, a safety bid based on the knowledge that spades are hopeless. Hearts must be preferable. This may well turn out to be a game-going contract, especially if the hand does not play unluckily or the opponents do not conduct the defense just right. With

Sp. J x x	Di. x
Hts. Q J x x x	Cl. K 10 x x

a raise to four spades would be a fine bid. With eight trumps between the two hands and the certainty that declarer cannot be embarrassed by forces in case the trumps are stacked against him, this distribution offers better than an even chance of four spades being made.

With Two Minor Suits.

3. If the bidding went one no trump by opener, two diamonds by responder, three clubs by opener, the responding hand must read this as weakness and, unless able himself to bid three no trumps in view of his information about the clubs, he must either pass three clubs or bid three diamonds. This latter bid must be read by the opener as a denial of clubs, showing preference for a partial score contract in diamonds rather than clubs, and disclaiming all hopes of game.

With a Major and a Minor.

4. [a] If the bidding went one no trump, two diamonds, two no trumps by opener, three diamonds, three spades by opener, the responder should not deny, but should pass with

Sp. x	Di. Q x x x x x
Hts. K x x	Cl. x x x

and hope the result will not be too bad. Only if this contract is doubled should he consider bidding four diamonds, where the fit is certainly much better. To bid three no trumps or four spades he needs about the same hands as those shown above, exchanging the diamond and heart holdings to correspond with this bidding.

[b] In the reverse situation, should the bidding be one no trump, two hearts, three diamonds by opener, three hearts by responder, now the opening bidder must decide whether to pass, to bid three no trumps, or to bid four hearts. The responding hand's bidding has shown extreme weakness, with presumably nothing outside the heart suit and only length without strength in that suit. Opener should assume that his partner has only five hearts to the queen and an outside king, and pass or bid accordingly, taking into consideration the likelihood that with hearts as trumps the opening lead will be the most damaging one that can be made through his hand and the knowledge that his hand will be exposed as dummy—an open book of instructions for the enemy.

Awards Announced in Annual Garden Show at Lake Geneva

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Henry Brigham won first in decorated tables at the thirtieth annual garden and flower show here today. She used a Wedgwood table centerpiece, white and yellow snapdragons, and white china. Mrs. I. L. Ellwood was second. She used bluebells, a pink larkspur centerpiece, and tablecloth flowered to match. First in breakfast trays went to Mrs. John W. Fowler, who used flowered Bavarian china, and Mrs. Frank Porter was second. She used blue Wedgwood china.

In the center of the main hall gladioli were displayed by almost the entire lake colony. In the flower shadow boxes Mrs. Robert Tarrant won first. Other awards were: Shadow boxes of fruit, first, Mrs. W. P. Finney; bubble bouquets, first, Mrs. Frank Porter; miniature bouquets, first, Miss Ellen Wheeler.

Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson won two firsts in foliage plants and Daniel Peterkin a first in vases of cut flowers.

First in buttermilk was won by S. B. Chapin. Other awards in these classes were: Mrs. Ryerson, for cream; Mr. Chapin, for milk; Mrs. Ryerson, white eggs; Miss Harriet Kaye, brown eggs; Mrs. O. L. Schmidt, honey; A. F. Madlener, white turnips; Mrs. C. L. Hutchinson, peppers and strawberries; A. W. Wakely, raspberries; Mrs. O. L. Schmidt, cottage cheese; Mr. Chapin, butter.

"Parties for Growing-Ups," a booklet of children's parties with menus, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

The founding of a new school of cookery probably was far from the mind of Jacques Cartier when, back in 1534, he piloted his fragile little galleon along the shores of an alluring new continent and came to land in the district which is now the province of Quebec, Canada. But necessity, with her usual disregard for men's plans, led the questing French settlers to perform just this. Hungry men and women with a heritage of elaborate and delightful cookery behind them, found a country bountiful in its offerings of food, but with little to suggest in the way of condiments, sauces, spices, and all the superficial adornments to which the Frenchmen had been used. Flying birds, fish from the lakes and rivers, and wild game filled the larders for over 300 years, while the French-Canadians learned the joys of cooking simply from nature's offerings, searching out delicious combinations with their home grown vegetables and fruits, regardless of the time and care it took, garnishing with what came to hand, experimenting until today they offer to taste-weary travelers a cruisine which is as satisfying as it is varied and unique.

From the Château Fontenac, where Monsieur Baltera dispenses hospitality and delicious food, comes the far north version of planked salmon.

PLANKED SALMON-BOUQUETIERE

Roll an eight inch salmon steak in oil and season it with salt and pepper. Arrange it on a hot oven plank and place on the top rack of a very hot oven. Cook for fifteen to twenty minutes, piping a border of creamy mashed potatoes around the plank when the fish is half done. When the potatoes are golden brown and the fish is cooked spread a little butter over the salmon and fill the spaces around the fish with small piles of hot buttered carrots, peas, or cauliflower, or with sliced cucumbers. Serve the dinner from the plank, which should rest on a large table platter.

The same student of French-Canadian cookery also offers us this merry creation:

BEEFSTEAK AND KIDNEY PIE.

Cut one pound of rump steak into large cubes and flatten these with a cleaver. Cut one pound of beef kidneys in one-quarter inch slices. Fry the two meats separately over a hot fire, then drain them in a collander. Place together in a sauce pan with a little chopped onion, salt, and pepper. Add brown stock to moisten. Cook until nearly tender, thicken the liquor with some brown sauce and a little Italian tomato paste. Five minutes before the mixture is done add a few sprigs of minced parsley and a crumbled bay leaf. Then turn the meat and sauce into individual casseroles or into a large fireproof dish. Cover the whole with pie paste and bake until the crust is done.

Serve him pea soup and you charm the French-Canadian. Prepare it by this ancient recipe from Château Fontenac or Cornwallis inn and you've won him completely:

Pea Soup Habitant.

2 pounds whole dried peas
1 teaspoon soda
6 quarts water
2 onions, chopped
1 pound salt pork, cut up
2 carrots, sliced
1 yellow turnip, sliced
1 section ham bone

Soak the peas overnight in cold water with the soda added. In the morning drain, rinse, and add the peas to the other ingredients of the soup. Bring to a boil, skim well, then continue boiling gently for about four hours. Add salt to taste. This makes a large quantity of soup and the recipe should be at least halved for the family with an average soup capacity.

YOUR BOY'S FUTURE

Your choice of a school for your son will largely determine the degree of success he will attain later on in life. It will pay you to be well informed about schools before you make your final decision. ● A good way to make comparisons of the advantages of a number of schools is to read the announcements in the Educational Directory in the Chicago Tribune. ● Schools of many kinds, teaching a wide variety of subjects, outline in detail in the Tribune the advantages they offer. You will find offers from boarding schools for the younger boys, prep schools for the boy of high school age, and colleges and business schools for the older boy. ● Be sure to read the Educational Directory in tomorrow's Chicago Tribune!

Raglan Sleeves Embellish

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This smart home dress is like the wrap over one, easy to slip on when one is about the house, garden, porch, in the country, or on the shore. It has, however, just a little difference that makes it much more interesting. Raglan sleeves are easy to make, and another good point is that it opens out flat for ironing. The rever collar can be made of the dress material or of something contrasting, and you can bind all the edges with a contrasting color, perhaps matching the revers. Gingham, pique, seersucker, and other cottons are suitable.

The pattern, No. 3205, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

My goodness, but what luxurious things baths have become of recent times. We used to think we had achieved the height of something or other when we could dump bath salts by the handful into a tub. Now bath salts, although still popular with every right to be so, are but one of the luxuries of bathing, the bath salts container but one of many fascinating bottles and jars that give color to our bathroom shelves. We have bath perfumes in powder form, in oil, in combinations of bath salts and oil, effervescent tablets that fizz with promise of an intoxicating tubbing. Then there are pine scents that carry you off to the north woods while you sing in your tub, and lavender meals and heaven only knows what to tempt us to emulate the Romans in bath festivals.

If you want a pillow at your head while you luxuriate in the scented, softened water you can have that. By means of suction cups and the spongey rubber composition of the pillow it will stay put until you finish your serial. You can get reading racks that go across the tub to hold your book. All of which does sound like Cleopatra on her afternoon off, eh?

A let down, I calls it, after the above Pompeiian excursion, to talk of bath brushes that will reach up and scrub the back between the shoulder blades. But it was seeing bathing beauties' backs that reminded me of long handled brushes for just this very emergency. There's nothing like brush friction to keep that skin back up there flawlessly clear of blackhead blemishes. Curiously, girls who never suffer blackheads elsewhere sometimes register them between the shoulder blades and up into the neck base. There are long handled brushes that scrub effectively and which serve at the same times as sprays.

For the blemished condition spoken of, and enlarged pores on this upper back sector, you can't do better than scrub with soap and water, rinse off, and keep on scrubbing with the clear cold water coming from the spray attachment. Friction is just about the best treatment you can follow for the flawless skin.

To Betray Your Child's Trust Is Worst of Sins

Loyalty Is All-Important Virtue in Parents.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

To betray a trust.

For what have we more scorn? And these last twelve months have given us far too much outlet for that emotion. When those great financiers who held in their hands the disposition of the savings and investments of millions of people betrayed their trust—played ducks and drakes with what represented security for the aged, for the breadwinners and for the young, our scorn knew no bounds. They betrayed a trust—what worse?

There is a savings bank I have occasion to go to sometimes—one of those fine institutions that has justified, since its inception, the faith people have put in it. Confidence is in the bearing of every man and woman who brings his or her hard won savings into this storehouse.

People carry their valuables to a bank with trustfulness. The expression "You can bank on him," shows what our attitude is. So, those bankers who have failed their clients are the object of our scorn. To betray a trust—what worse?

The traffic was chaotic. I stopped at the curb. Over the tweed shoulder in front of me looked a chubby baby face and around the tweed collar rested a "starfish" hand. Right and left looked the father, even when the lights were with him—a necessary precaution with buses and huge trucks and slick taxis imperiling pedestrians' life and limb turning short corners. Then seizing the right moment he dashed across. He reached the opposite curb at the same time that I did, and I couldn't help being struck by the utter trustfulness of the baby's expression in all that maelstrom.

Asleep, with long lashes shading his round cheeks, being bathed, or dressed, or fed, or carried up and downstairs—trustfulness is in every line of a baby's body. "Here I am" he seems to say. "I know you'll protect me and care for me. I trust you."

How many parents justify that trust? Many—and more and more with each succeeding year. But rather specially do they justify that trust when their children are babies. The thing parents must watch out for is that, as that baby becomes older and a full fledged personality, they keep faith with him in every way—being understanding, just, patient, loving and ever loyal—his very Rock of Gibraltar.

Never through the years, must we betray our baby's trust in us.

Loyola Graduates Told Education Is World's Salvation

Educational leadership was seen as the only solution to the world's present crisis yesterday in an address by Dr. James A. Fitzgerald, professor of education at Loyola university, who addressed the summer school commencement exercises held in the university's auditorium. Degrees were conferred by President Samuel Knox Wilson, S. J., upon 59 students, the largest class in the history of the summer school.

"Economic, political, and educational leadership is confused today," Dr. Fitzgerald said. "Education alone can help us out of the chaos and it must be an education that stresses a sound philosophy, a broad cultural training, and an intelligent idealism."

At the exercises at De Paul university also held yesterday 98 degrees were awarded, closing the most successful summer school in its history. The Rev. Francis B. Corcoran, C. M., president, delivered the address.

"There can be no success in education," he declared, "with a straddling attitude toward principles. While educators over the world are muddled with new ideas and attitudes toward methods and principles of education, there is the least complaint to be found in Catholic institutions which have a strong basic foundation."

Churches Use 25 Languages in Work Here

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The ninth annual year book and directory of the Chicago Church federation, which soon will be ready for distribution, discloses that Chicago Protestantism is doing "foreign missionary work" in 25 language groups within Chicago's city limits.

The directory points out that Chicago is the second largest Polish city in the world, with 401,316 persons of that nationality residing here, 149,622 of whom are foreign born. Warsaw, Poland, is the largest Polish city. Polish emigrants constitute the largest national element in the Chicago population. The directory adds that the "Poles are particularly significant as a part of Chicago's life because of the educational institutions they have established."

These institutions are the Polish People's university and the Chicago branch of the Polish National alliance. According to the directory, the heaviest concentration of Poles occurs in the near north side, in the west town sector, and in Archer Heights.

The second largest national group, the directory states, is Jewish, with a population of 325,000. Protestant churches maintain five churches and institutions for Christian Jews "reaching several thousand Jews with their neighborhood and religious programs." The Italian group is the third largest with 230,000. Eighty thousand Chicago Italians were born in Italy.

"Italian history in Chicago has been an amazing record of progress," the directory states. "Large numbers of families and single laborers came to Chicago from Italy to live in the most deteriorated inner city areas. But many of them have slowly pushed their way out into the highly cultural and economic life of the city. There are some sections that can properly be known as 'little Italys' in which Protestant neighborhood projects render invaluable aid."

The next national group is 200,000 Bohemians, the directory points out. It adds that "a Protestant minister who has worked among these folk for many years speaks of them as being amazingly stoical in the face of acute privation."

Armenians, 2,000; Assyrians, 5,000; Bulgarians, 1,000; Chinese, 5,000; Filipinos, 5,500; Finns, 4,000; French, 15,000; Greeks, 26,000; Hungarians, 1,000; Jugo-Slavs, 16,000; Koreans, 150; Latvians, 2,260; Mexicans, three colonies of unstable numbers; Mohammedans, 6,000; Norwegians, 60,000; Persians, 6,000; Rumanians, 20,000; Russians, 169,836; Slovaks, 30,000, and Spanish, about six hundred.

Salvation Army Leader Starts for London Meeting

Commissioner William A. McIntyre, commander of the central states territory of the Salvation Army, left Chicago yesterday for London, England, to attend a meeting of the high council of the army on Aug. 23. The meeting was called by Gen. E. J. Higgins, international commander, to select his successor. Gen. Higgins expects to retire in November. Commissioner Henry William Mapp, chief of the staf in London, and Evangeline Booth, commander of the United States forces, have been mentioned for the office.

FIRST SKY TRAIN COMPLETES TRIP TO CAPITAL CITY

Cuts Loose Last Glider Near White House.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The first sky train came through today a bit behind schedule but after what Jack O'Meara, who arranged the flight, called a "perfectly successful" one despite that two days were consumed in switching off gliders between here and New York.

After a detail of park police, photographers, newspaper men, and a sizeable crowd of curious onlookers had waited several hours yesterday and today, the single motored biplane with its one remaining glider in tow appeared high up over the White House. It circled widely once and cut loose a mail-laden glider. O'Meara brought the glider to a smooth landing on the ellipse just south of the White House grounds after circling half a dozen times to reduce his momentum.

Runs Into Storm.

Forty minutes before, the plane piloted by Elwood Keim, had left Baltimore, where it had to refuel after dropping off glider No. 2 piloted by Stanley Smith, the 1933 glider champion. The nearly two hour flight to Baltimore was delayed when the sky train ran into a storm yesterday south of Philadelphia, where it had cut loose the first of the three trailing gliders, piloted by Dr. R. E. Franklin, glider designer and professor of aeronautics at the University of Michigan.

Each glider carried approximately 4,000 letters bearing special cachets but not officially recognized by the postoffice department. That is, the pilot of each glider had to take his sack of stamped but uncanceled mail to the postoffice where he landed and mail the philatelic packets. Had it been official mail, it would have borne New York postmarks, but the department ruled there was no law permitting it to authorize mail carrying by gliders.

Flight Called Success.

"The flight was a thorough success from every standpoint," said O'Meara as he chatted with Elias Lustig, president of the company that promoted the flight.

"Despite severe weather we encountered, we dropped off the gliders at the three stations as planned. That was the important thing, as that is what we had set out to do.

"I think sky trains really now have a place in aviation, and from now on I expect to do a lot of development work along that line."

The gliders were coupled tandem or train fashion, by steel cables fed through reels on the nose of each glider. The gliders were kept around 200 feet apart with the first one 450 feet from the tow plane. O'Meara estimated the gross weight of each glider at 550 pounds.

The plane tomorrow will pick up the three gliders for a return trip to Floyd Bennett field.

'ATTORNEY HELD IN SWINDLING OF LOAN CONCERNS

Accused of taking $530 through use of spurious board of education wage assignments, Attorney Arnold Davidson, 30 years old, with offices at 180 West Washington street, was arrested by the state's attorney's police yesterday. Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Doughery said he would file formal charges of forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses against Davidson when his investigation is completed.

The spurious assignments were discovered yesterday when the Mason Financial company tried to cash $282 in wage assignments at the office of the board of education. The assignment was made out in the name of James Fox, 2520 West 71st street, a fictitious person.

Davidson's arrest followed that of Leonard Miller, colored, 11265 Throop street. Miller was seized when he appeared at the Leonard Securities corporation, 33 North La Salle street, and attempted to obtain money on several other fake wage assignments. He implicated Davidson, whom he claimed to have met at a bookmaker's.

Assistant State's Attorney Frank Christensen said that Davidson had made a verbal confession but refused to sign a written statement.

U. S. PLANE DIVES INTO ALASKAN BAY; CREW SAFE

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 3.—(AP)—One of the ten huge United States army bombing planes which are conducting photographic operations in this district, dropped into the waters of Cook inlet today as both engines quit at an altitude of 1,000 feet. No one was injured.

The motors of the big ship failed shortly after the takeoff and the plane struck the water about 100 feet from shore. It drifted into the muddy beach, coming to rest with both wings, the engines and the cockpit submerged in the salty waters.

The crew of the bomber was taken off by a seaplane, piloted by Harold Sasseen, who was flying nearby. Although a rising tide threatened further damage to the plane, officers said it could be salvaged. The other nine bombers of the squadron continued work on the photographic survey being undertaken.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An item last Sunday reported that the police were seeking Albert Ytsma, 6455 111th street, for questioning in an accident Saturday at 7025 South Bishop street, in which the automobile of a hit and run driver struck and slightly injured six children. The Englewood police declared that an investigation has established Mr. Ytsma's innocense, and said apparently they had been given an incorrect license number by witnesses of the accident.

The death of Willis J. Burgess was mistakenly reported yesterday as that of Mrs. Burgess, his widow, who is executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. Funeral services were held for Mr. Burgess yesterday afternoon.

GETS SCHOLARSHIP

JOHN BYRNE CHAMBERLIN.

John Byrne Chamberlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, has been awarded a $1,400 Sterling fellowship in law by Yale university, trustees announced yesterday.

Chamberlin was graduated from Northwestern university law school in June with a J. D. degree and was one of seven to receive the Order of the Coif. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and a Rufus Choate scholar. He was graduated from Dartmouth college in 1931 with a B. A. degree. He already has been notified that he has passed the Illinois bar examination. He lives with his parents at 4418 North Paulina street. The elder Chamberlin is executive director of the Chicago crime commission.

PUSH BUTTONS TO GUIDE FRENCH FIGHTING PLANES

New Invention Bought by Air Ministry.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 3.—French inventors have perfected a stabilizing device for airplanes which makes landing and taking off almost automatic and paves the way for pilotless planes guided by radio beams, Le Matin announced tonight.

After more than a year of secret trials at Istres airfield, near Marseilles, the French air ministry has found the device successful. The ministry has purchased the patent and plans to install it at once on all important units of the nation's air fleet.

Has a Dialing System.

The invention is simply an extension of the principle of the gyroscope stabilizer. Its sensational feature is that all the plane's movements are determined by a dialing system, infinitely more precise than the steadiest human hand. The dialing system is activated by five electric push buttons—one for climbing, the others for diving, horizontal flight, right turn, and left turn. At the same time, due to the hookup of various stabilizing devices, oscillations of the plane in the air are reduced to one-tenth what they would be without stabilizers, according to Le Matin.

Stability is assured by a system of aerodynamic compensation pendulums acting on electric motors. Another gyroscope system governs maneuvering the plane. It is combined with the automatic takeoff control by an anemometer.

Through its greater stability the plane is much safer to land and take off than the ordinary plane. Added to this is the precision in maneuvering by being able to control all movements of the plane by simply pressing buttons connected with highly sensitive apparatus.

No Worry for Pilot.

Thus, according to the inventors' claims, whether one lands at low or high speed, the pilot does not have to worry about making a slip. Even a novice, they claim, could be taught to land and take off safely in a few hours. Because of its precision in maneuver and the fact that pressing buttons controls all of the plane's movement, it is believed the new system can easily be adapted to distant radio control.

French air experts expect that the new stabilizing system will revolutionize aviation, but for the moment interest is concentrated on the military advantage of having bombers, pursuit and observation planes equipped with a device which virtually eliminates pitch and roll as factors for error in gunfire or bombing.

The new device is the creation of four young inventors who had worked together on it for several years.

DUKE'S SON FLIES TO JOIN FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION

LONDON, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Lord Edward Montagu, second son of the duke of Manchester, flew to France today to join the French Foreign Legion, says the London Express.

In a telephone conversation from Dunkirk, France, where he will join Saturday, Montagu told the Express: "I know life will be very hard, but there's no going back now. I know exactly what I am in for."

The paper does not explain the reason for Lord Edward's adventurous decision. At the age of 20, eight years ago, he worked on a ranch in western Canada for a year.

Ex-Mate of Dorothy Devore Sues for Return of $100,000

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—A. Wylie Mather, wealthy importer, today filed suit in Superior court seeking the return of $100,000 in cash and property given his ex-wife, Dorothy Devore, movie actress, when they were divorced in August, 1933.

Wylie's complaint asserts the property settlement had been arranged by fraud because his wife concealed from him that she and Don Jacobson, his supposed friend, "had been indiscreet several times between Oct. 1932 and March 1933."

WARNEKE BEATS REDS, 5-4, FOR 15TH VICTORY

POWER, SPEED? ALL-STARS TO PROVIDE BOTH

Coach Must Make Choice Aug. 31.

BY DICK HANLEY.
[Northwestern Coach.]

If there is spice in variety, assuredly the college All-Star backs in their game against the Bears Aug. 31 at Soldiers' field should have plenty of pepper.

CLIFF MONTGOMERY.

Short backs, tall backs, speed backs, power backs, blocking backs, ball carrying backs — all are to be found in the personnel selected by the readers of THE TRIBUNE.

One of the most difficult problems that will confront whoever coaches the All-Star lineup will be that of selecting an efficient back field combination. There are nearly as many possible combinations as one of our learned bridge professors could fashion from a deck of cards.

What Would You Do?

I am wondering how our readers would combine these backs in workable units. Would you pick four men who are so-called ten-second men? If so, Sebastian at right half, Griffith at full back, Montgomery in the quarter back position, and Feathers at left half probably would qualify.

Are you a power advocate?

Then name McNeish at right half, a 200 pound blocker; Mikulak at the blocking quarter back job; Sauer, the triple threat full back, and Danowski or Griffith in the left half position.

Or, with Sauer's health still problematical, a power house trust could be formed of Laws, McNeish, Mikulak, and Hecker or Everhardus. If you advocate backs of the pony variety these are also bedded down in the All-Star stable. Pardonner, Laws, Montgomery, and Lukats would do all right.

These Are Defensive Stars.

For those defensively minded Masterson, Sauer, Mikulak, and Laws or Griffith would answer all questions pertaining to that phase of the game.

It is my opinion, however, that it will take more than a particular type of back field to combat the Bears successfully.

One of the most powerful sets of running backs that ever had been grouped together could do no better than a draw in their series with the Bears last year. I refer to those who galloped for the gold and glory of the dear old Boston Braves. Pinckert, ex-U. S. C., one of the truly great blockers of all time; Musick, also from Southern California, who, as a pile driving full back, very often outbronchoed Nagurski; Aspit, a former U. S. C. blocking quarter back, and Cliff Battles of West Virginia Wesleyan, the best runner, in my opinion, modern football has produced, made up this group. They could march up and down the field, piling up yardage totals that were almost as impressive as our unpaid tax bills. Yet they lacked just one all-important essential. They had no real forward passer.

With Harry and Benny, Ah!

Put Harry Newman or Benny Friedman with this array, and the professional championship would have been settled before the season had opened. The experience of the above group against the Bears is conclusive proof that a fine passer must be worked into the All-Star back field.

Blockers also must be worked into the combination, otherwise the offense will bog down.

A dependable kicker will be needed, for more than once in this game a long punt will help the All-Stars' cause. Everhardus and Danowski are the aces of this important department.

So, if you are crossword puzzle addicts, you can very easily spend a few sleepless nights doping the most efficient back field combination of the many that are possible in the All-Star ranks.

How Can Bears Stop Sauer When Major Operation Can't?

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—George Henry Sauer, University of Nebraska full back, one of the most popular choices in the nation-wide poll to select the personnel of the college all-star team that will play the Chicago Bears in Chicago on Aug. 31, would not miss the opportunity to perform in the impending football battle even if he had to hobble out on crutches.

Not long ago it was feared that an appendectomy would force Sauer to give up plans of being one of the principals in the plot to hand the national professional champions a beating. Fans of the country, although realizing he probably would not be physically able to participate, nevertheless continued to pay him tribute by piling up votes for him.

A short time after his operation Sauer went to his physician for a final examination. His side was mending perfectly and he was in fine physical condition, but would the doctor permit him to play football before the first of September, Sauer asked himself as he waited for his appointment.

Fans Share Jubilation.

His turn came. And his joy was unrestrained when he was informed that he could join the college all-stars. The fans of the country shared his jubilation.

Because of his exploits with the Nebraska eleven, which he capped by scoring both touchdowns for the west in the Shriners' game at San Francisco, Sauer was showered with offers to become a professional football player. His uncle, Ray Steele, the heavyweight wrestler, also thought there was a future for him in the mat game.

But Sauer wants to become a coach. He spurned all proposals and will remain at Nebraska next fall as an assistant to D. X. Bible. He also will be working for a master's degree.

Sauer was awarded the distinguished service medal by the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce last spring, indicative of the high regard in which he is held in the community, because Sauer has not only been outstanding as a football player but also as a student and citizen.

Halts Pug Rentner.

Sauer's first big college game was against Northwestern at Evanston in 1931, when the Wildcats walloped the Huskers, 19 to 7. Had it not been for Sauer's defensive work the score might have been 99 to 7. Pug Rentner was loose on several occasions, but Sauer managed to haul him down.

All through his collegiate days Sauer played his best football when the going was the toughest. Punting out of his own end zone when Oregon State was harassing a narrow Husker lead, George delivered a 70 yard kick which broke the hearts of the west coast eleven and the Huskers went on to win, 22 to 6.

Sauer can pass. Last season he delivered one after a fake end run that resulted in a touchdown and victory over Kansas. George started running hard to his right. The entire Jayhawk team ran over to stop him. He suddenly stopped and threw a long spiral to Bruce Kilbourne, Husker end, who ran unmolested to the goal line.

Makes Long Run.

George is 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 195 pounds, and has the long, sinewy muscles of the jungle cat. After his pile driving plunges carry him past the line of scrimmage he keeps his balance and is ready to set sail into the open spaces. His 28 yard run for the west's second touchdown against the east was off tackle.

If Sauer is in top shape on Aug. 31, and his doctor says he will be, he should provide some of the same gridiron fireworks for the Soldiers' field throng.

The Best There Is

That's what you will see when the 1933 College All-Americans line up against the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 31. The combined strength of the college game will be pitted against the champions of the National Professional league.

Tickets are on sale at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and the Hall of Science, at A Century of Progress Exposition. All seats are reserved.

Blues Defeat Whites, 11-8, in Polo Practice

Old Westbury, N. Y., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Three candidates for the east team, Stephen Sanford, Raymond Guest, and Stewart Inglehart, and one westerner, C. C. Crawford, playing together as a Blue quartet, defeated a White team composed of Harold Talbot, Michael Phipps, the two Earle Hoppings, father and son; Tom Mather, and Cecil Smith today. The high goal practice match, held on the Phipps estate, ended with the Blues leading, 11 to 8.

ARMOUR SHOOTS 142 TO LEAD IN CANADIAN OPEN

Chicagoan Three Strokes Ahead of Field.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Leo Diegel's game came completely apart today and cost him the lead in the second round of the Canadian open golf tournament. He has won the title four times.

TOMMY ARMOUR.

From the record breaking 65 of the first 18 yesterday, the Philadelphia professional tumbled to an 82 for a total of 147 strokes half way through the 72 hole medal play over the short par 70 Lakeview course.

Armour Takes Lead.

Tommy Armour of Chicago, who won the tournament in 1927 and 1930, inherited the lead with 69—73 for an aggregate of 142, chiefly on the basis of his opening day round, when he trailed only Diegel in brilliance. He shot a 73 today.

Herman Barron, New York pro, and Bill Mehlhorn of Louisville, both added 73s today to opening 72s and trailed three strokes behind the pace making Chicago Scot with aggregates of 145. The best round of the day, a 69, was shot by Jack Littler, Ottawa professional. Added to his 77 of yesterday, it lifted him to the 146 division with Fay Coleman of Culver City, Cal., and Harry Cooper of Chicago, both of whom shot 73s when par would have put them right on Armour's heels.

Hagen Still Off Game.

Walter Hagen again failed to hit his old stride and with a 79 added to his 77 start dropped back with an aggregate of 156. Gene Sarazen, former British and American open champion, came back to the 73 class today but his 80 on the opening day left him 11 strokes back of the leader with 153. Denny Shute of Philadelphia, 1933 British open titleholder, lost his fine touch and took 77 but his opening round of 71 kept him in the race with 148, six strokes back. Leading scores:

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

DR. ANDY LOTSHAW, trainer of the Cubs and a great medical researcher, says that he knows a baldheaded ball player who developed adenoids from being out in the sun. . . . A specialist sold him a $175 wig and the trouble cleared up right away, according to the solemn statement of Dr. Lotshaw. . . . There are two baldheaded players with the Boston Braves, Billy Urbanski and Al Spohrer. . . . Urbanski is a barber by trade, but has trouble peddling hair tonic. . . . George Huff, Illinois athletic director, is motoring east. . . . Frank Troeh, Portland, Ore., trapshooter, has an average of 92.70 for 100,000 targets, a mark that probably will stand for many years. . . . William M. Walker, president of the Cubs, has been in the seafood business for 40 years. . . . He says he can look any fish straight in the eye and tell how many hours it has been away from its watery home. . . . Beattie Feathers, Tennessee's All-American half back who will play with the college all-stars against the Bears Aug. 31, will motor to Chicago this week-end. . . . He has been playing ball at Pennington Gap, Va. . . . Feathers wants to take in the Fair before the start of practice at Dyche stadium Aug. 15. . . .

Ky Laffoon, Denver professional who has been near the top of nearly every important golf meet this season, is expected to sign with a Chicago club for next year. . . . Walter Mails, former Cleveland pitcher, and Rudy Kallio, a good pitcher but a notoriously weak hitter, engaged in some lively repartee in a recent Coast league game. . . . Rudy was up with the bases full. . . . As Mails prepared to send over the first pitch he yelled to Kallio: "If they were all hitters like you I would still be in the big leagues." . . . To which Kallio replied: "If they were all hitters like me there wouldn't be any big leagues." . . . This got Mails to laughing and it so unsettled him he gave Kallio a walk. . . . Pete McCoy, who traveled for several years with John L. Sullivan's road show, is given credit for inventing the inflated punching bag, which now is standard equipment in gymnasiums. . . . It is said McCoy got the idea from kicking a football during an idle moment while Sullivan was training in Mississippi to fight Paddy Ryan for the title. . . .

Notre Dame has played Texas, its opening opponent this year, twice in the past, winning 30 to 7 in 1913 and 36 to 7 in 1915. . . . The 1915 game was tied, 7 to 7, at the half and the Irish were sweltering under a Texas sun. . . . Back field men were pleading with the quarter back not to call their number. . . . A norther came up during the intermission, however, and Notre Dame went on to win easily. . . . Clyde Littlefield, who coached at Texas last year, was a star half back with the Longhorns in those days. . . . Craig Ruby, Illinois basketball coach, spent his youth on an Iowa farm. . . . Bob Perretz, varsity guard on the University of Chicago eleven, is spending the summer as a playground instructor in South Chicago. . . .

Fifteen years ago the White Sox were securely perched at the top of the American league and Cincinnati was fighting it out with New York for leadership of the National league. . . . And look at 'em now! . . . Pat Malone of the Cubs is a fan for good pitchers and shows no professional jealousy in singing their praises. . . . He knows their records as far back as ten years. . . . His latest enthusiasm is over Big Jim Weaver's fork ball. . . . Tarzan Taylor, Marquette's "hard boiled" line coach, has to use a handkerchief to brush away the tears when he sees sentimental movies. . . . Tom Nash, All-American end with Georgia in 1927 and later a star in the National Professional league with Green Bay and New York, is playing baseball with San Antonio. . . . Two other former National league football players, Pid Purdy and Larry Bettencourt, are with the same club. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—The Detroit Tigers regained first place by defeating the Yankees, 5 to 2. . . . Bud Taylor arrived in Chicago to start training for his ten round bout with Pete Sarmiento. . . . Norman Ross' world record for the 1,000 yard swim was broken by Arne Borg, Swedish Olympic star. . . . Minnie De Vry of the I. A. C. won the second annual Lake Michigan swim marathon.

POTTS, SUTTER REACH FINALS IN WESTERN TENNIS

Delafield, Wis., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Turning back Don Leavens of Milwaukee, Wisconsin's No. 1 junior tennis star, Ramsey Potts of Memphis today won his way to the finals of the junior singles division of the western junior and boys tennis meet. The scores were 6-3, 9-7.

Potts' opponent in the finals tomorrow morning will be Ernie Sutter of New Orleans, with whom Potts today captured the junior doubles title. Sutter, brother of Cliff Sutter, beat Larry Nelson of Los Angeles in the semi-finals, 6-1, 6-2.

In annexing the doubles title, Sutter and Potts defeated Elgar Weller of Austin and George Dullnig, San Antonio, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

Two New Yorkers, Bob Lowe and Henry Daniels, won the boys' doubles title today by conquering Joe Hunt of Los Angeles and Art Neilsen of Winnetka, 4-6, 6-0, 6-4. Hunt will oppose Lowe tomorrow for the boys' singles crown.

In their semi-final singles matches today Hunt turned back Nielsen, 6-3, 6-0, and Lowe beat Daniels, 7-5, 6-2.

JACK DEMPSEY NERVOUS AS ANY EXPECTANT DAD

New York, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey shadow boxed with all the stock bogies of the expectant father as he paced nervously in an anteroom of Polyclinic hospital tonight, while waiting for his first child to be born.

The ex-heavyweight champion took his wife, the former Hannah Williams of the musical comedies, to the institution at noon.

Dempsey reiterated his oft expressed hope that the child would be a boy, so he could match him with Gene Tunney's youngster. Mrs. Dempsey hoped for twins, but was willing to compromise.

ILLINOIS LIMITS DUCK HUNTERS TO TWO DAYS A WEEK

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Only two days a week will be allowed Illinois hunters of ducks and other migratory birds for the season opening Oct. 6. This was announced today by C. F. Thompson, state director of conservation, who said that the open season, restricted to 30 days by federal law, will consist of Saturdays and Sundays. He added that his recommendation will be accepted by the federal biological survey.

The season will begin Oct. 6 and 7 and continue for fifteen week-ends. In 1933 the season was open for 60 days, but government regulations have been made mose stringent this year.

ROWE WINS 11TH IN ROW; DEFEATS WHITE SOX, 14-0

Allows Only One Hit in Seven Innings.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 3.—The talented 22 year old Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe caused the White Sox no end of annoyance here today before 10,000 paid customers and half that many ladies' day guests. The schoolboy not only held the Chicagoans to one hit in seven innings, but he employed his bat with deadly effect in a murderous assault that lifted the league leading Tigers to a laugh provoking 14 to 0 victory. It was Rowe's eleventh straight triumph and his fifteenth of the season against four defeats.

LYNWOOD ROWE.

The cause of Rowe's retirement before the finish was Jim Dykes. After two were out in the seventh the Sox boss slipped a single past Charley Gehringer for the Sox's first and last hit. With a big margin in his favor and the honor of a no hit performance gone, Rowe willingly walked out of the picture to save himself. The change, however, didn't arouse the Sox from their state of feebleness. They did nothing to Vic Sorrell in the two remaining innings except get a man as far as third base for the first time.

Only Five Sox on Base.

The sum of the Sox's attack against Rowe was five men on base. He walked Dykes with two out in the second. He walked Bonura with two gone in the fourth, after which Gehringer's brilliant fielding robbed Appling of what started as a hit. The next man to survive was Swanson, who profited by an error in the sixth. Then Dykes broke the no hit dream in the seventh, and his single was followed by a pass to Boken, thereby shoving a Chicagoan to second for the first time. Their feat of getting a man to third on Sorrell in the ninth was due to a pass and an error.

Part of the day's tragedy was the veteran Milt Gaston. He was rocking on his heels as early as the first inning when four scored, three due to a home run by Hank Greenberg. They bumped him again in the second and fourth, and in the fifth the inevitable happened. The Sox defense, part of which was Uhlir, the Chicago semi-pro, crumpled. Gaston wilted under the series of dizzy happenings and before Call-Me-Slim Kinzy could end the orgy six Tigers planted their spikes on the plate. The six runs, of course, were superfluous, but the Tigers could hardly avoid scoring them.

The Mad March Is On.

There was a rush of business as soon as the Tiger leadoff man had been retired in the first inning. Cochrane singled to center. Goslin did the same, putting Cochrane on third. The manager scored when Gehringer forced Goslin on what the Sox thought was a double play. Umpire Donnelly thought otherwise. Rogell survived on a pass, whereupon the ungainly Greenberg drove the ball over the left field screen for a home run.

The second inning started in a troublesome fashion when Fox caromed a single off Dykes' glove. Rowe lined a single to center. White bunted with intentions of sacrificing for the cause, but Gaston, with an easy force play possible at third, let the ball bounce over his glove for a single. This filled the bases. Fox scored while White was being forced on Cochrane's tap to Boken. Goslin also bounced into a forceout at second, and this gave Rowe a chance to score the sixth Tiger run. Gaston then closed the inning in a burst of glory. He fanned Gehringer.

Errors, Hits, and Runs.

Rogell opened the third with a single to left, but this didn't prevent Gaston from turning out his first scoreless inning. He couldn't make it two in a row, however. In the fourth the Tigers nailed him for another run, the factors therein being two singles. White scratched a single to Bonura.

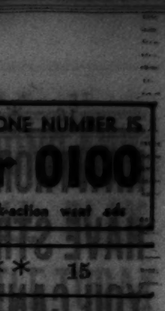
LON HAMMERED FOR TYING RUNS BEFORE HE WINS

Malone Leaves with Cubs Ahead, 4-2.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday celebrated the second anniversary of Charley Grimm's appointment as manager by staggering to a 5 to 4 victory over the stubborn Cincinnati Reds in the opener of the series.



LON WARNEKE.

Through one of the quirks of the scoring rules Lon Warneke, in a so-called relief rôle, was credited with his fifteenth victory of the season, the award coming by virtue of his inability to hold a 4 to 2 lead that had stood in favor of Pat Malone when Lon entered the panorama. It may be said for Shufflin' Lon, however, that he scored the winning run after walking to start the eighth inning.

No Runs Until Seventh.

All the nine runs of the contest were scored in the seventh and eighth innings. The Reds broke their goose egg chain with a burst of business after two were out in the seventh to assume a 2 to 0 lead. In their half the Cubs made four runs by virtue of some swell hitting by Tubby Phelps, Billy Herman, Ki Cuyler, and Grimm, combined with a bit of luck and a slight bogging down of the tailenders' infield.

This pleasing burst of power was reminiscent of the technique of the team after Grimm took it over two years ago. That team could come from behind in the late innings, something that the current vintage has not been able to do more than once or twice this year, if memory serves.

The 31,000 fans voiced ahs of satisfaction when Warneke took over the pitching job after Malone had yielded to Pinch Hitter Phelps in the seventh. There was a lad who could protect a 4 to 2 lead, it seemed. But Bottomley, Hafey, Pool, and Comorosky pushed Lon around to tie the score in a hurry.

Stainback's Work Sparkles.

Benny Frey, fourth Red pitcher, came on the scene in the eighth and had little. Two walks and a single by Tuck Stainback, a brilliant fielding star in the game, enabled Warneke to score the winning run.

The Cubs remain three games behind the Giants, who also won. And since yesterday's contest was an anniversary game, it may be well to mention that the team Grimm took over two years ago was 6½ games out of first place, but had gone into the lead by a half game on Aug. 11. They went on, as you perhaps remember, to win the pennant.

A double and a single weren't enough to net the Cubs a run in the first inning. Billy Herman opened the game with a double to center but forgot that Hafey was playing the middle field and tried to make it a triple. He was an easy out at third. English was called out on strikes. Then Stainback lined a single to left, but Babe Herman fouled to Bottomley.

Get Men on Bases.

Hack led off the Cub third with a single and got to second on Malone's sacrifice. After Billy Herman had flied to Comorosky, English walked. Stainback lined to Hafey.

The Cubs had prospects for a little while in the fourth when Babe Herman led off with a single and went to second on Cuyler's sacrifice. But Babe was caught trying to steal third. Hartnett walked. Then Grimm popped to Slade.

In the fifth Malone had to exert himself to the utmost in order to wade to safety. Lombardi opened with a single to left and went to third on

HAWTHORNE MAY HAVE STRIKE, BUT YOU CAN'T SEE IT

Betting Goes On Without Any Interference.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There may be a strike of mutuel clerks going on at Hawthorne race track, but the 7,000 spectators who were trying to pick winners yesterday apparently knew nothing about it.

They wagered approximately $200,000 through windows that were completely manned by ticket sellers and cashiers. A great many of the persons must have been picking winners, for as the program advanced toward the final races the wagering increased in volume.

After Sam Luzzo, head of the race track employés union, Local 620, had indicated yesterday that bartenders, waiters, and waitresses also may be asked to strike, the Hawthorne association last night was prepared to send a representative before the Illinois racing commission who will ask that all the persons endeavoring to impede the progress of the Hawthorne race meeting be ruled off the turf.

Sabath May Make Appeal.

It was reported that Albert Sabath, president of the Hawthorne track, will make the appeal to the commission.

In the past one stroke of the pen by the turf rulers of the country would bar millionaires, trainers, jocky idols or a scalawag from the race tracks.

The race track officials declare they cannot recognize the union because it is attempting to name the men who handle $200,000 and upwards the mutuel clerks take in and pay out every day. The union is demanding the employment of Chicagoans exclusively.

Await Meeting Sunday.

Luzzo, president of the Hod Carriers' union, who is reported to be the organizer of the race track union, announced yesterday that official action on the calling of a sympathy strike awaits a meeting of the Federation of Labor tomorrow. Luzzo said his delegates will ask the support of the other unions employed at the track.

Although the union claimed its members had been eliminated from the working list at Hawthorne, it was reported that a number of them answered the roll call of mutuel clerks and worked yesterday.

The labor situation did not prevent a half dozen 2 year olds from running their hearts out in the Ellerslie handicap, which was the feature race on the program.

Roman Soldier Wins.

Roman Soldier, owned by Max Hirsch of New York, was the winner after he ran the 5½ furlongs in 1:05 4-5. This was within three-fifths of a second of the track record held by Surf Rider and established nearly ten years ago.

Roman Soldier wheeled into the stretch in next to last position, but showed all sorts of stretch running ability to dash on past his rivals and win by three lengths. Bye Lo, after racing last most of the way, also moved up with a rush and finished second. Dancing Doll from Audley farm stable in Virginia was third. Countess Bina, Blue Armor, and Chief Cherokee were with the rear guard.

Roman Soldier paid $9.48. He promises to be one of the best juveniles in the Chicago district.

SMITTY—PIGS IS PIGS

Parrish Pair Choice Today in Schank Race

Twelve were named overnight for the running of the John Schank Memorial handicap at a mile and a sixteenth, which is to feature the racing program at Hawthorne this afternoon.

The entry of New Deal and Howard, which will carry the silks of J. W. Parrish, banker of Midway, Ky., was installed as the favorite at 5 to 2.

Marmion, Gallant Mac, Bien Fait, Pot au Brooms, and Chartres were others in the field which came in for support.

Wacoche, a son of High Cloud-Honey Girl, which the Corsicana stable of Texas claimed a few days ago from Audley Farm, added insult to injury when he trimmed the Audley Farm stable's Bright Shadow by a head in the Brookfield purse. Wacoche was at nearly 4 to 1 in the betting.

The short priced favorite — Black River, owned by John Marsch of Chicago—went down into a disgraceful defeat in the first race at Hawthorne yesterday. He was the fifth straight favorite to be beaten in a Hawthorne first race. White Ginger, owned by Audley Farm stable, turned up as the winner at odds of 14 to 1.

Chicago owned horses were unable to account for a race all afternoon. Ald. Coughlin's Official was stoutly backed in the first race, the Nash Brothers' Grand Prince was made the medium of a plunge in the second, and William Schmidt's Well Heeled, L. M. Severson's Spicson, and Albert Sabath's Bert Lahr were others which failed to get the nod of the judges.

The horses are reported to have done so well by George Jessel within the last three weeks that he is seriously considering the purchase of several performers which will race in his silks.

Jim Owenby, one of the veterans in American racing, made a stake yesterday when he parlayed Polly's Folly, Jesting, and Marcella H.

NEW VAULTER ADDED TO U. S. TRACK SQUAD

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The all-star American track and field team, which will compete this summer in Japan, was completed today with the substitution of Wirt Thompson, Yale pole vaulter, for Bill Graber of Southern California by the Amateur Athletic union.

Thompson accepted an invitation after Graber and Keith Brown of Yale were unable to make the trip. All three tied for the national A. A. U. championship at Milwaukee. Thompson's best mark is 14 feet 1½ inches.

Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, Charles Hornbostel of Indiana, Howard Green of Abilene college [Texas], and Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, already are en route to the orient. Others, including Coach Johnny Magee of Bowdoin college, are booked to sail Aug. 16 from San Francisco.

The athletic party includes Frank Crowley of Manhattan, Phil Good of Bowdoin, Bob Clark of the University of California, Dudley Wilkins of Southwestern [La.] institute, Bob Jones of the Olympic club of San Francisco, Gordon Dunn of Stanford, Donald Favor of Maine, and Walter Marty of Fresno [Cal.] State.

CHICAGO BIKE RIDER LEADS IN ROLLER RACING

Exceptionally fast times have been made by entrants in the preliminaries of the national amateur bicycle roller racing meet being held four nights each week in the exhibit of the Cycle Trades of America in the Travel and Transport building at A Century of Progress.

Thirty-eight representatives of five of Chicago cycle clubs have competed and 62 more will participate in preliminary heats. The best time has been set by Andy Engelhardt of the Danish-American club, who completed the five miles in seven minutes to average slightly more than 43 miles per hour.

Two members of the Catholic Youth organization are close behind. Frank Earhardt and Leo Ligman each has been clocked in 7:10. Semi-finals start on Aug. 10.

Drawings for the semi-finals will be held after the last race on Aug. 8. Consolation events will be contested Thursday, Aug. 9, and the three making the best time in these races will advance to the semi-finals.

YALE FOOTBALL TEAM TO TRAIN IN CREW QUARTERS

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Yale's football team will train from Sept. 15 to 22 at the university's crew quarters at Gales Ferry, the athletic association announced tonight. Those in charge said they hoped the "new experiment would not prove ill-advised." The football training in recent years has been conducted at the university headquarters in this city.

The association announcement read that the players, 72 in all, headed by Capt. Clare Curtin and under the direction of Raymond W. [Ducky] Pond, new head coach, will return to New Haven Sept. 23 for the opening of the university the following day.

In recent years there has been considerable agitation over the lateness of Yale in beginning training, the inference being that the squad enters its opening games in inferior condition. While the training season will begin as in the past, the shift of the training quarters to a spot which has proved ideal for conditioning the crew, is expected to satisfy Yale men.

China to Enter Team in 1936 Olympic Games

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NANKING, China, Aug. 3.—China will be represented in the 1936 Olympiad at Berlin and also in next year's Davis cup competition as a result of a vote taken today by the National Amateur Athletic federation. China also will hold the far east Olympic games in 1938.

Woronick to Wrestle at Marigold Wednesday

Julius Woronick will return to the Marigold Gardens Wednesday night to wrestle in the windup match. Promoter Fred Kohler is seeking an opponent for him. Kohler would like to secure Stan Buresch, Australian light heavyweight, to meet Woronick. He now is dickering with the manager of Buresch for the Australian's services. Jack Kennedy also will be on the card. There will be four bouts, with the windup carded as a best two out of three falls event.

WHITE GINGER, lucky to secure ample room in early stages and under strong urging after reaching last three-eighths, began to improve his position fast entering the stretch; and was up in closing strides. WHERE AWAY had good speed from the start, came away under pressure in stretch, and weakened near end. ROSS, a strong factor from the start, held on gamely.

PRYOR, rushed to lead on inside, was steadied around the turn, and, holding on well, withstood BONNIE MARITA'S bid. Latter, away fast but unable to keep up, came to outside entering stretch, and, continuing determinedly after making up much ground, was weaving down the winner. RED WHISK, under strong riding after a quarter, held on fairly well.

POLLY'S FOLLY, close up from the start and forced to race wide much of the trip, slowly disposed of leaders and just lasted. VALDOSTA, brought to outside after saving ground on the turn, closed strong and barely missed. WELL HEELED forced the pace under light restraint, held on well, and but for bleeding might have won.

ROMAN SOLDIER, in close quarters soon after the start and never far back, was unable to save much ground on the turn, came through between CHIEF CHEROKEE and COUNTESS BINA in the stretch, and was mildly ridden out. BYE LO, near middle of track throughout, closed well in a fine performance. DANCING DOLL, away slowly, was forced wide by COUNTESS BINA entering stretch, and faltered slightly in late stages.

JESTING took command quickly, sustained her speed courageously and withstanding FANFERN'S bid, came away in final eighth. Latter, under steady restraint for three-quarters, could not get to winner and weakened badly in last sixteenth, which aided winner in drawing out. NOAH'S PRIDE, forced to lose some ground, held on gamely in an even effort.

HUBBELL STOPS PHILS AS GIANTS TRIUMPH, 2 TO 0

Vergez's Homer Accounts for Victory.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Carl Hubbell continued the stretch of shutout pitching which followed his recent slump and the Giants beat the Phillies, 2 to 0. Hubbell yielded six hits as he registered his second straight shutout over the Phils. The feat gave him a record of 22 consecutive scoreless innings. Johnny Vergez drove a home run into the left field bleachers just after Travis Jackson beat out a bunt in the fourth inning to account for the day's scoring.

Berwyn Wins First Game of Legion Series

Danville, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Meyers Schuckman pitched Berwyn to a 6 to 0 victory over Gillespie today in the opening game of the state junior American Legion baseball series.

Berwyn scored two runs in the first inning with the aid of two hits and three errors. Paul, safe on Mors' error, ran home when Grnacek's single went past Machalic. Grnacek was out, Michalic to Cheperak, trying to reach third on the play. The second run was scored by Mallattia, who singled to right, stole second, went to third on a wild throw by De Stephenia and came home on Hapais' fly to left.

When Center Fielder Rauker dropped Paul's fly with Torkelson on second, the Berwyn nine picked up another run in the second inning. Berwyn added two more tallies in the fourth without a hit. Vicha was safe on Dominetto's fumble and Torkelson, attempting to sacrifice, was safe on Benton's wild throw. Both runners scored on Mors' throw into left field. Schuchman's single in the eighth sent Hapac home with the last run.

Another game will be played tomorrow and if Berwyn wins the series will end.

MOON MULLINS—A VACANCY IN THE HEAD

Yanks Defeat A's, 5-1; Gehrig Hits 2 Homers

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig did a mighty job of hitting today and Johnny Allen pitched with effectiveness to give the Yankees a 5 to 1 victory over the athletics. Gehrig hit his 34th and 35th home runs of the season, passing Jimmy Foxx for the major league home run leadership. He also connected for a single, giving him seven straight hits in the last two days, and drove in four runs.

Allen held the Athletics to seven hits and struck out 12 before he was forced to retire with two out in the ninth because of an injured pitching arm.

INDIANS, 6; BROWNS, 4.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Ending a three game losing streak, the Cleveland Indians beat the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 4, today to keep in the fight for the American league pennant. Monte Pearson, who went the route for Cleveland, yielded six hits. Three were bunched in the seventh inning and, combined with a walk, were good for three runs. The Indians made eight of their ten hits off George Blaeholder, who was charged with the defeat.

MACK DENIES HE WILL SELL FOXX TO DETROIT CLUB

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, laughed tonight at rumors that he was about to sell Jimmy Foxx, his great first baseman, to the Detroit Tigers, or that he had had recent arguments with the home run star.

"There is absolutely nothing to it," he said with a chuckle. "You mustn't worry about such rumors. You'll be hearing them for the next twelve months, anyway, probably until 1936; but it's a safe bet that even then Jimmy Foxx still will be with my ball club."

Foxx, who was represented as eager to be traded to the Tigers, who are locked in a tight battle with the Yankees for the American league pennant, was spending the evening with his wife at a theater.

Mack, who last winter sold his star catcher, Mickey Cochrane, to Detroit, where he now is managing the Tigers, as well as Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg, and Max Bishop to the Red Sox, and George Earnshaw to the White Sox, has said repeatedly that he won't dispose of Foxx.

"I haven't changed my mind at all," he said tonight; "there's absolutely no reason for such rumors. I'm not selling any more players, and Foxx last of all. We have had no arguments of any kind."

Edward T. Lawless shot 64 to win the Chicago Hotel Men's Golf association tournament at the Evanston Country club yesterday. Norman J. Fellman was second, carding 70.

Jones to Face Marberry for White Sox Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 3.—Sad Sam Jones will try to put a crimp in the Tigers' pennant ambitions tomorrow in the second game of the series. The White Sox veteran probably will be opposed by Fred Marberry. Jones will be shooting for his ninth triumph.

Al Simmons blames himself for the loss of yesterday's final at St. Louis. The superstitious Duke went to the bull pen bench when the game started and the Sox scored 2 in the first inning, so he couldn't leave. Finally, when two were out and none on in the ninth he decided it was safe to abandon his vigil. He went to the bench and when the first of three Brownies hit safely he dashed back to the bull pen. But it was too late.

Marty Hopkins came up with an attack of stomach cramps just before game time today. It prevented him from appearing at third where he has been doing an excellent defensive job. Manager Dykes took over the vacancy.

Simmons' right thumb, which he injured sliding home on his hand in last Monday's game at St. Louis, is gradually returning to normal. He thinks he might be able to play tomorrow or Sunday.

after Rowe had lined to Dykes. White took second on Cochrane's infield out and scored on Goslin's single to center. A pass to Gehringer was next, but Gaston delayed additional torment by inducing Rogell to pop to Appling.

The panic created by the Tigers in the fifth, when six scored, got under way with a double to right by Greenberg. Boken helped it along by booting Owen's grounder. Fox popped out, but Rowe bounced a double off the left field wall to score Greenberg and Owen. White lined to left, but Uhlir dropped the ball and it was recorded as a hit. Gaston let go a wild pitch that moved Rowe to third and White to second. Both scored on a single by Cochrane, which also marked the departure of Gaston.

Kinzy Comes Forth.

Kinzy stepped into the center of activity and Goslin aimed one straight at Appling, but the ball took an unexpected pop over the shortstop's head for a double. Cochrane halting at third. Boken promptly made his second noteworthy contribution of the inning. He permitted Gehringer's roller to trickle through his hands and it wasn't captured until after Cochrane and Goslin had scored. Rogell then walked, Greenberg filed to Conlan and Owen walked, but with the bases filled Dykes tossed out Fox.

After Dykes' single in the seventh had given the Sox something with which to prove they were present, the Tigers made another run in their half. Kinzy walked Gehringer, who went the rest of the way on Rogell's double to the score board in left.

Warneke Gets 15th Victory as Cubs Win

Comorosky's single through the box. After two failures to bunt, Johnson fanned. Kampouris also fanned on three pitched balls. Then Slade forced Comorosky on a play involving a nice pickup by English.

More Chances Wasted.

The Cubs had two men on with one out in their half of the fifth, but failed to score. Hack again led off with a single to left, paused while Malone fouled to Piet, and moved up when Billy Herman was hit by a pitched ball. English then flied to Comorosky and Stainback popped to Slade.

In the sixth the Cubs again allowed two runners to perish on base. Cuyler and Grimm were base runners as a result of walks, but Hack ended the inning by forcing Grimm.

The Reds got to Malone after two were out in the seventh. Lombardi had flied to Stainback and Comorosky had popped to Hack. Johnson singled and Kampouris doubled. Both scored on Slade's single to left. Slade stole second, but the inning ended with Piet's foul to Grimm.

Phelps Starts Rally.

And here is the way the Cubs made merry in their end of the seventh: Phelps batted for Malone and doubled to left, Billy Herman singled to center, and Phelps, thinking there might be a catch, was obliged to stop at third. English shot a hot grounder to Kampouris, who came up with the ball in swell shape, but Slade was so eager to complete a double play that he failed in the little detail of touching second base. Slade also shied at Billy Herman's spikes and was late with his throw to first. The result was that Phelps was home with the first Cub score of the game.

Billy Herman and English moved up on Stainback's sacrifice. Babe Herman grounded to Kampouris and Billy Herman beat the throw to the plate. Cuyler singled to center, scoring English and putting Babe Herman on third. Hartnett popped to Piet, but Grimm singled to right, scoring Babe Herman and putting Cuyler on third. Hurst ran for Grimm, but the inning ended when Kampouris threw out Hack.

Tie Score Against Warneke.

When Warneke undertook to pitch in the eighth Malone stood as the winning pitcher, but this status did not survive the inning. Bottomley immediately slammed a single to right and stopped at second when Hafey lined a single to left. The pair moved up on Pool's sacrifice. Then Lombardi fanned. Comorosky singled to center, sending Bottomley and Hafey home with the tying runs. Koenig batted for Stout and popped to English.

Frey walked Warneke to start the eighth and Lon went to second on Billy Herman's sacrifice. English also walked. Stainback singled to left, Warneke scoring and English stopping at second. Babe Herman hit into a double play.

Stainback made his third fine catch of the game to ket Kampouris' drive at the start of the ninth. Slade walked. Then Piet popped to Hartnett and Bottomley fanned.

REGGIE RICHTER, ONCE PITCHER FOR CUBS, DIES

Emil H. [Reggie] Richter, Cub pitcher in the days of Frank Chance, died yesterday at his home, 548 West 61st place. A product of Chicago's prairie baseball, Richter first attracted the attention of a White Sox scout, who gave him his first trial in the major leagues.

The Cubs next picked him up and Frank Chance declared he had "a million dollar arm," but needed experience. After two seasons, Richter was sent to Louisville and later to Montreal where he was developing into an outstanding pitcher when he was hurt by a fast pitch.

He returned to Chicago when doctors informed him his professional baseball days were over and obtained a clerical position at the Western Electric company, Hawthorne works. In 1913, despite his injury, he pitched Western Electric to a Commercial league championship.

Richter was born in Dusseldorf, Germany, Sept. 14, 1889, but he was educated in Chicago schools.

EASTERN GIRLS WIN MAIDSTONE TENNIS MATCHES

Easthampton, N. Y., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Two eastern girls, Katherine Winthrop, Boston, and Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn., turned in surprising victories over two western stars today to gain the final round of the ninth annual Maidstone club invitational tennis tournament.

Playing excellent tennis in all departments, the Boston girl eliminated Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, the country's sixth ranked player, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, in one semi-final. Mrs. Andrus staged a late rally to defeat Mrs. Mary Greef Harris, Kansas City, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5.

The final match will be played tomorrow afternoon, along with the women's doubles final.

Bush Assigned to Pitch Today Against Reds

Guy Bush, who hasn't won a ball game for the Cubs since he rang up No. 11 in Boston on July 11, will pitch against the Reds this afternoon. He probably will be opposed by Tony Freitas, tiny lefty who stood the Cubs on their heads in Cincinnati last Sunday.

About 31,000, including the full quota of 20,000 women guests, attended yesterday's contest.

Alex Kampouris, who made his first major league start in yesterday's game as the Reds' second baseman, is said to be the only Greek in organized baseball. He was purchased from the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league.

President William Walker of the Cubs yesterday called on Chuck Klein at the Illinois Masonic hospital. Mr. Walker quotes Klein as saying: "If you want to keep me in this bed you better tell the boys to sweep the series with the Reds."

It was indicated yesterday that the signing of Bob O'Farrell as second string catcher of the Cubs is a matter of hours. Bob worked out with the team again yesterday. If O'Farrell signs, Babe Phelps probably will be farmed to a team in the International league.

Today is Father and Sons day.

Sopwith Lands to Race for America's Cup

New York, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The greatest threat against the continued stay in this country of the America's cup in its eighty-odd years of life arrived in this port today aboard the Cunarder Aquitania, in the person of Thomas Octave Murdoch Sopwith, owner and skipper of the challenger Endeavour.

The J sloop to be raced by Mr. Sopwith is more than half way across the Atlantic, and if conditions continue favorable will put into Newport next Monday or Tuesday.

There can be no doubting the seriousness of the attack on the most prized trophy in the world of sport after seeing the man behind it. T. O. M. Sopwith is here to win—fairly, squarely, and honorably, but to win. He was, aboard the Aquitania today, unwilling to make any predictions.

Sopwith Discusses Strike.

Ship news reporters asked Mr. Sopwith about the strike on Endeavour, when the professional crew demanded an increase in pay.

"Yes, we had a slight misunderstanding with our professional crew," he admitted. "I named what I considered fair terms and told the crew to sleep on the matter overnight, and that then those who thought the offer fair could give me their names. Ten, including the officers, did so. The others refused.

"So I went to the man I thought best fitted to help me, Commodore Mitchell of the Royal Corinthian Yacht club, and got his advice. Within three days I had more than 700 applications from amateurs for places in my crew. All but two of those accepted were Englishmen. Of the others one is an American, Beecher Moore.

Crew Is Enthusiastic.

"The other non-Englishman is Dutch. All of these men are experienced in ocean racing and I shouldn't be surprised if they prove better than the professionals they replaced.

"They are a very enthusiastic lot, between 22 and 30 years old, and I think that in a month's sailing they can be shaken together into a fine team. Certainly we are as good now in that respect as at the beginning of the season."

The more technically minded of the experts present then turned to the famous new double clewed jib.

"I don't know just how good it is," he said. "I used it until the last race in England, when I went back to the No. 1 jib, and we seemed to do about as well. It is a tricky sail, and I believe it can be used to advantage under certain weather conditions."

GEHRIG GAINS FIVE POINTS IN BIG SIX STANDING

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

For the second straight day Lou Gehrig set a pace the other big six sluggers couldn't follow when he hit two home runs, his 34th and 35th, and a single in three times at bat yesterday. This continuation of his streak sent his average up five more points to .378, while all the other members, except the idle Heinie Manush, lost ground. Charley Gehringer dropped two points, failing to connect in three attempts, while Paul Waner, Bill Terry, and Ethan Allen lost one point each. Allen dropped into a tie with Joe Moore of the Giants for last place, adding a seventh man to the list.

Lincolnshire to Hold Annual Dawn to Dusk Tourney Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Lincolnshire today will hold its eighth annual Dawn to Dusk event, one of the largest invitational tournaments in the Chicago district, with a field of 600 expected to compete over the Crete club's three courses. Prizes will be awarded for 18 and 36 holes, low gross and low net, as well as for foursomes, according to Joe Holmes, chairman of the golf committee, and Joe Noonan, club professional.

Carl Gustafson, tall, blonde professional who is George Knox's assistant at Calumet, yesterday shot 66, six under par, to set a new course record for the south side club. Playing with his sister Elizabeth and Knox, Carl clipped a stroke off the old record of 67, set a few years ago by Russell Martin, Flossmoor. The card follows:

CHINESE REBELS ADVANCE ON CITY ALONG COAST

U. S. Sends Gunboat to Guard Americans.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 4.—[Saturday.]—Chinese authorities here declare the situation in Foochow is not serious, but evince anxiety over the action of the Japanese in dispatching the 6,000 ton cruiser Kuma and five destroyers to the coast of Fukien province as a result of the approach of a bandit army. They claim that the actual Japanese population and commercial interests are small. Nevertheless, the Chinese allege that in recent months large numbers of Japanese and Formosan subjects, who emigrated to the Fukien coast recently, have caused considerable complications to Chinese officials.

The United States gunboat, Sacramento, commanded by Commander F. A. Braisted and nine other officers, together with 150 sailors and 30 marines under the command of Lieut. R. W. Hayward, was scheduled to arrive at the Pagoda Island anchorage at the mouth of the Min river early today for the purpose of protecting Americans.

Rebels Fight to Reach Coast.

According to reports to Chinese military authorities here, between 2,000 and 5,000 rebels, who suddenly appeared in the neighborhood of Foochow, are making a desperate attempt to reach the coast in order to obtain supplies of rice and salt, which are unavailable in Kiangsi province due to the "iron cordon" of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, virtual dictator of China. The rebels consist of two groups commanded by the notorious bandit leader Lo Ping-hui, for whom the government has offered a large reward.

According to Gen. Wu Teh-chen, defense commissioner here, Foochow is defended by one division of government troops and a large contingent of marines, who have built semi-circular trench defenses radiating eight miles about the city. Several squadrons of Nanking airplanes also are available for bombing the outlaws in the event the situation becomes critical. The rebels are reported to be advancing down the Min river to a point twelve miles northwest of Foochow.

Americans Not in Danger.

American missionaries vacationing at a mountain resort near the city are not endangered at present. The Japanese have ordered their residents to prepare for evacuation in case of emergency. A report from Hongkong said that the British had also sent a destroyer to the scene. A Nanking report claimed that three Red leaders —Kung Ho-lung, Yuh Sing-chou, and Hsiao Hsiang-shao—were recently captured.

HELEN KELLER'S READING TEACHER IS GOING BLIND

Once Helpless Pupil Now Guides Friend.

INVERNESS, Scotland, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A touching story of friendship and devotion, enduring 40 years and more, is unfolded at a little northern Scottish highlands farm as lengthening shadows dim the sight of the woman who taught Helen Keller to read and speak.

The teacher and long-time friend is Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy.

Now she is slowly going blind, and it is her once helpless pupil who guides, strengthens and comforts her as she teaches her faltering fingers to follow the Braille alphabet Mrs. Macy once taught her now famous charge.

Pupil Turns Teacher.

A large hill guards the peace of the quiet, white little farm in Rossshire as pupil turns teacher and blind leads blind through ever lengthening shadows.

More than 40 years ago Miss Anne Sullivan went to a sunny American home to become companion and teacher to a little girl—Helen Keller—made rebellious by the dark and silent world in which she lived.

With infinite patience, love—and difficulty—the young woman at length taught her pupil to speak and to read in Braille.

The pupil progressed and became world famous. The teacher married and became Mrs. Macy. The ties which bound them were strong; they remained inseparable companions.

Two Settle in Countryside.

Two years ago Miss Keller and Mrs. Macy came to Scotland and settled in the peaceful Rossshire countryside.

Last fall the shadows began to dim the eyes of the one-time teacher. They never had been strong, friends say, and as winter closed around the little highland glen, darkness began shutting her off from the world.

Teacher became ill, and pupil rushed faithfully to her side. Miss Keller sat by her bed, spiritually guiding her through her own strong will, physically guiding the one-time teacher's fingers over the Braille characters which once she knew so well but had long since forgotten.

Now, in the quiet peace of the long summer evenings, the two walk through the fields around the farm. Mrs. Macy can distinguish light from darkness; colors she can scarcely recognize.

Tragedy for Teacher.

"I am afraid there is no hope for her sight," says a friend. "She is not like Helen. She has known the world —and now she is losing it. For her it is a great tragedy."

Miss Keller sometimes walks without her pupil. It is in the early morning hours just before dawn, through dew-drenched lanes, her heart heavy with compassion for her companion.

The tragic affliction has brought the two closer.

"Now I feel even nearer to her," says Miss Keller. "Ours is a friendship which even death will not sever."

Miss Keller intends to return with Mrs. Macy to America this fall. Then it is hoped she can undergo an operation to stay the curtain of darkness which slowly, but surely it is feared, is falling.

IDENTIFY WOMAN KILLED IN LEAP FROM I. C. TRAIN

The body of a woman found yesterday beside the Illinois Central railroad tracks near Neoga in Cumberland county, 200 miles southwest of Chicago, was identified last night as that of Mrs. Malvina Scott Barrett, 42 years old, of Memphis, Tenn. The body was identified by her two sisters, Mrs. Tracy Buckingham, 721 Hill road, Winnetka, who went to Neoga yesterday, and Mrs. E. T. Konsberg, 1100 Crescent lane, Winnetka.

Mrs. Barrett, who left Chicago Thursday night on an Illinois Central train bound for Memphis, apparently leaped from the train shortly after it passed through Neoga. She left a note for a companion who was sleeping in the berth above her in which she indicated her intention to commit suicide. The full contents of the note were not disclosed.

Mrs. Barrett was discovered to be missing when the train reached Memphis yesterday morning. Her sisters, who accompanied the body from Neoga to Memphis last night, said that Mrs. Barrett had visited them after a trip to New York.

4,166 READY TO LAUNCH WAR ON RAGWEED MENACE

An army of 4,166 workers from the relief rolls is soon to launch a campaign against the ragweed, bane of sufferers from hay fever, asthma, catarrh, and other respiratory ills, it was announced yesterday by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

Working in 160 groups of twenty-five men and a foreman each, they will cover the entire city, clearing poisonous plants and noxious weeds from streets, alleys, parkways, vacant lots, and other plots. While the initial attack will be directed against ragweed, other plants will be taken in turn, Mr. Reynolds said.

The men will be chosen from the needy idle in the city. They will work under the supervision of the department of public works and the bureau of streets and electricity. About $700,000 will be paid to the men during the thirty-two days it is estimated the work will take, according to Mr. Reynolds.

NEW WILLS FILED IN PROBATE COURT

MARY COURT, died June 23. Estate, $13,000, to nephew, William C. A. Stevenson, executor.

ELLA E. ELDRIDGE, died April 30. Estate, $20,000, to two sisters and nephew, Clara C. Hannon, sister, executrix.

OLIVIA WEEDEN, died July 22. Estate, $8,000, to two daughters, Gerda Weeden, daughter, executrix.

Chilean Air Force Plane Crashes and Burns; 3 Die

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A Chilean air force plane, with the bodies of its three military occupants charred by fire, was discovered late Wednesday at Los Sauces, near Ovalle, in the province of Coquimbo. The news reached here today. The crew had been engaged in making photographic air maps of Chile. The air force is investigating the cause of the apparent accident.

CHILDREN LEARN HOW TO BE GOOD INDIANS IN CAMP

Algonquin Aids Them to Gain Health.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Eighty-four young "Indians" filed to a high lookout over the Fox river an hour before sunset last night to enact a ceremonial in honor of their adopted ancestors who roamed the same acres of Camp Algonquin a hundred years ago.

Forming a wide circle, they raised and lowered their arms to a jargon of Indian syllables. Then burst three mighty "How, how, how's," and tribes Mohican, Ojibwa, Micmac, and Rising Sun single-filed through the tall meadow grass, startled a grazing white horse, slipped lithely through a barbed wire fence, and completed their ceremonial around a crackling camp fire, munching pop corn.

How to Be "Good Indians."

For the last five weeks the four tribes of boys and girls, 8 to 12 years old, have been learning at Camp Algonquin how to be "good Indians" in more ways than one. They learned to drink their milk, eat their cereal, take naps every days, and wash their necks and ears. A great many learned to quit spearing the bread across the table and to say "Thank you" and "If you please."

"You'd never know those energetic, healthy little bodies were the same ones who came out from town to spend the summer as Camp Algonquin's undernourished group," one counselor observed as she watched the eager faces of the "braves" and "squaws" intent on a "big chief's" story of Indian lore. "Some of them look pretty thin yet, but they're in good condition, and nearly all have gained in weight."

Within a few days the four tribes expect to build a village of wigwams of poles cut from the forest and muslin upon which they will paint the tribal symbols. In the process of building now is a cardboard model of the village. Later an Indian pageant is planned, in which the all-summer children will demonstrate their knowledge of ceremonial dances, Indian language and signs.

Busy Daily Program.

In addition to their health gains the tribes have a full daily program of activity under the direction of trained counselors and a nurse. During the morning they tidy their dormitories, have assembly with songs, stories, and midmorning milk and crackers, go on hikes and nature trips, boat or swim, and have a rest period. After lunch they rest again, from 1:30 to 2:15; go for a swim, make pottery, sew, etc.; have supper; then play until 7:30. By 8 o'clock they are in bed.

The all-summer children will remain at camp until the last of August. The mothers and children who come for two weeks' vacations will be received until the middle of September. Yesterday the 140 who arrived from Chicago Thursday were "weighed in," learned the daily program, and began making friends in their new home. Babies played in the nursery, the kindergarten age reveled in the sandpile, mothers explored the river and selected prospective fishing spots, and the older children tried out the rowboats.

Thus the vacation days slip by in the camp which TRIBUNE readers help maintain with their contributions and which is so ably directed by Mrs. Astrid Save, its superintendent for many years.

CHARGE CODES OPPRESS SMALL PLANTS, PUBLIC

41 Concerns Fight Dictation of NRA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—Charges that the NRA codes foster monopolies, promote the very type of unfair competition that they are supposed to prevent, and tend to oppress the small manufacturer, to the injury of the public, are made in answers filed with the federal trade commission by three rubber companies and one ice company today.

The answers, all challenging the validity of the codes, were filed by the Purity Ice company of Lakeland, Fla.; the Phillips-Baker Rubber company of Providence, R. I.; the La Crosse Rubber mills, La Crosse, Wis., and the Goodyear Rubber company, Middletown, Conn. [not Goodyear Tire and Rubber company of Akron, O.], to complaints charging violation of the codes and the trade commission act of congress.

Charges Against Concerns.

The ice company, a small concern with an output of only 10 tons a day, is charged with doing business without obtaining a certificates of public convenience and necessity, in violation of the code for the ice industry, and the rubber companies are accused of failure to file a schedule of their unit prices, discounts, and terms of sale with the administrator of the code for the rubber manufacturing industry.

The ice concern says its only competitor is the Federal Ice company, which has an output of 325 tons a day, operates plants throughout the state of Florida, and is known colloquially as "The Florida Ice Trust."

"The purpose of this proceeding," the answer avers, "is to create within Lakeland and thereabouts a distinct monopoly in the manufacture and sale of ice—injurious to the public and contrary to the laws of the United States."

Deny Code Was Approved.

The rubber companies, all makers of rubber soled footwear, said the rubber manufacturers' code was never presented to or approved by the rubber footwear division of the industry, but that its adoption was recommended by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, after ex-parte conferences.

"The provisions of the code are contrary to the purposes of the national industrial recovery act in that they tend to eliminate and oppress small enterprises and to discriminate against them and to promote monopolistic practices," says the answer. "They, therefore, are not binding upon the respondents.

"The provisions permit competitors to know and meet respondents' prices and to appropriate their customers by rendering such customers services which the respondents cannot render."

Hundreds of Codes Involved.

Taking of evidence in the rubber case will begin Aug. 13 before the commission. This is the major case, since it alone involves nearly 300 codes, and an adverse decision by the commission, if approved by higher courts, might disrupt most of these.

A hundred or more codes have provisions for controling production, either by limiting hours of machine operation, or addition of capacity. These codes were thrown into controversy by the ice case, for which a date for hearing has not been set.

Meanwhile NRA issued a statement saying NRA codes had been upheld by decisions in 90 per cent of the cases which so far have come up for adjudication. NRA lost in only three of thirty cases, but no case which it instituted. There are 66 cases pending in federal courts or before the trade commission, and another 1200 are being prepared by NRA's litigation division in cooperation with the department of justice.

ASK DEPOSIT OF TOLEDO BONDS; FORCE ECONOMY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—The committee for holders of City of Toledo, Ohio bonds, today issued a call for the deposit of the bonds which matured last year and this year, which are in default, and of bonds due later this year and in 1935. Holders were asked to deposit their bonds immediately in order to protect their interests. The Bankers Trust company, New York, has been named as the depositary.

The committee states that action is necessary to compel the city officials to reduce operating expenses and to prevent further diversion of funds from debt service to operating expenses. It is charged that whereas operating expenses from 1934 were estimated at $1,938,00, expenditures for the first five months of this year reached $1,258,741, while receipts during the period were only $847,980, less $193,496 needed to retire tax certificates, or net receipts of $654,484. This left a deficit for the period of $604,257. The city defaulted on payment of maturities on its bonds beginning Sept. 1, 1933.

F. B. Bourland Appointed State Appraiser of HOLC

F. B. Bourland of the F. B. Bourland company, Peoria, who last April was made assistant state appraiser for the Home Owners' Loan corporation in Illinois, has been officially appointed state appraiser for the HOLC. Mr. Bourland is president of the Building Owners and Managers' Association of Peoria. He was president of the Peoria Real Estate board for three successive years.

Chicago Grain Board Seat Brings $7,600, Up $100

NRA Is Asked to Boost Tire Prices 7 to 10%

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The NRA was asked today to approve an increase in the minimum retail prices of tires ranging from 7.1 to 10 per cent.

The request was made by the tire manufacturing industry represented at a public hearing by A. L. Viles of New York, secretary of the Rubber Manufacturers' association and a member of the industry's code authority.

Viles asserted that thousands of small independent dealers are making profits of only 3 per cent on the present levels and would be forced out of business unless granted the increases.

Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson established the present "floor," or minimum, prices last May with the declaration that the tire industry was suffering from "destructive price cutting" and an emergency existed.

Calls Increases Necessary.

The floor prices set then, Viles said, have become the standard prices and "moderate" increases are necessary. Viles also requested that in addition to raising the price levels, differentials be established with nationally known tires retailing at 5¼ per cent higher than others.

The requested increases in passenger car tires raquested were 9.6 per cent, 7.1 and 8.3 per cent, depending on the classification; truck tires 9.5 per cent and tubes 9.5 and 10 per cent, depending upon the classification.

In the passenger and truck tire provisions, floor prices for Firestone High Speed, General, Goodrich Silvertown, Goodyear All Weather, and United States Royal tires would be 5¼ per cent higher than the floor level proposed for other brands.

The proposed increases also provided that on mail order tire sales, if actually made by mail through the medium of catalogs as distinguished from retail store sales, a floor level 10 per cent below the requested new level be established.

Trimborn Approves Boost.

Approval of the proposed increases was given by N. P. Trimborn, chairman of the code authority, and M. J. Barry of Baltimore, president of the National Tire Dealers' association.

An attack, however, on any form of price fixing was made by E. Rosenfeld, Philadelphia tire dealer, and his attorney, Martin Feldman. Feldman declared price fixing is "unsound in principal and practice" and asserted the floor prices now in effect have not worked satisfactorily.

Trimborn asserted that a questionnaire showed that 90 per cent of 500 dealers in 500 markets were in favor of minimum prices and only four did not desire an increase.

The code authority, Trimborn said, has concluded that if small independent dealers are to continue in existence and price wars be averted there must be a redetermination of minimum prices and differentials must be established.

AAA KEEPS UP WHEAT CUTTING; PREDICT PLENTY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—As the farm administration prepares to carry on its wheat production control program for another year, a spokesman said today there was no need for alarm despite expressed fears of a grain shortage because of this year's drouth.

"There's plenty of wheat," said George E. Farrell, chief of the wheat section of the Agricultural Adjustment administration. Production this year, he said, and the carryover from previous years make a total of around 750,000,000 bushels. Subtracting the estimated 625,000,000 bushels needed for consumption would leave, he said, a 125,000,000 bushel carryover as of July 1, 1935.

"We probably will start with around 120,000,000 bushels," Farrell said. "With a 15 per cent reduction in acreage, we might expect, if we have a normal crop, a production of 780,000,000 bushels. Adding the 120,000,000 bushel carryover and subtracting the 625,000,000 bushels needed for the year, would leave a 275,000,000 bushel carryover as of July 1, 1936.

"With controled production, that's not too much. We could export 100,000,000 bushels and still have a 175,000,000 bushel carryover. But if we took off all restraint and had a 900,000,000 bushel crop, we would have a 400,000,000 bushel carryover."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—The Texas Gulf Sulphur company has concluded negotiations, it was announced today, for the purchase of the 50 per cent interest of the Gulf Oil company in Texas sulphur properties now operated jointly under a development agreement entered into several years ago.

Texas Gulf Sulphur has agreed to issue to Gulf Oil 1,300,000 shares of stock. On the basis of prevailing prices for shares of Texas Gulf Sulphur the deal is one of the biggest in the industrial field since the onset of the depression, involving an issue of stock with an approximate market value of $44,125,000.

DOLLAR DIPS SHARPLY ON FOREIGN SELLING; INFLATION IS FEARED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3—On a selling movement initiated abroad, the dollar dropped sharply in terms of all leading European currencies. Presumably the foreign interpretation placed on secretary of the Treasury Morganthau's statement yesterday announcing the printing of new silver notes was that it represented direct inflation. The net result was that the dollar had its widest decline in many weeks.

The French franc touched 6.62 cents today, the highest level since June 11, and closed at 6.61⅝, up 2⅛ points on the day. Sterling closed at $5.04½, up ⅞ of a cent, and German marks jumped 24 points to 39 cents. The Dutch guilder shot up 21 points and Swiss francs 12 points. The Italian lira and the Belgian belga were up 3 and 8 points, respectively, and the Scandinavian rates climbed 4 to 7 points.

The French franc generally took the lead among the various currencies against the dollar and houses here with French connections reported that financial Paris was beset with rumors regarding American inflation, including one rumor of an impending rise in the American gold price.

The sharp rise in the franc automatically shut off possibilities of further shipments of the metal to New York from Paris. When the franc is higher than 6.59 cents there is virtually no opportunity for profit in gold shipments here. At the closing price for francs, the dollar was valued at a premium of 0.29 of a cent over par, compared with 0.62 of a cent yesterday and 0.54 of a cent a month ago.

The New York Federal Reserve bank reported the receipt of $6,585,500 in gold in its statement today. Of this, $2,989,600 was additional for Thursday, $2,298,100 coming from England and $691,500 from France. Of today's receipts, $1,675,500 came from Canada, $1,656,100 from England, and $264,300 from France. The price of gold in London dipped a penny to 138 shillings 1 penny a fine ounce [equivalent to $34.78] and an amount valued at $1,061,576 changed hands.

EASTMAN PLANS TO CUT HAULING OF EMPTY CARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—Disappointed by the failure of railway executives to reduce the number of empty freight cars shuttling back and forth across the continent, Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, announced today that he would soon submit "specific recommendations" on the subject.

His statement, contained in a letter to regional coördinating committees, said that a report on the problem, sponsored by the general committee of the transportation division of the American Railway association, did not urge a "single fundamental change." He called the report largely a "defense of existing methods," and an "anti-climax." Parts of it were, he stated, "somewhat superficial" in their discussions.

Last October, Eastman sent the regional coördinating committees a study showing that despite the decline in railroad trafic and the consequent need for operating economies, the "cross haul movement of empty cars, which has been a disturbing subject for more than thirty years, continues unchecked." He estimated there had been an equivalent of 2,600,000,000 empty car miles in 1932.

Collateral Borrowings 3 Per Cent of Stock Value

Total borrowings against collateral by members of the New York Stock exchange on Aug. 1 were 3 per cent of the market value of all shares listed, compared with 3.14 per cent on July 1, the exchange announced yesterday.

August Starts with Sign of Trade Pickup

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—"Although there are numerous exceptions, August has started with more evidence of sustained improvement than characterized trade movements a month ago," says the weekly Dun & Bradstreet trade review. "More trends are reaching toward higher points and current indications reveal that fall trade may not decline much below that of last year, but it will be on a more orderly basis, devoid of the extreme fluctuations of that period.

"Stocks in most parts of the country have not reached unmanageable proportions, and as production currently is being held in close alignment with consumption the steadiness of the price structure is assured.

Retail Trade Above Year Ago.

"The maintenance of retail distribution above the comparative level of a year ago is one of the most reassuring factors in the current situation. The reports this week showed the largest gains on the Pacific coast, where postponed buying of urgent needs crowded the stores with shoppers who had been forced to curtail budgets for more than two months on account of the strike.

"In the midwest there was a brisk turn for the better in most districts, while in the east more comfortable summer weather and special promotional events lifted the total of retail sales to the best position achieved in nearly three weeks.

"In the southwest the industrial and wholesale divisions have been effected seriously by the drouth, but retail trade has held up remarkably well, with the gains in sales running steadily around 25 per cent better than at this period a year ago.

Hot Weather Goods Active.

"The final month of the summer season has been launched under particularly propitious circumstances for retailers. To the continuance of the strong demand for hot weather needs has been added the stimulus of the special promotional events, which this year have been extended to a greater number of store divisions, resulting in the sales total rising 5 to 7 per cent above that of the week preceding. The comparison with the figures for the corresponding week of 1933 reveals a rather surprising gain of 10 to 15 per cent for the country as a whole."

The agency finds that although business has already started upward again there is an urgent need for some strong stimulus to enable the turn to gather momentum, and suggests that extension of industrial credits by the government, coupled with the home modernization program, will make long strides in the desired direction.

The business activity barometer of the agency reversed the downward trend of the preceding three weeks, rising 0.1 of a point to 62.8.

STOCK DIVIDEND PAID BY PARKER RUST-PROOF CO.

Parker Rust-Proof company yesterday declared a stock dividend of 10 per cent and the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common stock, both payable Aug. 20. A 10 per cent stock dividend was also paid in the preceding quarter.

Lerner Stores corporation declared a dividend of $1.62½ on the 6½ per cent preferred on account of accumulations, payable Aug. 17.

Crown Cork and Seal company decents a share on the common, paydeclared a quarterly dividend of 25 able Sept. 6, the first payment since June 20, 1932.

Belden Manufacturing company declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common, payable Aug. 15, compared with 50 cents paid previously.

American Steel Foundries declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on the 7 per cent preferred, payable Sept. 29, on account of accumulations, which will amount to $8.75 a share after this payment.

Vick Chemical company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share and an extra dividend of 10 cents a share, payable Sept. 1.

Send First Cargo Abroad from Oil Fields in Iraq

BAGHDAD, Iraq, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Commercial exploitation of the Iraq oil fields was inaugurated today with the sailing of the oil tanker Henry Despriz from Tripoli, Syria, for Le Havre, carrying 14,000 tons of oil. The Iraq Petroleum company, which has held concessions since 1925 for the exploitation of oil from the Baghdad and Mosul districts, is international in its ownership, the American interests being 23¾ per cent.

DAY'S TRADING DROPS TO ONLY 15 SHARES ON BOARD OF TRADE HERE

Trading on the country's stock exchanges has become something like the drouth—a subject for old timers to rack their brains in efforts to recall any like situations in the past.

Activity—if such a term can be used—dropped to two odd lot sales totaling 15 shares yesterday in Chicago Board of Trade stocks. It was said that nothing like this had even been recorded before. Brokerage fees would figure at $2.25 on the basis of 15 cents a share for stocks selling between 25 and 50. Five shares of Standard Oil of Indiana, quoted at 26 on Thursday, and 10 shares of General American Transportation, at 33½ on Thursday, constituted the day's business. No quotations are sent out on odd lot sales.

The New York Stock exchange trading was 465,910 shares, in line with recent lack of activity. Trading withered to only 90,000 shares during the third and fourth hours. Other figures showed 98,000 shares on the New York Curb and 20,000 on the Chicago Stock exchange.

VINEYARD, ONCE CHURCH OWNED, MAY ISSUE STOCK

The O-Neh-Da Vineyard and Distillery, Inc., Conesus, Livingston county, near Rochester, N. Y., proposes to issue 300,000 shares of common stock at $1.30 each, according to a registration statement filed with the federal trade commission at Washington. The proceeds of the issue would be used for the rehabilitation of vineyard and installation of distilling machinery and equipment for producing wines and distilling fruit juices and cordials.

The Society of the Divine Word, an international organization of missionary workers, with headquarters at Techny, Ill., near Deerfield, promoters and former owners of O-Neh-Da Vineyard, are to receive 150,000 shares of the issuer's common stock in exchange for property, plant and equipment valued at $201,920.

The new corporation's stock will be purchased by Financial and Security corporation, 521 Fifth avenue, New York City, and sold to the public at $1 a share. John E. Sullivan, receiver for the Garfield State bank, is described in the federal trade commission's report as president of the corporation, with the Rev. Mr. Bernard J. Bonk, Techny, treasurer.

The vineyard in New York has long been owned by the society, having previously been in the possession of the bishop of Rochester. Formerly grapes from the vineyard were used in making wines for uses of the society, but the products will now be offered to the public. Father Feiges represents the society at the vineyard and will supervise operations.

BLAMES DEALERS FOR NOT BACKING SECURITIES ACT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Baldwin B. Bane, executive assistant of the securities and exchange commission, has informed a group of New York underwriting houses that they have been lax in helping make the securities act workable.

He informed representatives of about 20 important firms that much of their criticism of the act might have been answered had they come to him with suggestions rather than staying away with criticism. Bane's remarks, made in New York, brought promises, however, from the underwriters that they intended to be much freer with their advice.

The securities act is now administered by the federal trade commission, but soon will be the new securities and exchange commission. Bane administered the securities act for the trade commission, and goes over to the SEC as an administrative supervisor.

The securities act was made somewhat less stringent by the last congress. It was attacked as retarding the flow of the new issues, but its amendment has not yet increased that flow. June statistics, on the contrary, show a substantial decline, and the July record is not much better. Officials believe the stagnation simply represents a similar stagnation in the capital markets. They look for an upturn in the fall.

Stone & Webster Reports $12,246,716 Gross Earning

Stone & Webster report for the second quarter ended June 30 gross earnings of $12,246,716, compared with $11,519,821 in the June quarter of 1933. There was a balance after charges, but before preferred dividends, of $1,285,514, compared with $1,391,996 a year ago.

PROFIT TAKING AGAIN APPEARS IN GRAIN MARTS

Prices Move Within Narrow Range.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Grain prices fluctuated in a narrow trading range yesterday and closed without material change, although the character of the news continued bullish. Continued dry and hot weather held sway over the greater part of the grain belt, relieved in isolated spots by good rains.

The forecast held some promise of scattered showers overnight. Profit taking sales again appeared in the market, but buying was present in sufficient volume to prevent any serious price recessions.

The final quotations on wheat futures represented losses of ¼ to ⅝ cent a bushel with the September contract, the most important delivery, closing at $1.02⅞. Corn showed a better tone and final prices were ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher, with the principal contract closing at 71¼ cents a bushel.

Rye Futures Gain.

Rye futures closed a cent higher. Receipts of the latter grains in all markets are light and consumer demand must be met for the most part out of surplus stocks or imported grain. Prices on oats futures showed little change.

The extent of the damage to this year's crop by the prolonged drouth is now fairly definitly ascertained and increasing apprehension is being expressed over the potential damage to the new winter wheat crop. Only a material increase in rainfall during the next two months will lay the proper foundation for the new crop. B. W. Snow says that the rainfall during July, August, and September has more influence on the ensuing winter wheat crop than the moisture conditions existing during any other period of the season.

New Threat Arises.

The poor wheat crop this year followed the short crop season of 1933 and there is a threat that the condition will persist through the next season. Short as the crops seemed in 1933 the yields this year make unfavorable comparisons for each of the leading grains. The following table shows this year's estimated crops compared with actual returns in the preceding two years in bushels [000,000]:

	1934.	1933.	1932.
Wheat	482	527	744
Corn	1,658	2,331	2,907
Oats	525	722	1,246
Rye	18	21	41
Barley	120	156	302
Total	2,813	3,757	5,240

The table shows that the corn crop alone in 1932 was in excess of this year's indicated production of all grains. Increasing doubt is felt that the federal government will have the courage to go ahead with its acreage reduction plans for another year in the face of diminishing yields and potential short crops in 1934.

Fear Effect of Inflation.

Although the principal world grain markets have shown a tendency to move in greater unison recently than they have for some time, there is one factor that is working against international operations. With steady expansion in government expenditures and the threat it contains of further inflation, the grain trader cannot risk spreads between international markets, a Chicago house points out.

The prospect of monetary changes also discourages short selling on a big scale and as a consequence places the market in a position more vulnerable to any sharp change in sentiment, the firm adds.

WEIGH PURPOSE OF LISTING U. S. STOCK IN CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—The action of the American Cyanamid company in listing its capital stock and debentures on the Toronto Stock exchange attracted widespread interest today. Trading will begin next Tuesday.

It was the first move of its kind by any American corporation since the enactment of the securities exchange act by the last congress and came barely two months before the major provisions of the new law become effective.

The company explained that its move was taken to provide a broader market for the benefit of its shareholders, many of whom reside in Canada. The company has large interests and a growing business in Canada, it was added.

Regardless of the fundamental purpose of the listing on the Toronto exchange, it was pointed out that the action will open the way for arbitrage dealings in the issue, which at present is listed on the New York curb exchange.

WEIRTON STEEL MEETS QUERIES IN SUIT BY U. S.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Weirton Steel company, ordered by court to answer interrogatories of the federal government in connection with its injunction suit, filed the data with the United States district clerk today.

Hearings on the government's petition for a rule to restrain the company from taking any part in the balloting of its employés for collective bargaining representatives is scheduled for Sept. 5.

The company said it was a subsidiary of the National Steel corporation and stated its plants operated as high as 90.42 per cent of total capacity in March, 1934. The low point of operations since Jan. 1, 1933, was last October, when production fell to 36.09 per cent. The total gross tonnage of all products at the Weirton plants in 1933 was 577,976. In the first three months of this year it totaled 179,730.

Roads Cannot Raise Half of New Deal Cost

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Less than half the estimated 360 millions of railroad operating expenses created by recent New Deal legislation can be passed along to the public in the form of higher rates, it was learned yesterday.

HALE HOLDEN.

Next week the special committee of railroad trafic executives, who for three weeks have been trying to figure out a schedule of rate boosts, will convene again at the Drake hotel, but they will report that they have found means of squeezing only a prospective 170 millions of the necessary 360 millions out of the shipping public.

No official announcement has been issued by the railroad officials and the discovery that present rates are almost all that the public will bear without taking to the highways and the waterways is supposed to be a secret held by the worried rail executives, but insiders admitted yesterday that the railroads had abandoned hopes of raising more than 170 millions in additional income by means of rate increases.

Nor is the 170 millions a sure bet. When the trafic committee presented its schedule of suggested rate boosts to the railroad presidents a few days ago almost every railroad strenuously objected to those increases which would affect its own business.

L. A. DOWNS.

Hale Holden, chairman of the Southern Pacific, strongly objected to proposed increases in the rates on perishable fruits from the Pacific coast and the Santa Fe and Union Pacific were also reluctant to take any step which might drive more of their business to ships operating through the Panama canal. President Downs of the Illinois Central was willing to try the proposed experiment in the hope that the net change in revenues would be on the plus side.

Eastern railroad heads raised a loud protest against the proposed boost in coal rates, saying that it would give oil a bigger competitive advantage and cause much coal tonnage to disappear entirely.

Said the president of one eastern line:

"The railroads transporting coal, and particularly in the shorter hauls are now beset with the most vigorous type of constantly growing truck competition, and any increase in the freight rates for shorter hauls will undoubtedly result in further substantial and permanent losses."

It would seem that if rate increases could drive coal trafic from the rails to the comparatively uneconomical handling by trucks, such increases could affect almost any commodity.

"It is quite notorious," continued the protesting eastern rail head, "that in the decade 1920-1930, when this country experienced perhaps the greatest industrial development in its entire history, that development did not increase bituminous coal production one pound.

"It did greatly increase the use in industry of such competitive forms of fuel and energy as oil, gas, and hydroelectric power, all of which are delivered to the consumer with a minimum of rail transportation or require none at all.

"Coal is no longer 'tied to the rails.'"

Apparently a lot of other goods formerly considered the exclusive business of the railroads is no longer "tied to the rails," because almost every railroad has raised some objection to the proposed increases.

But if hopes for boosting revenues 360 millions have faded, there has been no diminution in the reality of the 360 of additional expenses loaded on the railroads by recent legislation. The New York Central, for example, says that its coal bill alone will be 8 millions more than last year.

The conviction is growing in railroad circles that the professors of the New Deal are trying to engineer a short cut to government ownership by wrecking the carriers financially. Government ownership, they point out, would mean throwing a 26 billion dollar industry into politics and giving the politicians a million more jobs to play with.

Rail managements have suddenly realized that government ownership could be precipitated almost overnight should the New Dealers succeed in adding many more millions to railroad expenses. It would not require much more in the way of higher taxes and increased operating expenses to bring some of the weaker lines to the point where they couldn't meet the pay roll and then government ownership would be the "logical" solution politically.

TUMULTY STILL PAYING ON NOTE TO INSULL FIRM

Joseph P. Tumulty, former secretary to President Woodrow Wilson, was revealed yesterday as a subscriber who is still paying for stock in the defunct Insull Utilities Investments, Inc. F. Howard Eldridge, member of the law firm of Rosenthal, Hamill & Wormser, attorneys for the trustee of the company, said Tumulty had recently paid $3,814 on a note for $140,889 given by Tumulty which was secured by collateral.

Forty-two suits against subscribers who have defaulted or refused to make further payments were filed last month, Eldridge said, adding that no suit against Tumulty is contemplated.

CAR LOADINGS REVERSE TREND; DECLINE 6,016

Total of 608,848 Is Below Year Ago.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—Reversal of the upward trend in freight traffic of the country's leading carriers occurred during the last week in July, according to the weekly report issued today by the American Railway association.

Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended July 28 totaled 608,848 cars, a decrease of 6,016 from the preceding week and 35,991 under the corresponding week in 1933 but an increase of 97,745 above 1932. In the preceding week car loading increased 12,086 cars.

Miscellaneous Freight Lower.

Miscellaneous freight loaded during the week was 222,746 cars a decrease of 4,308 under the preceding week, 7,730 below 1933 and an increase of 45,040 above 1932.

Grain and grain products totaled 43,611 cars, a decrease of 3,527 below the preceding week but an increase of 10,082 above 1933 and 3,107 above 1932. In the western districts grain and grain products loaded totaled 27,396 cars, an increase of 5,231 above 1933.

Ore Shows Decline.

Coal amounted to 100,717 cars, an increase of 3,901 above the preceding week, but 29,056 below 1933. It was, however, an increase of 13,374 above 1932.

TOBACCO EXPORT FIGURES SHOW A SHARP RECOVERY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—A "notable improvement" in the American tobacco export trade in the first half of this year was reported today by the tobacco division of the department of commerce.

Sales abroad during the six months were valued at $45,336,350, the department said, which was 65 per cent ahead of the corresponding period for 1933 and within 29 per cent of the 1929 figure.

The return to leaf tobacco shippers for the first half of 1934 was more than $41,319,000, an increase of 70 per cent in income over the first six months last year. The value of manufactured tobacco exports in the six months period this year was $4,016,786 as compared with the 1933 period value of $3,117,949, or an increase of approximately 28.8 per cent.

Builder Asks Bankruptcy; Owes $14,201,205, Has $110

Morris Sugar, a builder and real estate operator, 2728 Warren boulevard, and his wife filed voluntary petitions in bankruptcy yesterday in the United States District court, listing aggregate liabilities of $14,201,205 and nominal assets of only $110. Of the liabilities, according to schedules filed, $6,265,000 is secured by real estate collateral. Some of the other debts consist of contingent liabilities in connection with notes and accommodation papers in real estate ventures.

TRADE IN STOCK MART CREEPS; PRICES LOWER

Weakness in Auto Shares Unsettles List.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—The lethargy of the dog days' season was upon the stock market today. Business was at a snail's pace throughout the five hour session, the sales total declining to around 460,000 shares.

Price trends were generally lower. Traders found the news from the trouble zones of Europe still more reassuring, but most of them seemed to regard the outlook for business improvement abroad, as well as at home, as being too hazy to warant much speculation on the upside. On the other hand, the expectancy that President Roosevelt may have some new project in behalf of recovery to announce upon his return to the nation's capital was a deterrent on the selling side.

Auto Group Weak.

Weakness in the automobile group was an unsettling influence on the market generally. Chrysler was a feature, selling down for a loss of 2⅞ points on disappointment over the half-yearly and quarterly earnings shown in yesterday's report. It had been expected that the company would do much better than the $1.38 a share for a half year.

Airplane stocks alone ran against the trend in group formation, with good gains predicated apparently on the belief of traders that all of the manufacturing companies will share in profits to be made from government business when the army and navy air forces are augmented. It has also been rumored that several substantial inquiries have been received from foreign governments.

Leaders Change Little.

The rails were generally lower. Atchison dipped 2 and Pennsylvania and Hudson 2.

The mines also had an off day. Losses of a point or more were the rule among such sometime favorites of the group as U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Howe Sound and McIntyre. National Lead showed its independence of group influence by rebounding some 4 points.

American Telephone set the utilities a rather poor example and the foods and oils did nothing worth while.

U. S. Rubber Shows Profit of $26,588 for Half Year

The United States Rubber company had a profit during the first six months of $26,588, after fixed charges of $1,861,511 and depreciation of $2,992,360, it was announced yesterday by F. B. Davis Jr., chairman of the board. Net sales for the period amounted to $52,435,958, compared with $36,494,680 for the corresponding period of last year. Current assets as of June 30 amounted to $54,236,412, including cash of $4,451,153 and marketable securities of $224,331. Current liabilities totaled $13,330,108.

PAY OF FACTORY WORKERS DROPS 1.6 PCT. IN JUNE

Weekly Earning Average Reported as $19.51.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—Average per capita weekly earnings of factory workers declined 1.6 per cent in June from May, the bureau of labor statistics announced today. As a partial offset to this drop, Commissioner Lubin pointed out that with the exception of March and April, per capita earnings were higher in June than in any other month since December, 1931, and 14 per cent higher than June, 1933.

Weekly earnings of factory employés averaged $19.51 in June, Mr. Lubin said.

Forty-one of the ninety manufacturing industries surveyed, he stated, showed gains in per capita weekly earnings from May to June. The largest percentage increases were in the following industries: Cement, 8.5; chewing and smoking tobacco, 7.1; plumbers' supplies, 5.9; cane sugar refining, 5.8; cottonseed oil, cake and meal, 5.8; carpets and rugs, 5.4.

49 Industries Decline.

Decreased weekly earnings were shown in 49 of the manufacturing industries. The larger percentage decreases were in the following: Cotton goods, 11.5; dyeing and finishing textiles, 11.1; women's clothing, 8.6; automobile, 8.4; millinery, 8.4; cast iron pipe, 8.2; canning and preserving, 8.0; clocks and watches, and time recording devices, 6.4.

In a number of industries the decreases were said to be due to a seasonal curtailment in activity. In cotton goods and dyeing and finishing textiles, the curtailment of operations order of the cotton textile code authority was chiefly responsible.

Wage rate increases between May 15 and June 15, average 9.8 per cent and affecting 53,366 employés, were reported by 359 of the 23,347 establishments surveyed in June.

Five Show Gains.

Five industries, locomotives, newspapers and periodicals, brass, bronze and copper products, rubber tires and inner tubes and lether] showed average wage rate advances ranging from 5.8 per cent to 10 per cent and affecting a total of 6,908 wage earners. The increases reported in the remaining industries affected less than 1,000 workers each.

Man hour data supplied by 17,945 manufacturing establishments showed a drop of 2.2 per cent in average hours worked per week in all manufacturing combined and an increase of 0.5 per cent in average hourly earnings. Thirty-seven of the industries covered showed increases in average hours worked per week and 54 reported increased hourly earnings.

Increases in average hourly earnings of factory workers have been shown in the bureau's tabulations each month since July, 1933. Average hourly earnings in June, 1934, were 55 cents. The net gain in hourly earnings from June, 1933, was 31 per cent.

STATE AUDITOR SEEKING TITLE TO BANK REALTY

A petition was filed in the circuit court yesterday by Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, asking authority for him to accept title to certain parcels of real estate held by the state as part of the security pledged by the defunct Peoples Trust and Savings bank against their trust liabilities.

The properties involved represented security for notes amounting to $207,000 signed by Jarvis Hunt, well known architect. The petition states that the notes are now in default and foreclosure proceedings would involve considerable loss to the state since their value has diminished greatly. It adds that a judgment against the signer of the notes would not be collectible because he is insolvent.

Mr. Barrett's petition says Hunt is willing to convey title to the state auditor in return for cancelation by the state of the mortgage indebtedness on the properties. This the state auditor agrees to do. The petition says title to the properties would be held by the state as security for the trust liabilities of the Peoples Trust.

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company is also named as a defendant in the bill because the Peoples Trust pledged the properties involved to that bank as collateral for a loan more than two years ago.

Paramount Publix Applies to Continue Reorganization

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—Trustees of the Paramount Publix corporation, which owns all of the stock of the Paramount Broadway corporation, have applied to continue with the reorganization plan agreed upon last spring with the Paramount Broadway bondholders' protective committee. Peter Grimm, chairman of the committee, says that it has been found necessary to reorganize Paramount Broadway under the bankruptcy act and that some formal changes in the reorganization plan were necessary. Hearing on the application will be held Aug. 9 before Referee John E. Joyce.

Plan to Ship Hay and Feed to 9 Iowa Drouth Counties

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Plans for shipping hundreds of tons of hay and other feed into nine drouth devastated southwestern Iowa counties were announced today by L. Oscar Challman, general FCA agent here. The nine counties, a parcel of those placed on the emergency drouth relief list last week, are Pottawattamie, Cass, Mills, Montgomery, Adams, Fremont, Page, Union, and Adair.

Foundry in Alabama Will Reopen; Strike Is Settled

Holt, Ala., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Officials of the Central Foundry company announced early this afternoon that terms had been reached with 850 striking workmen and that their plants here would resume operations Monday. Terms of settling the strike, which was called July 23 for a closed shop and a check-off, were not announced.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3. — Bond prices were again slightly higher on the stock exchange today in somewhat more active trading, although the day's volume was still below what is considered an average day's business.

Domestic corporation bonds showed the best strength. Foreign loans and long term United States government issues closed irregularly higher. The government issues were up 7-32ds to off 5-32ds point in a turnover of $1,709,600 of the $8,012,600 business for the listed bond market as a whole.

Utility issues showed the best average strength in the domestic list, with a spurt of 1⅛ to 4⅝ points in Interborough Rapid Transit obligations providing a feature. Manhattan Railway first 4s climbed 1½ points. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit issues were unchanged to fractionally higher. Other utilities to show gains were: American & Foreign Power, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Laclede Gas, New England Telephone, Ohio Public Service, and Western Union.

Point or Two Gains.

The major gains in the rail and industrial issues amounted to a point or two. Among the liens to sell lower were such issues as Santa Fe 4s, California Petroleum 5s, Canadian Pacific 5s, Cleveland Union Terminal 5½s, Sinclair 7s, Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s, and Wilson & Co., 6s, sold around ½ point lower. Great Northern 4½s declined 1¼ to 68⅛ and Nickel Plate 6s yielded ⅞ of a point to 63.

There was some demand for speculative time liens and among those so favored were obligations of the Denver & Rio Grande, General Theatre, Hudson Coal, International Great Northern, Wabash, and Wisconsin Central.

Foreign Bonds Steady.

Foreign loans did not generally respond to the advance in leading foreign exchange rates against the dollar today. Foreign bonds showed but modest gains, with a few issues sustaining minor setbacks. German government 7s sold off ⅛ while the 5½s gained ⅝. French and British government issues closed higher. Latin American loans were dull.

On the curb exchange domestic bonds were generally higher. Foreign loans were very dull.

Eureka Pipe Line.

Investors' Guide: If you can give me information on Eureka Pipe Line it will be gratefully received.—G. M. J.

Answer: Eureka Pipe Line company operates 4,696 miles of pipe line, reaching nearly all West Virginia wells. Capitalization of this one-time Standard Oil company unit consists solely of 50,000 shares of $100 par stock, which have paid dividends uninterruptedly since 1912. The current rate is $1 a quarter.

1933	6,070,193	$ 98,000	$1.95
1932	6,433,481	* 22,000	* .45
1931	8,598,779	212,000	4.23
1930	8,132,622	17,000	.34

*Loss.

Oil runs for the first six months of 1934 totaled 3,246,192 barrels, against 2,836,896 barrels in the first six months of 1933.

Current position at the close of 1933 was strong, with cash assets of almost $2,000,000 against current liabilities of $149,000. Payment of dividends in excess of earnings in twelve out of the last fourteen years brought profit and loss surplus down to $555,000. The stock is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Lost Bond.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly advise the writer as to what to do when a United States bond is either lost, stolen, or mislaid? I have a friend that lives near here that has asked me for advice.—K. L. H.

Answer: Since coupon bonds pass readily from hand to hand, much in the manner of currency, your friend's chances of recovery on the bond, if it has come into the possession of some one else, are remote. If the wrongful taker of the bond transfers it to an innocent third person for value, the third person would obtain good title.

About all you can do is to have your friend write to the department of the treasury of the United States at Washington, D. C., giving them all the facts [number of the bond, maturity date, circumstances of losing, etc.]. When the bond is eventually presented for payment the treasury will notify your friend as to who presented it. From that slim clew your friend might be able to check back as to who took the bond.

If the bond was registered your friend will continue to receive interest checks.
